As the century draws to a close,so does the first 100 years of USL's history. An interesting one it has been, suffering the growing pains and spurts of any child. And as children make their p[illegible]d, it is our h[illegible] associated wit[illegible] will be [illegible] accomplishmen[illegible] ok you hold in your ha[illegible] attempt to captu[illegible]all that mak[illegible] University of Southwestern Louisiana the way it is. COURT

...she would be queen.

The week of activities for homecoming did not officially start until October 11th, but the planning for the week's activities started in the late summer. Once all plans are made, the first major aspect to be taken care of is the selection of homecoming court.

This year, 48 young ladies nominated by different student organizations turned in applications in hopes of being selected as a member of the court. After the first set of interviews, the list was reduced to 24 possibilities. then, on one night, they all gathered for the last opportunity to convince to judges that they were the best person to represent USL as a member of the court. At the end of the night, the results were in. The 1998 Homecoming court would consist of:

Marie DesOrmeaux - nominated by Kappa Delta
Lori Osterburg - nominated by the Baptist Student Union
Joy Blanchard - nominated by The Society For Professional Journalists
Tracy Landry - nominated by the USL Varsity Cheerleaders

and the 1998 Homecoming Queen:
Kim Cribb - Nominated by the Student Government Association.

Once selected, the members of the court got to work preparing for the week of October 11th - 17th, Homecoming Week.

The week officially kicked off on October 11th, with the Court Reception at the Alumni Center. Sunday was also the day organizations started to show their spirit by placing spirit displays in front of Dupre Library. The spirit display was only the beginning of a week's worth of Myth, Magic, and Madness. Organizations participated in many different activities such as the annual Yell Like Hell, the Bonfire, the cake giveaway, the Car Rally, and the Pep Rally. Organizations also competed among themselves in various activities in hopes of being winners of the sweepstakes competition, and above all, to show their spirit and pride for the Ragin Cajuns.

HOMECOMING SIGHTS & SOUNDS

...and victory would be ours.

Perhaps the biggest event of the week preceded the game on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. The Homecoming Parade rolled through the streets of Lafayette with over 50 entries. The entries consisted of student organizations, local businesses, radio stations, and community organizations. This year's Grand Marshall was local musician, Roddy Romero. The parade brought residents of Lafayette into the streets to support the Cajuns. Upon the parade's end, the activities for the sweepstake's completion were concluded. After the points for the week's events were tallied, the winners of the 1998 Sweepstakes Competition included: Sorority - Kappa Delta Fraternity - Kappa Sigma Independent - USL Band

The week concluded as everyone came together in support of the Ragin Cajuns as they played their hearts out against the Indians of Arkansas State. The game proved to be the biggest competition of the week, and the Cajuns went on to beat the Indians by a score of 24-21 in conclusion to a week's worth of activities, some positive, some not, true to it's theme: MYTH, MAGIC, & MADNESS!!!

A
In
The Making

Lagniappe Day

Began in 1974 as a boost for students' spirit, Lagniappe Day has become a campus tradition. Raymond Blanco, then Dean of Students, initiated the festivities when the NCAA put the USL basketball team on a two year suspension.

Originally an all day event, during which classes were canceled to allow students time to enjoy the celebration, Lagniappe Day is now an after- class event with activities continuing for a full week. All events lead up to the official kick-off of Lagniappe Day, the Cypress Lake jump, at noon on Friday of that week. This year, USL alumnus Phil Beridon made his twenty-first jump into Cypress Lake.

The festival has changed over the years, but students still look forward to Lagniappe Day every year. It is a great opportunity for students to not only have fun, but also to demonstrate school spirit.

BOOK BUYING MADNESS

Every semester begins and ends the same: in a line. And usually, you're in that line to buy books. While textbooks have never really been inexpensive, no semester would be the same without complaining about the cost. While most students still flock to the University Bookstore or Follet's, some have found Textbook Rentals to be an affordable solution. Any way you slice it, though, it's a pain, but one we hope will eventually pay off.

USL Publications

Calling all writers! Are you looking for a place to publish your work? Look no further that the USL English Department. The Southwestern Review is a yearly compilation of USL student work. Published in the Spring, the Review covers all major areas of writing. The collection contains fictional pieces, poetry, and essays. It can be found on the third floor of the library. While it cannot be checked out, students can obtain one to read while in the library. Any USL student is allowed to submit writings. The Southwestern Review is supported by the students of USL through self-assessed fees.

"Let you fingers do the walking," The Blue Key Directory may not be "The Real Yellow Pages," but it is the best equivalent for the USL community. Published once a year, the directory is a complete listing of all the faculty, students, their names, and their phone numbers. It is provided in the USL bookstore. But that's not all - inside you'll find a step by step guide to the university phone system. Also, there is information regarding the Blue Key Honor Fraternity.

If you are ever in need of a sports schedule, the Blue Key Directory can help. Inside there is a listing of most dates and times of men's and women's sports. In the back is a miniature version of commercial business listings. There you can find many commonly needed addresses and phone numbers that college students will often use. With a bit of luck, you may even find some coupons to ease the strain on you wallet.

Have you ever walked around campus and seen countless stacks of ads and magazines in front of every building? If you're like most students at USL, you probably have. One of these magazines happens to be La Louisiane. Next time you pass by, take a look and pick up a copy. This highly informative full color magazine is aptly titled, "The Magazine of The University of Southwestern Louisiana." Inside you will find articles regarding all aspects of the university from student life to athletics to accomplishments and future plans.

This biannual publication was first begun in the late 80s. After a brief absence from printing, La Louisiane has been seen continuously on campus since the Fall of 1993. While many people contribute to the final project, there are three main positions on the staff. The position of editor has been filled by Ms. Kathleen Thames since 1993. Ms. Megan Barra is in charge of the layout and design. Finally, there is a student editor. Currently that editor is Ms. Lisa Blackburn.

The student editor position is open to all USL students. The term is for one year, however, that student has the option to re-apply for a second term. The position is open to all majors, and is filled through an application process and an example piece of work.

The magazine is funded through student assessed fees, advertisements, alumni donations, and by the university. It has a circulation of between 63 and 65 thousand but has printed as many as 69,000 copies of one issue. The finished product is mailed to the permanent address of every student. They are also placed all over campus in academic buildings, the dormitories, and in the Greed Community. Off-campus civic groups like United Way also receive La Louisiane. Louisiana high schools are sent copies for prospective students. Lastly, copies are sent to the Lafayette Government as well as to Louisiana State Government officials.

Students, this is a magazine that deals with your school. You help to fund it and should definitely take a look at it. As Ms. Thames has stated, "it is a university magazine, not just for alumni." Next time you see a rack of La Louisiane, pick up a copy to read and enjoy.

The History of
The University of Southwestern Louisiana

"SLII - SLI - USL - UL - USL - ????"

In 1898, Southwestern Louisiana Industrial Institute was created. In 1921 the name was changed to Southwestern Louisiana Institute. Finally, in 1960, the name was changed to its current state, The University of Southwestern Louisiana. This is part of the evolution of the title of this university. The name was changed as this establishment grew into the grand university that it is today.

In 1978 there began to be thoughts that perhaps the University's title was not finished evolving. At this time there were thoughts that the name was holding the University back. Discussions began about changing the name. The regional title gave the impression that USL was a small university, when it actually was the second largest in the state. Names such as The University of Acadiana, University of French Louisiana, University of Lafayette, and a few more were discussed. There were those that felt that all that needed to be done was take Southwestern out of the current title. In 1979, a poll showed the majority of students favoring the change. In 1981, the SGA campaigned for the university's title to become The University of Louisiana. It was also in this year that the SGA gained faculty support. In 1982, Over 80% of the students approved the change. In 1984, the administration was finally ready to actively pursue the issue.

On April 27,1984, the Board of Trustees approved the resolution. The next day the word Southwestern was painted over on signs in front of Blackham Coliseum, making them read "University of Louisiana." This change was opposed mostly by LSU's Chancellor at the time and Senator Cliff Newman from Lake Charles. On April 30 of the same year, Senator Newman introduced a bill to the senate to change the name back, and to take the authority away from the Board of Trustees to make such decisions. This would give the power to change names to the State Legislature. On May 10, 1984 the bill was approved. Despite the fact that the name was once again University of Southwestern Louisiana, over 1100 diplomas carrying the name "University of Louisiana" were distributed to 1984 graduates.

Even though the history of The University of Louisiana is extremely brief, it shows that the students and all others involved with the university are willing to fight for what they think is right. Despite the fact that their victory was short lived, the name changing issue is not completely at rest. The University of Louisiana will surely make a comeback.

Art

From the Center

to the Museum

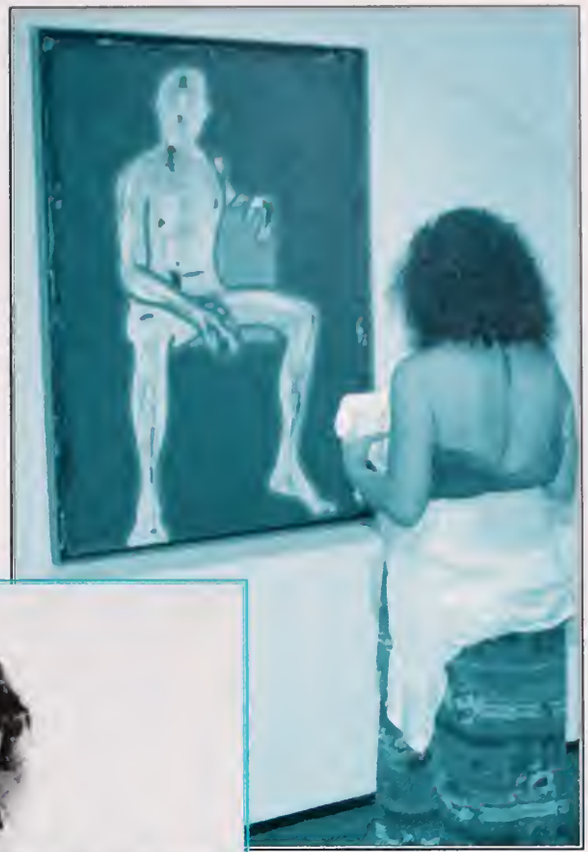

In 1988 the University art museum celebrated its twentieth anniversary. The Museum was opened in 1968 under the name Art Center for Southwestern Louisiana. The name changed in 1984 to the University Art Museum. This museum is located in Fletcher Hall. Through time this museum has evolved into a very important establishment which serves Lafayette and all of the surrounding areas.

The University Art Museum shows an array of professionally organized exhibitions. They also show and gain support for Louisiana artists and display culture expressed through art from around the world. In this way it provides a place where people of all ages and cultures can learn from one another through one of the oldest forms of communication, art. This establishment adds class and appeal to the university. Because of all these things this Museum is becoming a tourist attraction. It will aid in educating others about the unique culture that can be seen only here.

From Start

Photography by Lori Boutin

My first experience with USL was Freshman Orientation. Along with about 400 other entering freshman, I grabbed a little red mat and sat down on the floor of the Union Ballroom to listen to Dr. Marotta give a speech I would hear about 50 more times before I graduated. I spent the night in Bancroft and ate my first college cafeteria meal.

Things didn't stay that bad, though. I threw myself into college headlong and enjoyed every minute of it. Now, with hundreds of graduating seniors, I am looking forward to walking across that stage, grabbing my diploma, and shaking Dr. Authement's hand. No more little red mat, now I'll get a chair. No more Bancroft, now I live on my own. No more cafeteria food - I finally learned my way around Lafayette.

LAFAYETTE BECOMES A MAJOR-MINOR LEAGUE CITY

Just three years ago, the Lafayette sports scene was pretty simple. It consisted merely of USL and High School athletics. However, recently the focus has shifted to the professional teams that have found a supportive home in Lafayette. With the addition of the Bayou Bullfrogs in the Texas-Louisiana Baseball League, the city now boasts 3 minor professional teams in various sports.

Still the most popular of these teams is the Louisiana IceGators hockey team, which set even more records in just the team's third year of existence. The Gators chomped their way to two thirds of the team's preseason goals. Louisiana captured the Hibernia Cup, winning the regular season series between the IceGators, the Baton Rouge Kingfish, and the New Orleans Brass. They also claimed the Brabham Cup in winning the regular season championship. The Gators proceeded through rounds 1 and 2 of the playoffs with sweeps of Mobile and Pee Dee, but ran out of gas, losing in 6 games to the Pensacola Ice Pilots in the Southern Conference Championship. The team was led on the ice by Don Parsons, who led the league in scoring, goalie Doug Bonner, defenseman Chris Valicevic, and fan favorite (and L'acadien Editor favorite) Louis Dumont. The Gators were led behind the bench by Doug Shedden, the only head coach in the 3-year history of the team.

While the Gators could not capture the Championship, another Lafayette team did so in another sport. The Lafayette Swampcats of the Eastern Indoor Soccer League have proven to be a dynasty, winning league championships in each of the EISL's two years of play. Although the attention is not as focused on the Cats, the action, the excitement, and the success is there. About the only thing that the Swampcats lack is attendance, but two consecutive league championships ought to attract some more fans into the dome for next season, when the team attempts to three-peat. Head Coach Dave Poggi has assembled a winning team, with players such as Craig Rhodis, Baton Rouge native Scott Yerby, and goaltender Chuck Granade.

The Swampcats are no longer the only "Boys of Summer" in Lafayette. They were joined by the Bayou Bullfrogs this season, bringing yet another low-priced ticket to town. The Bullfrogs did not enjoy quite the same amount of success in their inaugural season. The crowds were not as big as they could've been, and the team was not as good as it could've been. It was one of those Jim Mora, "Coulda Woulda Shoulda" types of season. One main attraction for the Bullfrogs was former USL and New York Yankee pitcher Ron Guidry, who served as the team's pitching coach. Ron Guidry Appreciation Night brought a crowd of close to 5,000 fans, the largest of the season. Manager Steve Dillard did what he could, but the team found very few marks in the win column at season's end.

The future looks bright for the further expansion of the Lafayette sports scene. With a healthy economy, and a premier arena in the Cajundome, the city looks attractive to owners looking to either start a team up or move a team from another market. For whatever the reason, the sports fans of Acadiana are being given many opportunities to see a higher level of competition. Will there ever be a major-league team in Lafayette? We'll just have to wait and see!

DANCING ON WAVES OF MUSIC

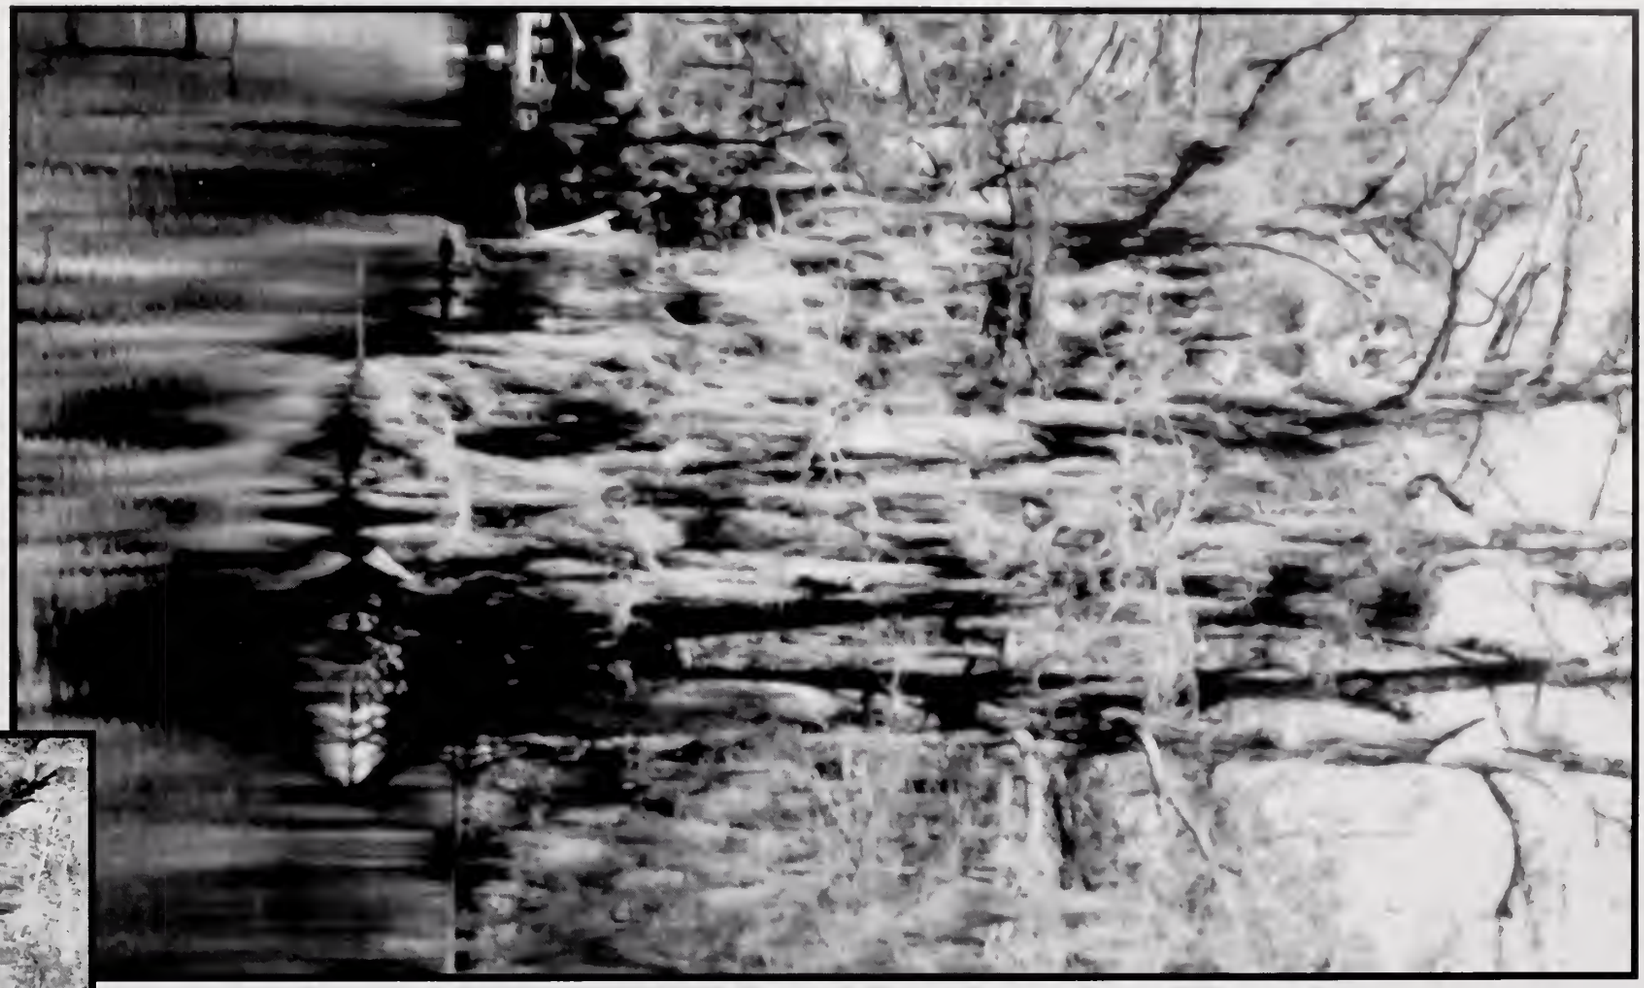

There is a place on campus where a music lover can go to get intellectual satisfaction. The Music Department at USL has various concerts throughout the semester that is designed to provide music of all kinds for everyone to enjoy. Performances are put on by large to small campus organizations. The community also fills the concert hall with their music from time to time. Music always seems to be playing in Angelle hall, whether it is produced by faculty recitals, a Triangle Baroque Ensemble, or USL's Symphony. The largest Ensembles that perform concerts are USL Symphony: directed by Michael Blaney, USL's Choir Department: directed by James Haygood, USL's Concert Band: directed by James Square, and the USL Wind Ensemble, directed by William Hockeppel. These ensembles and their directors help expand the musical knowledge of not only the people who participate in them, but also the knowledge of all that attend their concerts.

Cypress Lake

Nearly every volume of L'Acadien dedicates pages to USL's beloved Cypress Lake - the only swamp to be found on a college campus.

Like many others, I found myself drawn to its beauty from the first time I saw it. I swore to bring a sketch pad and draw the entire thing before I graduated. Also, like others, I wondered how it came to be here.

Rumors abound about the lake, which was once a grove for vegetables raised by students of SLI's agriculture department. It was also used as a gathering area for students, and later, theatrical productions were performed at the site.

During World War II, many citizens of Lafayette felt that the area was a plausible bomb target, since so many soldiers were trained in the area. The ground called Cypress Grove was dug up and filled with water, to be used to put out fires. Lucky for Lafayette citizens, no bomb ever threatened the area, and Cypress Lake was left to flourish on its own.

Alligators, fish, and turtles are abundant in the swamp, left to survive on their own, and the area has become a natural habitat for them.

"MORE THAN A JOB"

U.S.L.

Residence Hall Counselors

The job description includes being a leader, a counselor, and a best friend. Benefits include responsibility, friendship, and a great feeling knowing that you make a difference. Yes, you can expect to lose a little sleep, but you're a college student - you really don't sleep much anyway. This description is the job of a floor counselor in the dormitories here on campus. Every semester students are selected to fill these positions in order to keep the dorms running smoothly.

Since the job requires so much responsibility, patience, and compassion, applicants must go through an application process that lasts about two weeks. The process includes filling out an application, interviews with the Student Personnel office, a grade check, and an outhouse visit. During the visit, prospective counselors spend one night in the dorms with a counselor to obtain a better understanding of what the job requires. Once the counselors have been selected, they attend a team training outing at Dry Creek. The retreat gives the counselors an opportunity to get to know each other, to build trust between themselves so that they are a more effective team, and to teach problem solving skills. The students also spend time training on campus, learning all of the resources available to them and getting to know their support staff.

In addition to floor counselors,each dorm also has a hall director. Like the counselors, they are responsible for making sure that all residents are respectful of each other and that no one has any problems that maintenance should to be aware of. The extra responsibilities of the hall director include paperwork and planning activities for the residents. Katie Trahan, hall director of Evangeline Hall, enjoys planning group activities in her dorm because it gives her residents the opportunity to interact with each other and have fun while learning something new. Katie was interested in the job because she enjoys working with people, and interacting with so many different people is one of her favorite parts of the job. She also enjoys working hard for her residents because she knows how much they care about her and how much they appreciate her hard work.

Like a mother or a best friend, who is on duty twenty - four hours a day, counselors often take time to help their residents even when they are off duty. Katie Trahan says being a hall director is a twenty - four hour a day job, and you often have to put the needs of others before your own. The respect, friendship, and compassion she receives in return for her hard work definitely make the job worth it, however.

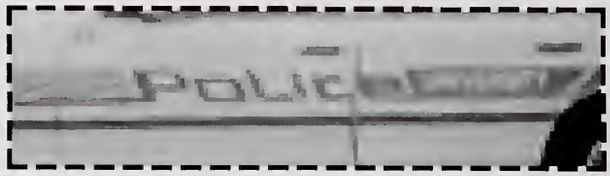

Being a floor counselor or hall director seems to go beyond a job to almost being a lifestyle. Roy Touchet, hall director of Stokes Hall, believes that remembering that it is a job is important because a person in his position cannot take any criticism from residents personally. Terrence Harris, a floor counselor in McCullough Hall, believes that because he is making money it is a job; additionally, because he is busy with counselor work even on his days off, it is a lifestyle.

It definitely takes a special person to be a counselor or director . The respect and admiration that their residents have for them is well deserved.

Behind the Shield

University Police Department

You probably see them around campus, in their cars or on foot. They are here for the safety of all the people on this campus. The University Police department is here for the best interest of the University community. They do their best to make sure that everyone here feels safe and comfortable about being at USL. There are a variety of students, both male and female, that are devoted to this University.

The Mission of the University Police Department is to provide a safe environment through a sensitive measured approach to all situations requiring police assistance in support of the mission of the University and student affairs. Students and other employees try their best to make sure that the department lives up to this statement.

To become a University Police Officer, a student must go through a series of tests. Each applicant must complete a civil service test, a background investigation, an oral interview, psychological evaluation, a physical test, a drug test, and they must write a paper on a topic related to law enforcement.

Once these things are completed, the officers go through a period of training. They are sent to The Acadiana Law Enforcement Academy. At the academy, they receive eight weeks of training in fire arms, self defense, report writing, dealing with specific crimes, and the laws of the State of Louisiana. During this time, the university Policeman is required to score an 85 percent or better on all tests and activities. When the stay at the academy is completed, the officer takes part in field training when procedures and policies of USL and the USLPD are taught. This process lasts twelve weeks. Once working for the university, the officer is required to work 16 hours a week in addition to special events such as football games, basket ball games, and dances.

The head of The University Police is Chief Joey Sturm. When asked about the student-officer program he replied, "The Student Officer Program is an excellent way for this department to relate to our students because they perform the job of a police officer and at the same time are also students themselves." At this time there are roughly 31 students employed in this program.

Jack Lightfoot is the head student officer. His major is in general studies. He is a senior who graduates in May. He has been working as a University police officer for five and a half years.He was a police officer in Baton Rouge until he came back to school and joined the Officer program. Lightfoot said that the best aspect of his job is the variety. After he graduates he is planning to go back to Baton Rouge and work for a major metropolitan police department. He said this about his job: "All of the job is very enjoyable. I believe that there are very few negative aspects. One of these is that the University community does not understand that our focus is to help them understand that everything in our job focuses toward the students faculty and staff.

There are many other students who work for the department, some are new and some have been working in the Officer program for some time. All of these students are well trained in all aspects of a police officer. They not only enforce the law, but also teach crime prevention, such as self defense courses. An operator is on call at all hours of the night so all students are encouraged to call on the University Police Department whenever they deem it necessary.

"The 'Spirit' of USL"

It seems to be very easy to come across rumors about ghosts here on campus, but the truth is much harder to come by. Everyone has heard at least one or two stories about the ghosts in the dormitories. Reportedly, the ghost of Lily still lingers in Harris Hall, a girls dormitory.

When Harris was built in 1938, it was said to be one of the finest dorms in the state. It was one of the first to to have an elevator; the cars were made of wood, and an iron gate closed off the shaft. According to legend, Lily was an out-of-state student who arrived shortly after Harris was built. One night after a party, Lily returned to the dorm drunk. She called for an elevator and was said to have stepped into the empty shaft, and the oncoming car decapitated her.

There are also other stories. In another version, Lily stuck her head into the shaft and saw the oncoming car, but it was too late for her to move out of the way. Still other people believe that a dormmate may have pushed Lily into the shaft because the girl's boyfriend was interested in Lily. In yet another version, Lily was supposed to have fallen into the shaft while sleepwalking. Shortly thereafter, the elevators were permanently boarded off and never used again.

Lily's presence is still felt in the dormitory. In the fall of 1983, a dorm resident in Harris claimed to have seen a "tall, thin, ghostly appearance gliding down the halls." As it passed, the doors were said to have flown open and then slammed shut. In 1986, another resident reported that her door had opened slowly while she was sitting alone in her room. She got up to close it, but it opened again. She pushed it shut a second time, and it opened again. As the tale goes, when she reached out to shut it this time, it closed on its own.

However, Lily is supposed to be a helpful ghost. Around 1989, a counselor in Harris was in the basement making posters with four of her friends. One of them wished to have something to drink. At that moment, the lights went out, and when they came back on, five drinks fell out of the Coke machine. Some residents have said that Lily wakes them up when they oversleep. One girl had lost her keys, and she told a friend that she wished Lily would help her find them. Not much later, she found her keys.

The stories told about Baker-Huger Hall are even more vague. According to this legend, it has been said that two girls killed themselves in the same Huger room in consecutive semesters. Even before this, someone went crazy in that room and jumped out the first-floor window. The room has been bricked up, and the window can be seen from the back of the building. Also, supposedly in Voorhies Hall, there was a cauchemar, which is a nightmare spirit. Back in the time of the Salem witch trials, everyone believed that this spirit would come and try to smother or choke people in the night. At least one student is known to have left the university because of the cauchemar.

The facts behind these stories are very difficult to verify due to the confidentiality of death records and such things. The mystery remains unsolved, but maybe that's the way Lily wants it to be.

Bayou Bijou Film WAVE

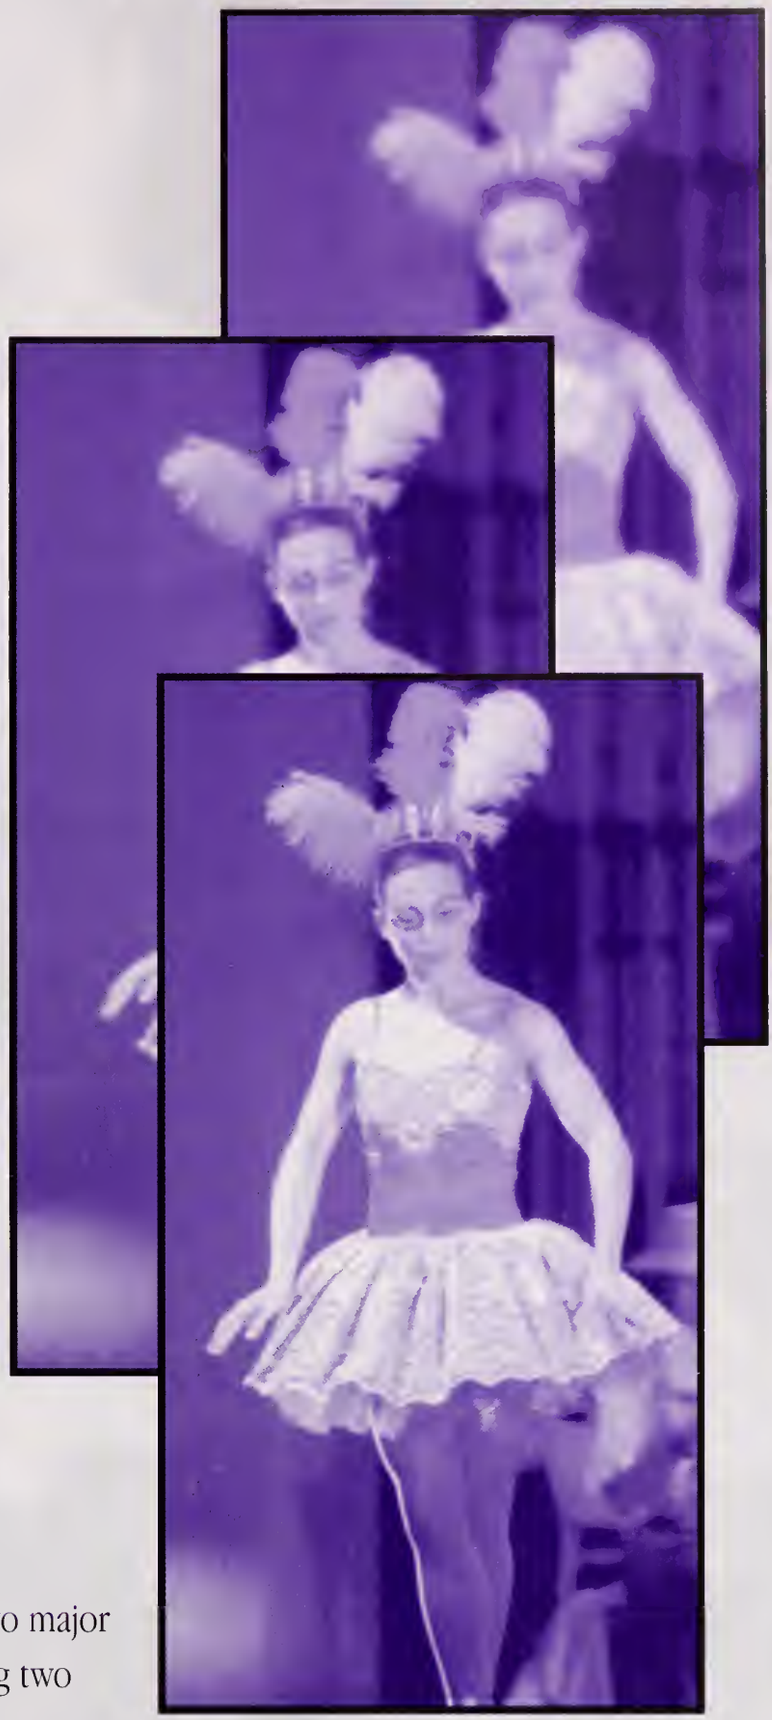

Every semester, the Bayou Bijou theater in the Student Union plays a variety of International films for our entertainment. The cost is $2 for USL students with ID's and $3 for non-students. The selection for the film series is limited to 10 per semester, and the result for Fall 1998 included: 5 US films, The Opposite of Sex, a black comedy about a runaway teenage girl from a Louisiana trailer park, a movie of plot twists, The Spanish Prisoner, which revolves on a complicated game, Henry Fool, a movie about a garbage man who becomes a famous poet after friendly encouragement, The Big One, directed by Michael Moore and about his book tour for Downsize This, and Men With Guns (Hombres Armados), the only film that is not in English. It is about a Central American doctor who travels to the rain forest to visit his students. The Sweet Hereafter, (Canada) is set in small town British Columbia and is about human complexity. Contempt (France) is a re-release of the 1963 film about movie-making. The film, The Wings of the Dove, (US/UK) based on Henry James's novel, is about a turn-of-the-century love triangle. Set in Belfast, The Boxer, (US/Ireland) is a love story about a former IRA member/boxer and his conflicts. Wilde (UK) is about the playwright, Oscar Wilde, who was rejected because he was homosexual. The films are chosen by a dedicated group of students and faculty whose coordinator is Megan Farrell.

DANCE

At USL, the Department of Dance puts on two major performances each year. This year, instead of doing two dance performances, the department has decided upon one dance performance and one musical performance. The dance performance will be held in the Fall and is titled "Definate Lines and Infinate Space." During the Spring semester, the Dance Department will team up with the departments of Music, Architecture, and Visual Arts to put on the production titled, "Basically Broadway." These shows are all put on by students at USL and are open to both the public and to any students who wish to see them.

Theater

Campus Plays

The performing arts department is a very big part of the cultural lively hood on campus. This department provides this university with theatre that all the students here can appreciate. The head of The Performing Arts Department is Stephen Taft. Taft also directs some of the plays that are performed here. Lori Bales is an Assistant Professor of Theater, and she also directs some of the plays. The actors and actresses that grace the stage with their presence are Theater majors, and non majors alike. People from the community can also try out to strut their talent on the stage. That means that it is open casting, so all you non theater majors who want your moment in the sun listen for the next tryouts. Plays are not complete without their scenery. David Apple has made an excellent contribution to the performances with his innovative set designs. The performing arts department pushes its students hard to succeed in completing the challenges of graduation so that they can survive in the real world. Dr. Taft says, "We would like to thank the students for continuing to support the performing arts program." It is his sentiments that without them, none of the performances would be possible.

ALL FOR THE CAJUNS, RISE UP AND ROAR!!!

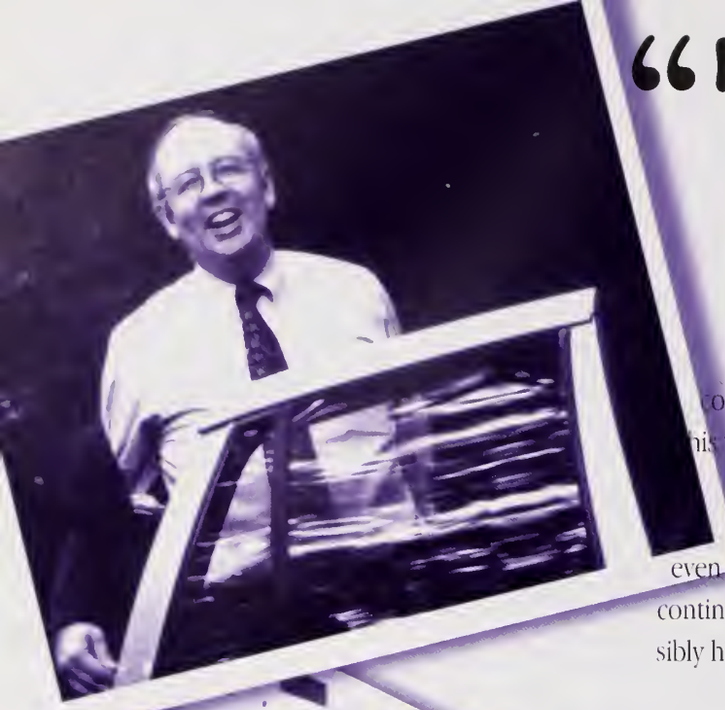

Pep rallies are a time to get the team exited about the game, and a place where students can show their school spirit. The pep rallies are put on by the University Program Council, or UPC. There are five different committees in UPC, each one can put on Pep Rallies. The five Committees are Spirit, African American Culture Committee, Issues / World Cultures, Entertainments, and Special Events. Basically, USL pep rallies give you a place to STAND UP AND HOLLER.

"This Just

News and world events are usually important to everyone. What goes on in this country and the world effects all of us in some way. There are several news stories from this year that are more memorable than others. Some of these shook only the south, others the whole country, while some, the entire world.

Hurricane Georges was the costliest disaster in 117 years of Red Cross relief efforts, even more so than Hurricane Andrew. Georges first ripped through the Florida Keys, then continued to sit ominously in the Gulf Of Mexico terrorizing all the places where it may possibly hit. It finally slammed into Mississippi and Alabama. Although Louisiana was lucky, the threat of Georges caused thousands to leave their homes.

The battle of the home runs between Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa was a story that everyone was interested in, even those who are not sports fans. The two men were racing to beat the 61 home run record of New York Yankee's Roger Maris set in 1961. At the end of the season McGwire of the Cardinals won the race by breaking the record fist hitting an over all of 70 home runs. Sosa of the Cubs, who also broke Maris' record ended the season with 66 home runs.

Perhaps the most memorable and controversial story in America is the Clinton Lewinsky scandal. The President is accused of having an 18th month relationship with then 21-year old White House Intern, obstruction of justice and perjury. The president is under an ongoing investigation lead by Republican attorney Kenneth Starr. Although Clinton eventually admitted to the relationship, Congress continued to push forward for an impeachment trail in the senate.

In" THE NEWS

The world shook when terrorist bombs exploded in the American Embassies in Kenya and Tanzania during the summer. The two bombs took place almost simultaneously and killed 247 people, injuring 5,550 others. A few arrests were made, but Osama Bin Laden, the man whom American officials believe is responsible for financing the these terrorist acts and many others, has not been charged.The events listed and shown here all took place this year. Some of the repercussions from them are still continuing. These stories and many others kept the world guessing what could possibly happen next.

There were plenty of newsworthy events on campus this year, as well. In the Spring, Governor Foster took part in a re-enactment of the signing of the signing of the act that created Southwestern Louisiana Industrial Institute.Debate continued over the demolition of McNaspy stadium. Despite the fact that many students still use it, and despite complaints and petitions from students, administrators have proceeded with plans to have the building torn down.The football team was in USL news often, despite a dismal season. In the fall, two football players were arrested in Mexico for possession of weapons across the border. Come homecoming, at the annual Yell Like Hell, a couple of fraternities were reprimanded for innapropriate behavior, aimed at the football team, which responded with violence towards the organizations.Continuing the the Centennial celebration, several colleges kicked off the Academic Showcases, diplaying the pride and history of each college.

CENTENNIAL

"Building a Foundation"

At the turn of the century, one hundred young men and women eager to take advantage of what SLII had to offer began taking classes on the newly constructed twenty-five acre campus.

Appointed in 1900 as the first president of this institute, Dr. Edwin Lewis Stephens worked hard to build a foundation for a lasting university. Stephens received letters from parents and students interested in SLII.

Original requirements for admission into SLII were quite different from what they are today. Students had to be at least fourteen years of age and completed the sixth grade or have a passing score on an entrance exam that tested the basic areas of reading, writing, math, and history. Also required for admission were good health and "good moral character."

While the male students roomed with local families, the female students lived in the one dormitory, now known as Foster Hall. The matron of the girls' dorm was Elizabeth Fowles Baker, known as Lady Baker.

In addition to the girls' dormitory, the campus also included a wooden industrial arts workshop, and the old Martin Hall. Torn down in the early 1960's, this building housed almost everything on campus, including classrooms, an auditorium, gymnasium, offices, and the library.Stephens thought of Martin Hall as a "temple of people's hope, this ever enduring symbol of their faith in the high destiny which awaits their children's children, this alter of a noble sacrifice for the sake of mankind."

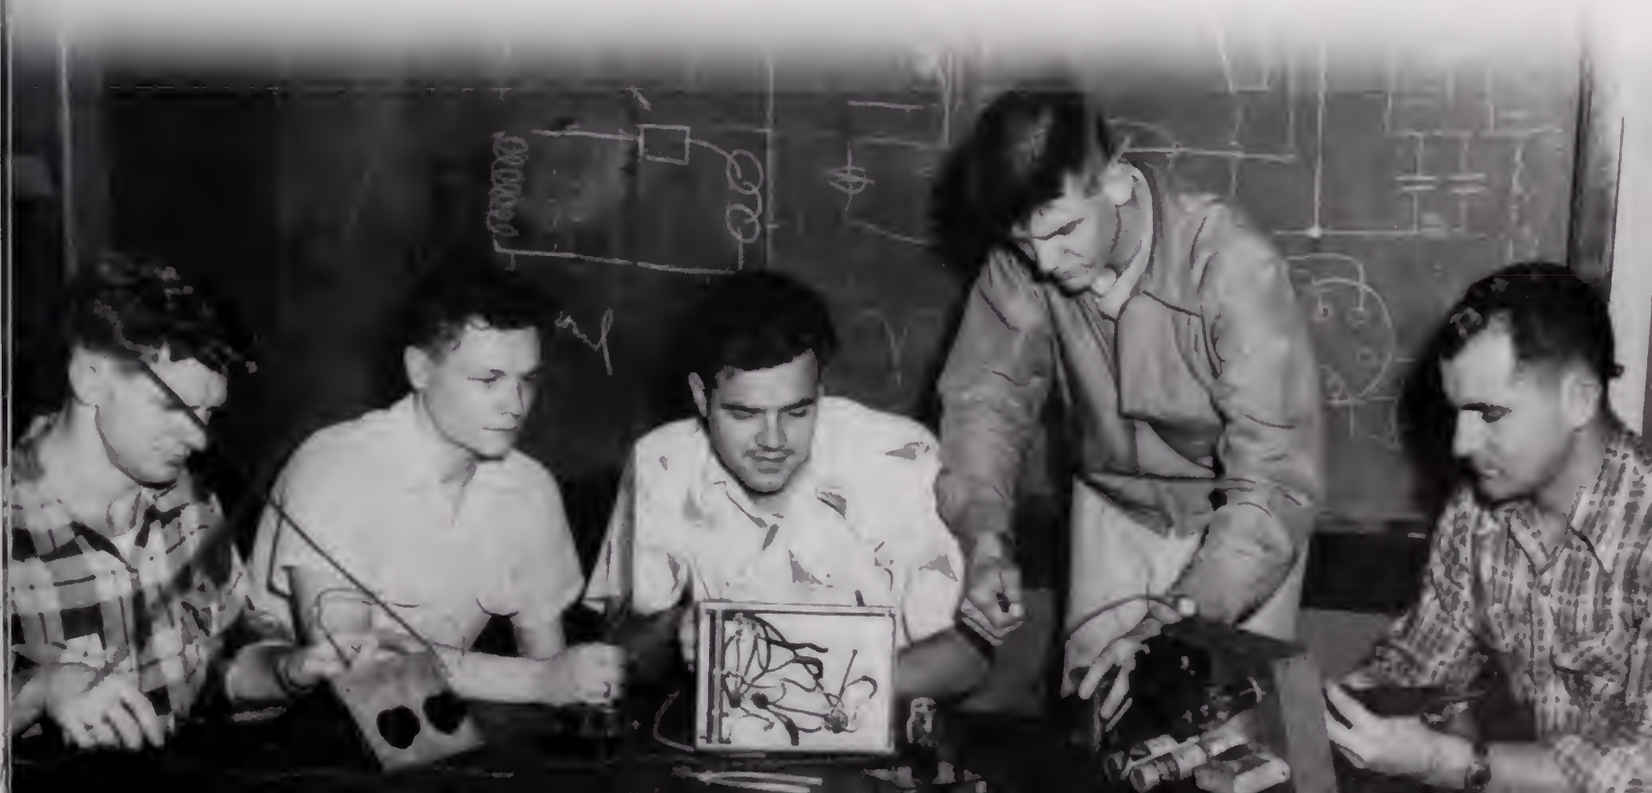

As quoted from one of the first course catalogs, SLII's purpose was " to provide broad and varied courses of instruction for boys and girls, both in academic studies and in practical and useful arts: thus better preparing each and every one for whatever career in life he or she may undertake."

Not only has the size of the university changed dramatically, the tuition and fees have also changed. In the beginning, students did not have to pay tuition because it was a state supported school. However, they did pay about one hundred dollars for board, fuel, and lights. Washing fees usually ran about ten dollars, and incidental fees were about four dollars. Books cost between three and seven dollars, and art supplies cost a dollar or two.

Everyone began their day with morning exercises at 8:55 a.m. and ended classes at 3:00 p.m. Students were given a ten minute recess in the morning and a forty minute lunch break.

SLII began its sports program in 1901 with the formation of baseball, football, basketball, and track teams. Students also attended lectures and musical performances and participated in debate and literary societies.

In almost one hundred years, the graduating class has grown from 18 to about 2000. The predictions of the 1899 Lafayette Gazette have come true. "We are not to think of the industrial School as a temporary thing, for it is not. It is an institution for all time. A hundred years from now, it will be amongst our descendants, a hundred times more efficient. Its influence will have spread, and the parish of Lafayette will point with pride to the school, and honor the memory of those whose public spirit built it."

"Founding Fathers"

The University of Southwestern Louisiana has been fortunate to have had great leaders concerned about both the school and the students. While each of the four former presidents has had a unique style, all have encouraged great advancements and strived for excellence in all areas of university life. Each president had his own goals and the collective vision to better USL so that it can provide a first quality education for students for many generations to come.

Dr. Edwin Stephens

When Edwin Lewis Stephens was named as the first president of Southwestern Louisiana Industrial Institute, the school was still only an idea. He is the man responsible for making Robert Martin's dream of a school of higher education a reality.

Stephens believed that the quality of students was more important than the quantity of students. He continually enforced the increasingly challenging requirements to better the students and the school.

Stephens, a native of Louisiana, was born in Stephens Mill in 1872. Even though he was only twenty-seven when he was appointed to the position, he was well qualified for it. Stephens graduated from LSU in 1889 and earned his master's degree in pedagogy in 1897 from New York University. He went on to obtain his Ph.D. in 1899.

Stephens is also remembered for a special feature he started on campus in 1901. He was responsible for the plan to plant the Oak Trees that now line St. Mary Boulevard.

Stephens retired in May 1938 and died in New Orleans in November of the same year.

Lether Edward Frazar

On January 1, 1938, Lether Edward Frazar assumed Stephen's duties as president of SLII. Frazar's short but productive time at the school is characterized by physical growth.

Born in DeRidder, Louisiana, in 1904, Frazar was a graduate of SLII in 1928. After receiving his bachelor of arts degree, he received his M.A. from LSU n 1932. Frazar also attended graduate school at Columbia University in 1941 and 1942.

While President, Frazar had many buildings constructed, including Broussard Hall, Burke Hall, Evangeline Hall, McNaspy Stadium Dormitory, Mouton Hall, and Stephens Memorial Library.

Frazar also expanded the university academically. He added the Colleges of Agriculture and Music, and created the Departments of Music, Commerce, and Publicity, thus increasing the number of faculty members and students.

Frazar also established the marching band, the SLI Alumni News, and SLI's first intercollegiate athletic program.

Frazar died in 1960 at the age of fifty-five of a coronary illness.

Joel Lafayette Fletcher

Joel Lafayette Fletcher's term is one of transition and growth, with the most notable accomplishment being the name change from SLI to USL.

A native of Natchitoches, Louisiana, Fletcher completed courses at Louisiana Industrial Institute in Ruston. Fletcher first joined the Southwestern faculty in 1920 as an Assistant Professor of Agriculture. In 1926, he received his Master of Science degree in Agriculture from Iowa State Agriculture and Mechanical College. He then returned to USL and in 1938 became Dean of the College of Agriculture.

Many technological advances were made during Fletcher's administration. In 1953, a $25,000 PBX telephone exchange system was installed. Also, in 1954, the first computer was used in a senior mathematics course for science and engineering students.

SLI also integrated during Fletcher's presidency. In 1954, SLI became the first institution to be integrated under the State Board of Education

In 1956, the State Board of Education approved a graduate school program here. The first course offerings were in education and had 116 students for its first term.

In addition to all the big changes he made, Fletcher was also known for paying attention to individual students. During his twenty-five years as President, he required a personal interview with each student who wanted to resign from the school. He tried to help each student discover solutions to their problems.

Clyde Rogeau

Serving as university President from 1966 to 1974, Rogeau continued the precedence set by the past presidents of expansion, both physically and academically.

Rogeau joined the USL faculty in 1937 as an instructor in dairy husbandry. In 1947 he was promoted to professor and head of the Department of Animal Husbandry.

Rogeau's two biggest accomplishments were increased enrollment by and starting the Ph.D. program. The university's enrollment increased by over 3500 to a little over twelve thousand. IN 1958, USL became a doctoral granting institution and expanded its graduate school to include English, education, computer science, history, microbiology, mathematics, and statistics.

During Rogeau's eight years as president, Angelle Hall, Maxim Doucet Hall, Wharton Hall, the Student Union, Cajun Field, the Athletic Complex, and floors two and three of Dupre Library were built.

Rogeau was also named Outstanding USL Alumni from the College of Agriculture in 1966. He retired in 1974 and died in 1980.

Ray Authement

Dr. Raymond Paul Authement became president of USL on July 26, 1974 after serving as acting president when Dr. Clyde Rougeau took a leave of absence in 1973.

Dr. Authement earned his bachelor's degree in mathematics and physics from USL. He then earned his doctorate in mathematics from LSU.

He began his teaching career as an associate professor of mathematics at McNeese State University in Lake Charles. He joined the Cajun faculty in 1957 as a mathematics professor. In 1961 and 1962 he was a visiting professor at the University of North Carolina. From 1966 until 1973 Dr. Authement served as vice president of USL. In 1965, he was named a USL Foundation Honors Professor.

Advances in research and campus technology are the two most noted accomplishments of his time at USL. With the completion of the University Research Park, USL became home to the Southern Science Center, the National Marine Fisheries Center, the Apparel and Computer Integrated Manufacturing Center, and the headquarters for the National Biological Survey.

Dr. Authement has also worked hard to make the dream of a community college system a reality. After years of planning, several community colleges opened their doors for the fall 1998 semester. Under his leadership, the university has also been able to change its admissions status. In the fall of 2000 USL will be a closed admissions university with more stringent requirements for admittance.

As for any president, Dr. Authement also has financial concerns. Establishing the "Investing in our Future Campaign" will hopefully increase the university's endowments which will in turn increase the school's income.

Dr. Authement has been working hard planning a successful future for USL in the twenty-first century.

Edith Garland Dupre

Edith Garland Dupre is not only a name well known among the inhabitants of USL's campus, but a name known throughout Louisiana as a strong force in the history of Louisiana's educational system.

Born in Opelousas in 1881, Miss Dupre spent the majority of her life in and around Acadiana. Away for only a year, Miss Dupre was invited to be part of the founding staff at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, by none other than Edwin Lewis Stephens, himself. At one time or another, she served the university as a teacher of English and French, department head of English, and acting registrar. She was an integral part of SLI for 43 years - from 1901 through 1944.

Well loved by students of the Institute outside of the classroom, she helped found the Vermilion and the Catholic student center, served on the library committee, and helped with Red Cross activities on campus.

Her leadership on campus and exemplary committment to the university eventually led to the dedication of a library in her honor.

"How the Camellias Grew"

Beginning in 1934, the Camellia Pageant quickly became one of the most entertaining and important activities of students' social lives. Every January for twenty-eight years talented female students competed for the prized title of "Queen of Camellia." The court was composed of members of social sororities and girls' clubs, and from these select few the student body chose the Queen. The pageant was sponsored by the Department of Art and the Department of Agriculture, and many other campus groups, such as the orchestra, chorus, and Home Economics Department often helped with entertainment and stage props. Held in conjunction with the Mid Winter Fair and the annual meeting of the Louisiana Camellia Society, the pageant drew very large crowds. It was also popular because pageants in this area were very rare during this time. For the last twelve years, the pageant was held in Stafford Blackham Coliseum and had such honored presenters as Lieutenant Governor Earl K. Long, Lieutenant Governor Marc Mouton, and State Representative Rex McCullough. Although the pageant has since been replaced by many festival pageants and Mardi Gras balls, for almost three decades the Queen and her beautiful bouquet of Camellias were features of university life at USL.

"Revisiting the Past"

Centennial celebrations extended far beyond the campus boundaries, even beyond the city limits. Baton Rouge even joined in the festivities this spring.

On May 13, "Celebrating an Act of Education" was held at the State Capital in conjunction with the USL Alumni Association's annual Red and White Day.

Although the school was not constructed until 1900, Act No. 162 which created USL, then SLII, was passed in 1898. The celebrations commemorated the centennial anniversary of the act, which was presented by Senator Robert Martin of St. Martinville.

SLII, according to the Act, was planned "to promote the general object of said institute, to-wit: Fitting and preparing such children male and female, for practical industries of life." USL began as an industrial institute similar to the modern high school.

The ceremonies began at 3 p.m. when Senator Craig Romero and Representative Sydnie Mae Duran presented the reenactment bill to the Senate and the House in the new State Capitol. They presented the bill because they represent the district Senator Robert Martin served when he first presented the bill. Following the reenactment, Governor Mike Foster, whose grandfather was governor when the original bill was passed in 1898, along with USL President Ray Authement and the Acadiana legislative delegation signed a commemorative act that celebrated USL's vow to higher education for another hundred years.

"It is fitting that the USL community and the leaders from throughout Acadiana return to the Chambers of the Old State Capitol where in 1898 USL was created. We will celebrate the historic founding of an institution that today is Louisiana's second largest public university," said Ray Authement.

Entertainment for the celebration was provided by USL faculty and students. A theatrical reenactment of the events that inspired USL's creation was preformed by students of the Performing Arts Department who were led by Stephen Taft. Also, the USL Wind Band, directed by William Hochkeppel, performed music from the same period.

The festivities ended with a reception in the Senate Chambers of the Old State Capitol.

ATHLETICS

Fast Break to success

Evan's Cajuns One Step from Dancing

When former USL men's basketball coach Marty Fletcher was released following the 1996-97 season, the program took step one to turning it around. The hiring of Arizona assistant coach Jesse Evans from the National Champion Wildcats squad was step two. Although the final step to the top maybe has yet to be taken, the USL basketball team had an about-face season in 1997-98 that has expectations set even higher than at the time of Evans' hiring. When all was said and done, the Cajuns were a 3-point basket away from catching a bad case of "March Madness."

USL finished the campaign with a record on 18-13. They advanced to the finals of the Sun Belt Conference Tournament, but were beaten 62-59 in the finals by South Alabama before a home crowd of 9,121 fans. Following a second half charge led by senior Casey Green, USL stormed back into the game, tying it up with Chris Manuel's 3-pointer and free throw with only 1:07 left to play. But USA's Toby Madison hit a jumper from 12 feet that proved to be the difference in the game. Although the season ended there, it will not be forgotten anytime soon by the Cajun players, coaches, and fans.

The season got off to a bright winning note at home in the Cajundome. USL defeated Virginia Commonwealth 77-71 in front of 4,732 in attendance. Following the lead of Chris Snowdon and Tyrone Foster, who combined for 36 points, the Cajuns notched there first win for coach Evans.

...enduring

through the hard times.

Following a loss to Southern Miss, the Cajuns then took a trip up north to do battle with some of the nation's finest in the Great Alaska Shootout. USL was defeated by Massachusetts and Alabama-Birmingham, before tallying a win against home team Alaska-Anchorage.

The rest of the first half of the season was filled with ups and downs of sorts. A big upset win over Ohio State had some Midwest heads turning southward. USL played a close game against nationally ranked Florida State before falling 80-71. USL started Sun Belt play 3-0 before losing in overtime to Lamar 90-87. The Cajun men then had a roller coaster ride, winning big, but losing big at some times. A 46 point victory over Texas-Pan American was followed by a 42 point loss to Louisiana Tech. Eventually however, the Cajun men leveled off and posted victories when they counted, including the last four games on the regular season conference schedule.

One thing that did not change over the course of the season were the few players leading the way for the Cajuns in scoring. Consistently topping the scoring lists were names such as Casey Green, Tyrone Foster, and Chris Manuel. Green had the single game high with 39 points in a 101-80 win over Alaska-Anchorage. Foster's high game of the season came in a losing effort to Lamar, where he contributed 32 points in defeat. Manuel took charge as the season neared end, scoring 26 points in two consecutive conference games against La. Tech and Lamar. Manuel stepped up his play in the conference tournament game against Lamar, leading the team with 23 points and treating every spectator to what may have been the single best highlight of the tournament. Manuel executed a reverse, under the goal slam dunk that turned many heads and even landed a spot on ESPN's Play's of the Week.

So where does the team go from here. Obviously, a spot in either the NCAA or the NIT tournament would be a big boost for Coach Evans' team. Although the team is losing some key leaders, the hopes are still set high for the 1998-99 season. Hopefully the Cajun men will be able to pack their dancing shoes along with their sneakers when it comes time for March Madness.

PRACTICE

...ON THE RISE.

Photography courtesy Vermilion

For most basketball teams, 9 wins in a season would seem like a very unproductive season. However, for the USL Lady Cajun basketball team, 9 wins was a drastic improvement from the past few seasons. In fact, the six-game improvement from last season was the second-highest in school history from a 13 game improvement in the 1982-83 season. Second year head coach Gay Nix has begun the slow process of rebuilding team that has seen little success in recent years.

For the first time in the program's history, USL swept Sun Belt Conference foe South Alabama, and also completed a sweep of Lamar for the first time in 11 years. Despite being selected by the SAC coaches to finish seventh in the conference, USL ended the season tied for fourth, it's highest finish ever. Seven victories within the conference was also a new high for the Lady Cajuns.

Another Lady Cajun mark set by this year's team was total blocks in a season. The Lady Cajuns finished the season with 102 blocks. The previous total for blocks in a season of 78 was set in 1980-81. Another defensive milestone came when USL held their opponents under 50 points in two consecutive games. The Lady Cajuns hadn't done that in 14 years. They also held 25 of their 27 opponents to under 50 percent shooting from the field.

Good news for the future is that the Lady Cajun squad was carried mainly by newcomers and underclassmen. The Freshmen played 58.1 percent of the total minutes and accounted for 54.2 percent of the team's total points. Leading all of the Freshman was Billie Popovska, who was named Louisiana Freshman of the Year, averaging 10.1 points per game, 4 rebounds, and 2.3 steals.

The top newcomer to the team, and the first Lady Cajun post-season honoree, was Tiffany Green. She was honored as a Louisiana Player of the Week, and also received a Sun Belt Offensive and Defensive Player of the Week, as well as being named the Sun Belt's Newcomer of the Year. Green had 47 blocks on the season and is already fifth on the all-time list. She made 54.4 percent of her field goals and 76.2 percent of her free throws.

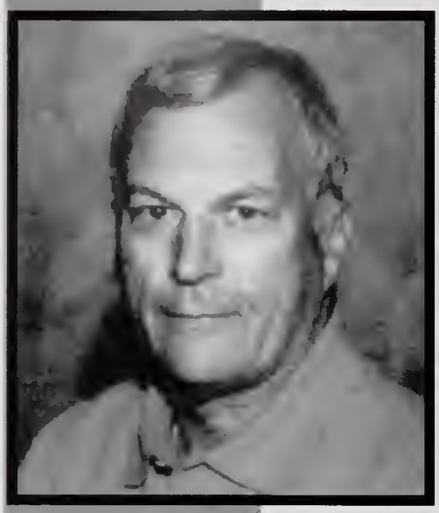

The mark for blocked shots in a season was set by Senior Brandy Falgoust. She finished her career at USL with 68 blocks. Falgoust also ranks in USL's top ten in games played, games started, free throws attempted, free throw percentage, and rebounds. Kristi King played start-to-finish in five games, the most by a USL player since 1989-90.

There is really no place to go but up for the Lady Cajuns. Coach Nix seems to have her troops on the right track to improvement and maybe a possible winning record. Only time will tell if the team's really climbing the ladder from the cellar and taking it's place among the top teams in the SAC.

Experience in Youth for Cajun Golfers

Under Coach Bob Bass, the Cajun's golf program in the last six years has had:

- 15 all conference players
- One Louisiana Player of the Year
- 2 conference medalists
- Won or tied for First in 12 tour naments
- 18 All-Louisiana players
- 3 Lousiana "Coach of the Year" awards

It's usually a bad sign when a team has no Senior leadership on it. Normally it makes for a tough season with little success. Normally, a youth ful team would be happy to just get to the point of being average. Well some body forgot to tell the USL Golf team all of this.

Despite lacking any Senior leadership, the Cajun golfers captured their fifth Sun Belt Conference title in the last nine years. If that's not impressive enough, the golfers also earned their eighth trip to the NCAA tournament in the last nine years as well. What does former Sun Belt Conference and Louisiana coach of the year Bob Bass have to say about all of that. "Wow is all you can say," was his comment. And if you need a silver lining to sur round the whole situation, it's that every one of the guys on last years team will be returning for this season, along with some talented new Freshmen and a few returning redshirts from last season.

Leading the way last season were Juniors Matt Trevino and Sophomore Greg Sonnier. They were both named to the All-Sun Belt and All-Louisiana teams for the past two seasons. Trevino finished last season with an average of 73.40 strokes per round. He led the way for the Cajuns in five different tournaments last year. In the NCAA Central Regional, Trevino placed in the top-25, following up a second place fin- ish at the Regional the previous year.

Sonnier finished the 1996-97 campaign with four top-ten finishes. One of those came in the Sun Belt meet, helping the Cajun golfers. Finishing with 74.60 average strokes per round, he was the top finisher for USL in four separate tournaments.

1998 USL Schedule

February 5 - 7	International Intercollegiate	Rice University
February 16-17	Bridges All-American	Southern Mississippi
February 23-24	Texas-San Antonio Invitational	Texas-San Antonio
March 9-10	Louisiana Classics	USL
March 23-24	Moe O'Brien Memorial	McNeese State
March 28-29	Border Olympics	Texas A&M
April 6-7	Ark.-Little Rock Intercollegiate	UALR
April 20-22	SunBelt Conference Tournament	ASU/UALR
May 14-16	NCAA Central Regional	Texas-San Antonio
May 27-30	NCAA Championships	New Mexico

Greg Sonnier

George Cestia

Brett Overman

Ben Pyle

Jeff Lorio

Another Cajun golfer who had a great season was Junior Brett Overman. Overman finished in a fifth place tie in the SBC meet. He was named, along with Trevino and Sonnier to the All-Sun Belt Conference team. Overman finished his season in third place on the team for scoring average. Overman, Trevino, and Junior Trent Romero will enter the 1997-98 season as the only three Seniors on the team. They will be the first Seniors to play at USL in three years.

Two Freshmen also helped to lead the way for the Cajun golfers. George Cestia finished in the top-30 at the SBC meet, while finishing fifth on the team in scoring average. John Wise finished sixth in scoring. Wise also placed in the top 15 in the Louisiana Classics meet, the USL tournament.

Couple the success of the current USL golfers along with the returns of redshirt team members John Mendall and Ty Weber, and the formula is right for 1997-98 to be another great season. Transfer Jeff Lorio from NLU, Ben Pyle, and Robbie Trahan will also look to make the upcoming season as productive as the last few have been. Coach Bass has to be excited about the success of his team. They have found the Fountain of Youth, and it has poured out to them a lot of good golf. Hopefully, the well has not run dry just yet.

Who's On First?

Cajun's Capture Second Straight Sun Belt Championship

Before the season, USL head baseball coach Tony Robichaux was optimistic that the quality of the team's pitching could catch up to that of it's hitting. Following 1997's NCAA regional tournament berth and a Sun Belt Conference Championship, the standards were naturally going to be set high for the Cajun baseball program. The 1998 season turned out to be a pleasant surprise for the Cajun men. Not only did the pitching come equal to the task, but it carried the team all the way back to the NCAA regionals for a second straight year, while the hitting helped to lead the team to it's second straight SBC championship.

The youngest coach in America to 325 wins, Robichaux said before the season that he wanted his team to be in a position each and every year to be in contention for the conference championship and on it's way to an NCAA regional tournament. Coming out of the success of 1998 and looking ahead to the 1999 season, Robichaux has got to feel good about his chances for that to happen.

Leading the way for the Cajuns offensively in 1998 were a few names and faces that have become accustomed to being in the headlines. The main man for the Cajuns was Justin Hemme. Hemme played in all but one of the 61 games, finishing the season with a .376 batting average, 16 home runs, and 55 RBI's, all team highs. Kevin Cantrelle finished with a team high 212 at bats. He batted .349 on the year with 8 homers and 48 RBI's.

The biggest contributor to the success of the Cajun baseball squad was B. J. Ryan. Ryan got the job done both at bat, and on the mound. Ryan was second on the team in batting average with a .356, and was the only member of the team to play in all 61 games in 1998. He contributed 12 home runs and 39 RBI's. As a pitcher, Ryan appeared in 24 games, finishing with a record of 6-1 with a team low ERA of 3.16. Ryan led the Cajuns with 6 saves, and recorded 72 strikeouts in just 57 innings of work.

The man leading the way for the Cajun pitching staff was Phillip Devey, who started 20 of his 25 appearances on the season. Devey led the team in numerous categories. He finished the 1998 season with 131.2 innings pitched, 143 strikeouts, and 11 wins. Devey was the only Cajun starter to not allow a triple all season. The top relief pitcher on the team, and the Cajun with the most appearances with 30, was Buddy Yen. Yen had 49 strikeouts in just 47.1 innings of work. He finished with a record of 5-3 with 4 saves to his credit.

As long as the youthful pitching staff can stay consistent and healthy, and the Cajun sluggers can continue to swing the bats like usual, the Cajun baseball team will look for more successful seasons under Coach Robichaux in the near future. The outlook is very promising for a potential third straight Sun Belt crown and another trip to the NCAA regionals.

FIELD

When someone thinks of a dynasty, they think of the New York Yankees, the San Francisco Forty Niners, and the Chicago Bulls. At the college level, there's Kentucky basketball, Nebraska football, and Tennessee women's basketball. However, one team that you won't normally find on that list is the USL Softball team. Right since the team was formed by it's current and only head coach Yvette Girouard, the Lady Cajuns have known nothing but success, and that trend has continued through the years. While the team may not have finished 1998 with quite the success they have become so used to, they had a productive year none the less.

The main key to the team's success was the return of many of its stars from the 1997 campaign. The top 3 hitters from the 97 Lady Cajun squad all returned for the 98 season, including All-American and Louisiana Freshman of the year in 1997, Tiffany Clark. Clark finished 1998 batting .349. Clark was the only member of the Lady Cajun team to appear in all 51 of the team's games. She also contributed 5 home runs, 37 RBI's, and a team-high 4 triples.

The other returning Cajun sluggers, Lori Osterberg and Joni Podhorez were also solid run scorers for the Lady Cajuns. Osterberg finished with a .346 batting average, 2 home runs, and 20 RBI's, while Podhorez batted .385, had 17 steals in 19 attempts, and had a perfect fielding percentage. The most offensive output for the 98 Lady Cajuns came from an unlikely source, a freshman. Jana Mower led the team in batting average with a .395, home runs with 7, and RBI's with 49. She also managed a .995 fielding percentage, making only 2 errors all season.

"Consistency".... Lady Cajuns winning as always.

On the mound, the Cajuns looked to sophomore Kim Dunlap, freshman Sunny Martinka, and junior Sara Pacheco to take care of the duties, and both girls did just that. Dunlap, being the experienced pitcher, trio finished up 1998 with 16 wins and an ERA of 1.57. She had one save as a relief pitcher, and was the only member of the pitching staff not to allow a home run all season. Martinka led the team in ERA with a 1.18, allowing just 29 runs in 136.2 innings of work. She also added 2 saves, 6 shutouts, and 49 strikeouts, all team highs for the season. Pacheco finished with 9 wins and only a single loss. She had an ERA of 2.36 with 36 strikeouts, and allowed a team low 9 doubles.

While the team's final 1998 record of 36-15 is great by most standards, the lack of a post-season appearance put a damper on the Lady Cajuns 98 campaign. The team looks to play on every year, and for the most part has done that ever since 1987 when the team made it's first ever post-season appearance. For coach Girouard, winning is something that goes hand in hand with her name, and she has proven to be a Patton-leader for the Lady Cajun squad. They may not be on the list of dynasties in sports, but they can't be far off.

jazz

The Ragin Jazz dance team, compiled of 21 girls, is one of the background forces of USL athletics. Along with the cheerleaders, the Jazz help bring fans into the action with halftime and sideline shows.

While showing off in front of crowds of cheering fans may be fun, it can only be done after hours and hours of hard work. Members of the team come from all different majors, and some have outside jobs, so their commitment to the Jazz comes on top of all of their other activities, not to mention school.

Despite their hectic and often tiring schedules, these girls not only manage only the brightest of smiles for basketball and football games, parades and showcases, practices and preview days; they also took first place at dance camp in the Summer of 1998 - truly and admirable and envious talent.

Making Waves...

It's one of those teams that doesn't get the recognition it deserves. Not only are they consistent and at the top of the field in their respective sport, but even some of the individuals from this team have gone on to success in larger tournaments. This team is the USL Waterski team. The Cajun skiers finished 1998 coming in second place at the National tournament in Monroe. USL fell just short of National Champion NLU in the final day of competition at the meet.

The USL men finished first overall in Nationals, with the women coming in second overall. Four of the members of USL's team finished the season with All-American recognition. Angeliki Andriopoulou was All-American in the Slalom and in Trick skiing. Maria Louisa (Lu Lu) Botero received All-American status in both Trick skiing and in the Jump event. For the men, Guillaume Pare was All-American in Tricks and in Jumping, while teammate Simon Seigert was All-American in the same two categories. Each duo of Cajun men and women finished in second and third in the overall skiing category, compiling the totals of the three events, Tricks, Jumps, and Slalom.

The success did not stop there for some members of the Cajun waterski team. Andriopoulou was the 1998 European Overall Champion, while Botero was the 98 Pan American Games Champion.

Success has always been around the USL skiers. In the last 4 years, USL has taken home the National Championship twice, in 1995 and again in 97, and placed second in 96 and again this year in 98. The Cajun team fell short by a mere 270 points to 14-time National Champion NLU in an attempt to repeat as the Nation's best skiers.

While the success may sometimes go unnoticed by the school itself, the waterski community has noted the ongoing achievement of the Cajun squad. USL will get the opportunity to showcase it's plethora of talent in front of it's own people when it will host it's very own waterski tournament in the spring of 1999. USL may also find itself as the host school for the 2000 national championships. Maybe that tournament will allow USL to capture yet another National crown on its way to being one of the most successful athletic programs in recent Cajun History.

The 'Won' We Wanted...

The 1998 Cajun football team was fairly certain that they could improve. After all, they finished a '97 season managing only a single win. Many figured that it would be head coach Nelson Stokley's final season at the helm. All were certain that the focus of the season would be the younger Stokley, Brandon, as he completed his final season at USL after sitting out more than half of the last season with a knee injury. An easier schedule than last year had many Cajun followers optimistic about the 98 campaign.

The season didn't fare much better than the last in the win-loss category. USL finished up at 2-9, winning only 3 games in the last two seasons. While the elder Stokley finished the season with the announcement of his departure, Brandon closed out smashing records and moving himself up the all time receiving charts. Many youthful players went through the rough campaign proving their abilities and potential for the next year. While the questions still overhanging the program following 1996 were mostly still there, some new questions developed in 1998, but this time, some answers came up too.

The optimism continued from the preseason through week one of the season following a competitive loss two the surprise team of the season, Arkansas. USL managed to hang with the Razorbacks, behind by only a touchdown at the half, but two quick Arkansas scores quickly decided matters. USL managed one more score in the 38-17 loss, which had many applauding the effort given by the Cajuns.

The second game of the season might have been the game that dashed the optimism of the first week's performance. USL fell to Northwestern State 24-22 in it's home opener. In a back and forth struggle, the game came down to a 24-yard Thomas LaToof field goal in a driving rain with just 2 seconds to play. A 77 yard Derek Dyer to Stokley pass gave the Cajuns the lead late in the fourth quarter. However, the Demons drove down the field with ease en route to the game winning kick.

USL then traveled to Ruston to face the high-powered Louisiana Tech Bulldogs. The Cajuns, playing with little inspiration were ripped apart by, of all things, a Bulldog running game that accounted for 389 yards. The reserves came in late for Tech to ease the blow, but the final score of 77-14 was anything but a gentle thing for the Cajuns to swallow. An uninspired team was left hurting with questions at key positions, such as the five different quarterbacks used during the season.

The next week, the Cajuns traveled to Mississippi for a meeting with Southern Miss, the preseason number 21 in the polls. The Cajuns failed to stop the Golden Eagles on defense, and could do nothing to hang with them on offense, resulting in a 55-0 embarrassment at the hands of the previously winless Eagles.

After the 0-4 start, the Cajuns hoped to stop the bleeding against the Blazers of UAB. However, USL fell in another close battle 24-13 to the Blazers. UAB used 228 yards of rushing to eat the clock and move the ball. The Cajuns fell to 0-5 on the season, and 0 for their last 10 dating back to the '97 season.

Two things went USL's way the next week. First of all, the Cajuns returned to the Swamp to celebrate homecoming after a three-game road trip. Second, the Cajuns were hosting the lone victim of the 97 season in Arkansas State. USL managed to get on top early and hold off a late Indian rally for their first win of the season. USL stopped ASU on a fourth and 2 with just over a minute to play to secure the victory.

The victory dance was soon stopped as Daunte Culpepper and the Golden Knights of Central Florida came to town. As Culpepper tried to prove to the attending fans his worth for a Heisman Trophy, he tore up the Cajun secondary as UCF went on to win the game by a final of 42-10. The Cajun defense did what they could to pressure Culpepper, sacking him 8 times, the highest total against him all season. However, that wasn't enough as UCF dominated the Cajuns defensively, sacking USL quarterbacks 10 times to seal off the victory.

The next week was scary even before the game started. The Cajuns were traveling to New Orleans to play a Tulane squad looking for an undefeated season and a possible coalition bowl bid. The Wave came out slow, only up by 16 after one, but gradually got going, demolishing USL 72-20 with most of the Cajun points coming after the outcome was decided.

The Cajuns were again optimistic going into their next game, this time facing a struggling NLU team that had beaten USL in overtime to spoil homecoming in 97. USL took an early lead and held it for most of the game, before NLU game back to take the lead and the victory right out of the Cajuns' grasp, winning 34-24. USL had once again let a winnable game slip out of reach, the third one of the season.

Up next came a trip to Stillwater, Oklahoma for a match up with the OSU Cowboys. USL was down quick and never recovered, as OSU ran right over the Cajuns with a 44-20 victory. The highlight of the game was the appearance of Senior kicker Burt Bijeaux, who booted through his first point as a Cajun as fans chanted a "popular movie reference" to his success in the situation.

Just before the last game of the season came the announcement of Nelson Stokley's retirement at the end of the season. It would not only be his last game, but his son's as well, the magic number for Brandon being 107, the number of yards he needed to become the first receiver in NCAA history to average 100 yards a game in all four seasons of his collegiate career. As Brandon set records, the USL running game helped to keep the Cajuns in control of the Hilltoppers of Western Kentucky. The final score represented the no-quit attitude of the players, as USL easily beat WKU 38-24.

Under the direction of new head coach Jerry Baldwin, USL has found some fountains of youth in the offensive backfield. With both John Bernard and Darren Brister proving to be solid runners, and the potential of Derek Dyer and Lance Domec at the quarterback position, USL has plenty enough talent to hold their own offensively. The defense has room for improvement after allowing over 40 points a game on average and 509 yards per game.

Multi MASCOTS

Almost every school across the nation has some sort of a team mascot. There is everything from the Raiders to the Eagles to the Cowboys to the Lions. Such mascots are meant to be intimidating to their opponents. Other mascots, such as the Chipmunks, the Volunteers, or the Blue Jays may have some sort of connection with the school or the culture of the area. The University of Southwestern Louisiana has such a mascot. Do you know what our mascot is?

Presently, our mascot is the Ragin' Cajun, but it wasn't always that way. When this school was the Southwestern Battling Bulldogs, our mascot was Gee, an English bulldog who often attended various athletic events at the school. A few years later, it became apparent that keeping a bulldog on campus was very unpractical and expensive. A USL student named William Butts took over the job of being a bulldog; he was a senior, majoring in marketing.

The idea of the bulldog as a mascot began to slowly disappear until, in 1974, the "Ragin' Cajun" became the school's symbol. In 1982, Anne Sargent of New Iberia won a contest for her rendition of the Ragin' Cajun. He was a shotgun-carrying hunter figure riding a giant crawfish, gripping the creature's feelers as reins.

As you may have seen at the games and pep rallies, the bulldog has been reintroduced into the atmosphere of the school. The present mascot, Red, had a spectacular debut. The English bulldog's first official appearance was prior to the USL vs. Texas A&M game at Cajun Field. A record-breaking crowd of 38,783 was present as she was led across the field by student handler Josh Gaspard. Red replaces Ragin' Cajun, who served as USL's mascot for the past six years. In 1990, Ragin' was donated to the school to be paraded around campus. Unfortunately, on May 25, Ragin' died of kidney failure. Christi and Robert House, however, are very happy to donate their pet for use at the university. They make him available for certain events at USL, and all of his care is their responsibility. His handler is a student here at USL, Jeremy Dubois from Abbeville.

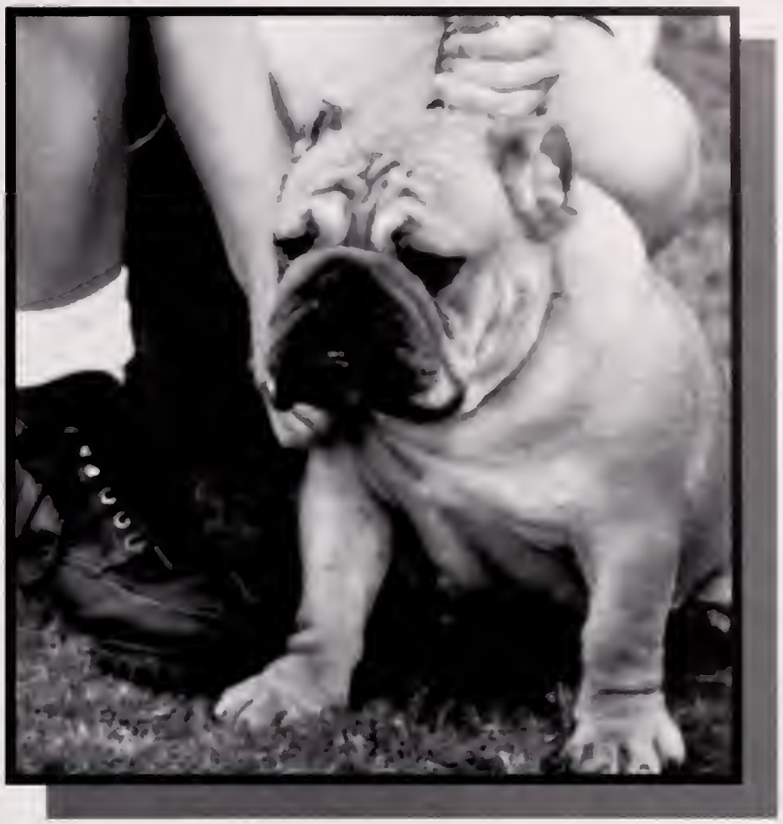

As far as the mascot goes, USL has an added twist. There is now such a thing as The Fabulous Cajun Chicken here at USL. This is a character invented by a man who has much experience in this line of work. His name is Russell Heim, and he came up with the bird costume in 1984 for the football and basketball games here at USL.

When asked how it all started, Russell replied that, in 1982, his boss at the time wanted him to audition to be a Budman. They were only in it for the free beer, but it became much more because they won it. Russell remained the Budman for the next three years. He appeared at several USL games, and he started to get too popular. The president of the university asked him to create a character for their use at the games. Mr. Cajun was the mascot at the time, and he did not go over well with the students. Pressed for time, Russell ran out and picked up whatever he could find...the bird costume.

USL perhaps has more mascots than it can use, but they only help add to the flavor and representation of USL and its diverse students.

USL PRIDE

VOLLEY BALL

After reaching the second round of the Sun Belt Conference in 1997, the Lady Cajuns had a pretty good act to follow this year. No team in Lady Cajun volleyball history had ever made it that far, but for Head Coach Laura Leaton, it wasn't far enough.

"Last year our goal was to get to the Conference Tournament," she said. "This year, our goal is to win the Conference Title."

The '98 season saw the Lady Cajun squad do a lot of traveling, starting with the Four Points Titan Classic, way out at Cal State Fullerton in September. The team also found itself at the Houston Invitational and the TCU Invitational.

Hoping to bring the Lady Cajuns that much wanted Conference Title, Leaton assembled a bigger, more athletic squad, with a mix of veteran and incoming players.

Outside hitter Gina Calegari returned, following a '97 season of being almost constantly ranked in the NCAA for digs. Joining her was middle blocker Jean Herron, Louisiana Newcomer of the Year for '97 and a USL record setter, edging past teammate Kendra Bradford. Also returning for the Lady Cajun Squad were setter Lisa Bordes and blocker Allie Pate.

Leaton has also put together six newcomers, adding to the athletic ability already on squad. Outside hitters April Smith, Meredith Perez, and Margerita Baez; along with middle blockers Janaina Gomes and Katrina Van Oudheusden rounded out the team.

...all for pride.

Have you ever thought about becoming a cheerleader? Imagine standing down in front of everyone with the bright lights of the stadium shining down on your red and white uniform. The crowd is getting into the game as the final seconds slowly tick away. The team is driving for the winning score and the captain calls for a cheer. The cheerleaders mobilize and in one unified voice bellow out the cheer for all they are worth. With the crowd following the lead of the cheerleaders, the letters "U-S-L" thunder across the stadium as the team runs in the winning score.

This is all part of being a USL cheerleader. But what we see at an athletic event is only the finished product. The road to that undying spirit and enthusiasm begins after the basketball season ends in March each year. At that time, tryouts are held for anyone interested in becoming a cheerleader. Even high school seniors who will be attending USL are invited to tryout. The only other requirements are that the student maintain a certain GPA and remain a full time student. At the tryout, a simple routine is taught. After the teaching period of the tryout, everyone is judged. The judging is done by professional cheerleaders.

That, however, is only half of the tryout. The other half is completed through an interview and clinic where the character and personality of the applicant is explored. In the end, the number that the cheerleaders hope to have is sixteen. Being that it is a coed team, that means an even split of eight men and women.

The first big event of the new year for the cheerleaders occurs at Ole Miss. This is a competition consisting of all the regional university's cheerleading squads. This year, the USL cheerleading squad proudly placed in several events. They won second place in the fight song competition, third place in both the sideline and cheer competition, and they also won the leadership award.

Throughout the school year, the cheerleaders are at all major events. Sporting events which the cheerleaders participate in include football, mens and womens basketball, and volleyball. They cheer at pep rallies and community activities. The cheerleaders also do many activities with the alumni association. Cheerleader captains Ross Walters and Tracy Landry describe the squad as service oriented and willing to perform for just about any organization which asks.

A day in the life of a cheerleader begins at 6:20 am with a morning workout. The women focus on weight loss and cardiovascular work while the men work to increase muscle strength. Chips and snacks are foods that the cheerleaders try to avoid. Many of the members spend more time cheering and practicing than they do in class.

Ross Walters, squad captain, said that time management is essential to be successful as a cheerleader. The squad cheers at an event on average of three or four times a week. For many of the events they cheer at, they arrive three hours before its start to practice and set up, then stay a extra half hour after its conclusion to pick up. Homecoming week is especially hectic as the cheerleaders participate in pep rallies, parades, socials, alumni events, homecoming court events, and even the morning news at 5 AM.

This year the cheerleaders were honored in having one of their own on the homecoming court. Cheerleading nominee Tracy Landry was selected from 48 nominees along with four other ladies for this honor. Tracy says that she never dreamed of making it but was honored and met many people. She also enjoyed cheering the team on to victory with the other court members.

USL: In Leaps and Bounds

or Overcoming Hurdles

Falling short of a championship at the Indoor Conference Meet, the Men's Track and Field Team still recorded personal bests in many of the running, throwing, and jumping events. James Boyd got a first place finish in the 35 pound weight throw, which also set a meet record with the toss of 51-01/4. Derrick James placed first in the 110 m hurdles with a time of 7.58. Parker Alleman gave the Cajuns a First Place finish in the Shot put, throwing 53-93/4 for a personal best by over three feet. Eric Derousseau finished third by one-hundreth of a second. Paul Fleming placed Second in the One Mile Run, with a time of 4:23.68. Paul Broussard also placed second in the pole vault with the jump of 15-113/4. Patrick Horne ran to a Second place finish in the 200m run with a time of 21.68, also placing Second in the 4x400m relay with a time of 3:20.03. James Boyd picked up a Third place in the Shot put with 52-10. Antonio Burks and Ketrie Patton tied for Third in the High Jump at 6-93/4. Parker Alleman was Fifth in the Weight Throw with a toss of 49-41/4. Jahzeel Gayle was Sixth in the 55m dash with a time of 6.58. The distance medley placed Sixth with 10:47.90.

The Lady Cajuns fared better, capturing the runner-up Indoor Conference spot. they also set records while achieving personal bests.

Leading the women's team on the track were Beverly Langley and Michelle Nelson, who each left with First Place medals. Langley received First in both the 55m run with 7.10 seconds and in the 200m run with 24.43 seconds. Nelson received first place medals in the long jump with an impressive mark of 19-11/2, as well as the 400m run with a time of 56.75 seconds. Nelson also grabbed a second place medal in the 200. Both Langley and Nelson ran a leg on the mile relay team which placed second. They combined for 48 of the team's 90 points.

Other placers included Cecilia Noel, winning the triple jump with a leap of 40-23/4 feet. She barely topped Leslie Davis who landed a mark of 39-83/4 feet. Morene Beckford managed to grab a Third with a jump of 38 83/4. Leslie Davis came back in the long jump placing Fourth with 18-61/2, and Cecilia Noel placed Sixth with 18-41/2. Freshman Nedra Green placed Second in the 400 with a time of 57.59. Morene Beckford also finished Sixth in the hurdles with a time of 8.20 sec

Heading into the Outdoor Sunbelt Conference, the Cajuns were favored to maintain their title, which is exactly what they did. Despite many obstacles, and the tragic loss of their teammate only 3 weeks prior to the Conference, the Cajuns pulled together and tallied up enough points to grab the Conference Title.

Jerry Simien finished First in the decathlon, and Freshman Luke Harrington finished Sixth. On the field, the Cajuns rallied to four First place finishes. Chad Arceneaux finished First in the Javelin with a throw of 195-4. Paul Broussard vaulted 15-0 for a First place finish. James Boyd finished First in the Shot put for the fourth consecutive year with a 54-0, and Antonio Burks finished First in the High Jump with a 6-93/4. On the track, USL grabbed two First place finishes. Derrick James ran to a First place finish in the 110m hurdles with a time of 14.33, and Marlon Dechausay finished first in the 400m run with a time of 47.00. Other places included Kris Peterson in the javelin with a throw of 180-8. Anthony Clement finished Fourth in the Shot put with a throw of 51-31/2, and Parker Alleman placed Seventh in the Shot put with 50-71/2. Mike Devries placed Eighth with a throw of 50-21/2. In the triple jump, Brian Soignier placed Fourth with a jump of 47-13/4; Antonio Burks placed 6th with a jump of 46-71/2, and Luke Harrington placed Seventh with a jump of 45-93/4. James Boyd placed Second in the Discus with a toss of 163-1. USL finished Second in the 400m relay with a time of 40.86.

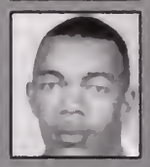

Paul Fleming placed Fifth in the 1500 meters with a time of 4:00.02. Jerry Simien placed Second in the 110m hurdles with a time of 14.75. Erik Derrousseau finished Fourth with a time of 15.27, and Chester Randall finished Eighth with a time of 16.08. In the 400m run, Patrick Horne ran to a Third place finish with a time of 47.37, and Delmus Scott ran to a Sixth place finish with a time f 48.62.

It is quite evident that the men's track and field team overcame the obstacles that stood in their way for their 7th consecutive Sun Belt Conference men's outdoor Championship.

The Lady Cajuns settled for a disappointing Fifth place finish at the Sunbelt Conference, due to a long list of injuries and major setbacks. On the field, the women managed to pull away with several places.

Freshman Kaye Prejean placed Fourth in the javelin with a throw of 139-1. Teammate Tamika Kenebrew got a Fifth place finish in the Shot put with a throw of 42-81/4 feet.

In the triple jump, USL managed to gain the first three spots. Cecilia Noel broke the meet record by jumping 41-6. This was good enough for First place. Leslie Davis was Second with a jump of 39-

USL Tennis

When you take a look at the USL Lady Cajuns Tennis Team, you will see a group of highly motivated young ladies out to prove themselves. In the 1997 season, the squad ended up with a 5-13 dual match record. The reason for those results was injuries coupled with lack of depth. Despite the diffi culties of last year, the Lady Cajuns were ranked number four out of ten in the Sun Belt Conference.

Under the guidance and coaching of head coach Dan Holden, the Lady Cajuns enter into the 1998 season with high hopes. This year the squad has four veterans of the previous year including All-Sun Belt conference Team member Julia Mertins. This year she returns as a senior for her final year. Coach Holden states that she is "...a smart player and tends to make other people she plays lose."

Joining Julia in her senior season is Katya Antropova. She has been a member of the Lady Cajun squad now since the Fall of 1994. During that, her first semester on the squad, she not only played and made it to the semifinals of the Houston Cougar Invitational, but she also managed to keep a 4.0 GPA.

Though there are no juniors on the squad this year, there are two sophomores. Both Maribeth Rivera and Anzela Zguna return in 1998 bringing experience to the squad. Both members of this sophomore duo are finance majors, and both show promise. Zguna was one of only four letterwinners last year.

The remaining three players are the freshmen of the squad for the 1998 season. They consist of Irena Novotna, Anna Persson, and Samantha Thomson. All three of these newcomers bring with them experience from previous tennis teams that they played on prior to attending USL. Irena was ranked number 52 for the Czech Republic in juniors 16 and under. Anna earned the number four rank in Sweden, and Samantha was ranked number seven in her province. In addition, Anna and Samantha both have some college experience from the Fall 1997 semester. Head Coach Dan Holden says, "Anna's a little more aggressive, and she's taller, bigger, and more powerful. Irena relies on speed and trying to put balls in play and make you miss."

The 1998 Lady Cajuns Tennis Squad is very diverse. The team consists of seven ladies total. Between the seven of them, they represent six different countries. Prior to college, they had each placed nationally in their own respective country. These countries include Latvia, Germany, Puerto Rico, the Czech Republic, Sweden, and Canada.

The men's squad, similarly, is very international in nature. Consisting of ten players, the men's tennis squad has representatives on it from five different countries. These countries are: Brazil, Poland, Australia, France, and the United States.

The squad is fairly young this year. There are no seniors playing, but there are two juniors leading the group this year. They are Ricardo Diniz and Rafael Fontes. The two sopho-mores on the squad this year are Gareth Keating and Vini Souza. The remaining six members of the squad are the freshmen in 1998. There names are Eduardo Gordilho, Carlos Himpler, Michal Jordan, Bernard Kaczorowski, Dimitri Lorin, and Bruno Puzzi.

also only the second player in Ragin Cajun history to advance to the NCAA singles championships while at the same time helping to boost USL to its second straight NCAA regional.

The players are not the only ones excited about the talent and potential for the season. Despite the youth of the team, Coach Holden maintains the most positive attitude regarding his team. He says, "This is the best team I've had since I've been here. It's about one level above the team that reached the top 30 two years ago. We have a really talented team, and they are all good kids who want to work hard and get better."

Coach Holden has a lot of experience in creating nationally ranked teams out of young players. In his fifth year as head coach, Holden has been named coach of the year twice. He also guided the 1997 team to the NCAA regionals using two sophomores and four freshmen. He led the women's team to their second best finish in ever in their 21 year history.

Along with the help of secretaries, trainers, and counselors, Holden is also joined by assistant coaches Eva Novotna and Rodney Jacks. Novotna is in her first season of coaching, but carries with her a strong background of playing tennis up to the collegiate level. Primarily, she coaches the Lady Cajuns team and participates in the daily operations of the program. Jacks is in his second season as an assistant coach. He works with both the men and women's teams. Jacks' experience tennis is also pretty vast. In addition to assisting with USL tennis, he also is the tennis director and general manager of the Vermilion Hills Racquet Club located in Lafayette.

The Changing of the Guard

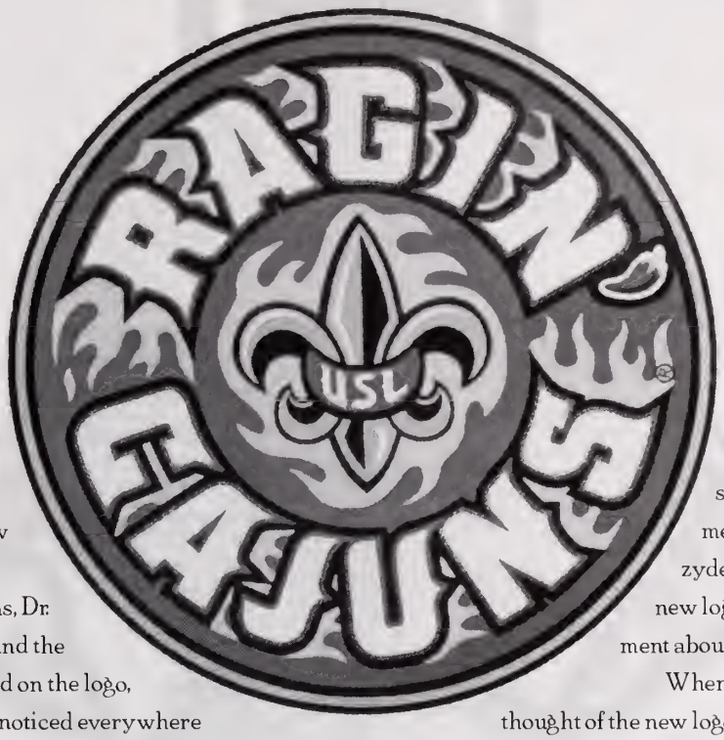

USL has acquired a new head coach. His name is Jerry Baldwin. Baldwin was named the coach in December of 98. Coach Baldwin and his brand new coaching staff hopes to bring USL a winning football team.

At the Meet the Coach event at the USL Alumni house Baldwin quoted Webster's Dictionary as defining success as "the degree or measure of obtaining a desired end." Baldwin then gave his own definition of the word. His version was, "Success lies not in achieving what you aimed at, but aiming at what you ought to achieve." In Baldwin's plans three steps will lead USL's team to victory. First the team must be a model of character. Second they must work toward graduation. Third they must win football games. He believes that the team can be successful because they will never compromise one and two to get to three.

Baldwin focused most of his speech on the students he recruited. He said that success also lies in the people you recruit. He and his staff signed 28 players on the first day of the NCAA's signing period. Of the 28, 19 are from Louisiana, four from Mississippi, and five from Texas. "We're very excited about this class. This group has a world of potential and a lot of talent, and it's a great foundation for us to start building a strong program and a successful program."

New Logo Sets Fire to the Spirits of Acadiana

USL seems to have had many changes over the past few months, but the thing that has caught the most attention is the new athletic logo. With the help of Julie Dronet, Director of Public Relations, Dr. Ray Authement, USL's President, and the many others who have worked hard on the logo, USl fans, alumni, and students are noticed everywhere because of its bright colors and unique design.

Since the early 1990's USL has known that they wanted to take greater advantage of the Ragin' Cajuns nickname. According to Dronet, this past fall Sports News Magazine named it the best nickname in all collegiate athletics. What better way to show it off then in a new logo?

In 1996, USL was granted federal registration to the nickname by the US patent and Trademark Office. This basically means the nickname is legally USL's and nobody can touch it. The university and the Collegiate Licensing Company of Atlanta, whom USL has been working with, started their quest to find someone who could bring the name "Ragin Cajun" a one-of-a-kind visual identity. They found just that person with the Sean Michael Edwards design Firm in New York.

The SME is a top notch design firm. They've created logos for many professional teams such as the Utah Jazz, Jacksonville Jaguars, and college teams such as Penn State, Georgia, and Auburn.

For more than a year, representatives of students, faculty, alumni, athletics, and staff met with the SME to determine what a Ragin' Cajun really was.

"While the term Cajuns once used to describe Southwest Louisiana residents with a French background, today it describes the culture of the region, our way of life," says Authement in a transcript of the unveiling ceremony. "It means hot and spicy food. It means zydeco and Cajun French music. This new logo captures that feeling of excitement about our on-the-move athletic teams."

When students were asked what they thought of the new logo, many said they liked it and that it was a good change.

Cheramie Richard, a mass communications major, likes to keep her answers short and to the point. When asked what she thought of the logo, she said, "I like it." When asked why, she said she, "It's pretty." Can't argue with that.

"Our goal was to make something athletically on the move and integrating that into what would be a Cajun look," says Dronet. "The Ragin' Cajun nickname is obviously very French. The fluer de lis has been on the University crest since 1927...it's important to maintain that heritage. Making it more stylized, three dimensional...not so formal, I think has worked really well for us. It also links the Ragin' Cajun identity with the university identity."

There are those who don't even realize that there is a new athletic logo, and those who like the idea, just not the style.

Amy Clark, a communications major, says, "It reminds me of Super Mario. I like it, but it's too busy. It has too much stuff."

Whether people like the new logo or not, it's going to be here for a while, and we should take pride in it, because it not only represents our school, but ourselves as well. It's who we are, THE RAGIN' CAJUNS of LOUISIANA.

OUTSTANDING ATHLETES

Homecoming the S Club inducts the few and the proud to have a plaque or picture hung in the Sports Hall of Fame.

The S Club nominates any NCAA sanctioned sport competitor after five of the years of the student's progress outside of campus . The outstanding athletes who attended USL and graduated elsewhere won't get the honor of hanging in our hallowed halls.

Notable entries are Holith Conway who earned a silver medal in Track and Field and Stephanie Conway who was an All-American softball player.

Last year's inductees are Willard Smith, a football player from 1951-1954, and Major Swindler, a baseball player from 1967-1970.

Orlando Thomas and Brian Mitchell aren't able to be nominated because the time period for nomination is not up yet. Athletes are nominated by the S Club president, which is a rotating position. The club is not funded. Matt Roth is the current president of the S Club. He is an alumnae football player. The S club also has a Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, and twenty members on an executive board.

The S Club meets once a month to plan upcoming events. Of course, the first football game of the season is a big one and desrves a big party. You will see these guys tailgating for sure. They are having a crawfish boil for the Lady Cajuns softball team this year. The Sports Hall of Fame is located in the Cajun Field Complex in an old locker room. It is under renovation this year, but great plans are in effect to upgrade this mecca of sports to new glory.

The display room is on the site of an old lockler room renovated for commendation of these outstanding athletes. twenty black and white pictures awaiting matting and framing then to be placed back upon the wall in the hal of fame. There are photographs dating back to the nineteen hundreds of great competitors in all sports. Plans are in effect to transform the old locker room into a plush recruiting environment. There will be some comfortable sofas, a TV playing USL highlghts, refreshments, food, the whole deal, even a wet bar.

The VERMILION

Photographs by Aaron Lemoine

The Vermilion's editor in chief is Lisa Voorhies Blackburn and she has worked her way up to that position. She has held that position since the summer of '97. "I started working on the paper when I was a freshman. I've held the positions of staff writer, entertainment editor, associate editor, managing editor, and now I'm editor in chief," Blackburn said.

She is reluctant to pick a favorite job at the paper, but she said she liked the position of associate editor. "I did enjoy being the associate editor because I like to write the staff editorials and generally it's the associate editors job to write the staff editorials. It's one of the only opportunities in the paper where you get to write and opinionated piece," she said, "and I enjoy editorial writing."

Time management can be a problem. Blackburn, like all college students with jobs, has to carefully ration her time between school and work. "Sometimes I'm just forced to choose between doing my homework and turning it in, or attending a class or fulfilling my obligations to the paper. Ultimately, it ends up being fulfilling my obligations to the paper because a whole lot of people are depending on me to do that. University money is riding on it. I can't just let a page full of blank spaces get printed," Blackburn said simply.

"A lot of people don't realize how much work and late hours are put into putting the paper together. We work all day Wednesday and we basically put the paper together on Wednesday nights. I will stay there continually, basically all day, through the night until about five a.m., and then I have to return the next morning to finish. I get very little sleep during that time of the week," she said.

A common complaint is failure to cover a story. "I'll have lots of departments complain that we didn't cover an event. It's simply because I didn't know. I try to be the eyes and ears. I try to get our staff writers to be the eyes and ears, but it is partially the responsibility of the different departments around campus, to give us this information. This (The Vermilion) is not our full-time job. We are also full-time students here. It's pretty hard to juggle the two. And, we are still learning, we are in college. We aren't professionals yet, technically," Blackburn said.

Jason Kaliszeski is a photographer, but his other job at The Vermilion is as the advertising/business manager. "I'm responsible for all advertising, national and local. I'm responsible for everything basically, having to do with finance. Payroll, purchasing equipment, travel requests, you name it," Kaliszeski said.

The business of selling ads is crucial to generating funds for a newspaper and Kaliszeski has developed his own methods. "A lot of times I look in other newspapers and see who is advertising the most, who should be advertising in our newspaper. (Advertisers) who are trying to get the USL market in other newspapers or through radio," he explained. "It's a business that wants the USL market, that's looking for that age group. We're basically the only place they should advertise because that's all we hit is the USL market. It's a direct hit on who they are looking for."

Like the rest of the people who work for the Verm, Kaliszeski is driven to make The Vermilion the award winning newspaper it is.

UPC

Union Program Council

The Union Program Council, or UPC, is a self governing organization run by USL students for USL students. It is through this organization that a vast majority of student activities and events are planned. The council consists of 5 committee chairpersons, a president, 2 residence hall representatives, an international representative, 2 at large representatives, and 2 faculty representatives. The 5 committees (African American Culture Committee, Entertainment Committee, Issues/World Culture Committee, Special Events Committee, and Spirit Committee) meet at different times during the week to generate ideas for programs to bring to the student body. the committee chairperson is responsible for bringing the ideas of the committee to the council to be voted on.

Perhaps the best part of UPC is that everyone is a member, and there are no dues to be paid.Part of very student's tuition is allotted each fall semester to compose the budget for the council for the year. The monies are used to pay for the programs the UPC brings to campus, as well as some activities unique to USL itself.

Since the council's existence, not much has changed in the internal structure of UPC until recently. In 1998, the council was downsized from 9 committees to the present 5 committees. President Jason Laurin says, "The downsizing was done to better serve the student body as a whole." He continues by stating that "some of the activities of one committee were so close to activities of another committee that combining them seemed the best way for the council to be more productive." Laurin adds, "Though we are only halfway through the year, the reduction in the numbers of committees seems to be working wonderfully."

This year's council consists of President Jason Laurin, Chris Catalanotto, Angel Clay, Micheal Cline, Ann Engammare, Carol Gantt, Shawan Hagan, Maja Johnson, John Mouton, Jamie Onellion, Ahmed Shams, and Shannon Warren.

Even though the internal structure of the council has changed, the UPC motto has not. "Something for Everyone" represents the idea of the council as a whole. With all that UPC has to offer, every student is bound to find something to peak his interest.

Student Orientation Staff

The Student Orientation Staff, or SOS, as they are more commonly called, is a group of unique individuals volunteering their time to ensure that every prospective USL student's first encounter with campus is a positive and informational one. A select few individuals (about 40) are chosen each spring from over 100 applicants. Once selection is complete, the group goes through an extensive three month training process to be ready for the orientation programs that begin in May. Then, once the summer begins and orientation is in full swing,these dedicated students, some in summer school themselves, spend mornings, afternoons, evenings, and even nights with the future students.

Combined, the orientation staff members put in well over 10,000 volunteer hours, most of which is spent informing incoming students about the various aspects of USL. Some of the most important aspects include scheduling of classes and touring the main campus as well as the athletic complex at Bourgerois Hall. The SOS volunteer work is not limited to orientations, however. The staff works throughout the year putting on programs such as Project Find at the beginning of each semester, Get On Board Day in the Fall, and Senior Day, to name a few. SOS is often the first real contact prospective students have with USL, and so their role is a special one of dedication and determination. Whether known by name, or just as the people in the red shirts at orientation, it is easy to see why these student volunteers should be commended for their hard work, commitment, and effort.

Band

It all starts with band camp. This camp consists of four days in the burning hot summer sun, where USL's Pride of Acadiana Marching Band learn the music and drill to entertain the football fans before and during the game. The band performs at pregame, halftime, and plays to support the football team from the stands during the game.

The marching band director is James I. Square. Square has been here for four years. Since he has joined the staff here at USL the size of the marching band has grown from around 110 to 203. The growth in size can also be attributed to the increase in funds that has been given to the band. The upper administration, lead by President Authement, has made it possible to increase band scholarships at two levels. These are at the tuition assistance level, and housing scholarships. The Pride of Acadiana Housing Scholarships have enabled the band to recruit students from around Louisiana, across the nation, and also internationally.

In addition to the instrumental section of the band, there are parts that include drum majors, percussion, and guard. The drum majors help lead the band on and off the field. Percussion has a marching and a concert band section. the entire percussion is going to Orlando, Florida for the Percussive Arts Society International Convention. The guard is also a very important part of marching band. They add a lot to the visual effect that the band has on an audience. Mr. Square is trying to rebuild the guard number. He would also like to go back to more traditional guard work, this means more equipment work, and less dance.

The musical selection that the marching band is playing this year includes music such as Russian Easter, a song from the move The Wiz, Bayou Girl, New Orleans Lady, Do You Know What It Means To Miss New Orleans, Everybody's Everything, How Do You Keep the Music Playing, and many others.

In addition to playing at Home football games, the marching band also attends one away game per year, a pep band is sent to all other away games, they march in parades, and also play at pep rallies.

The marching band plays a very important part in the overall spirit of the school. The fight song and alma mater can be heard at every football game. James Square and his staff work very hard to make the marching band what it is, and are always striving to make it better. USL would not be the same without the music that USL's Pride of Acadiana Marching Band provides.

L'acadien

A yearbook tells the stories of things that have happened during the year. Everyone has at least seen a yearbook, but few people know how much work it takes to actually put one together. Behind every yearbook there is a staff that makes to whole thing possible. Sometimes finding out where and when events are taking place is the hardest part. Once this is accomplished writers and photographers have to be assigned and each has to do their part. When their jobs are complete, the stories and pictures have to be approved by the editor and then they are sent to the layout designers who actually puts these stories and pictures on the pages of the yearbook. Once these designers have worked their computer magic, the page is sent to the plant where the manufactures of the books proof everything again and then the page is sent back for the staffs final approval. All of these things have to be done on a deadline. The stories and pictures in the yearbook are just a fraction of all the work that the staff has to do to make to book turn out in a way that everyone will enjoy.

The staff of L'acadien is fairly small, but they make sure that everything that needs to get done gets done. The editor of the yearbook is Kimberly Boudreaux. There are six section editors under her. They are Aaron Lemoine, photo editor; Charles Claudet III, layout editor; Sarah Viguerie, Greeks and Centennial editor; Kacy Watts, entertainment editor; Jason Tonglet, sports editor; and Rachelle Roy, groups editor. Besides these people there are several writers, photographers, people who deal with layouts, and others who offer computer support.

Every year the staff attempts to capture the important events and issues that deal with the students and community. This yearbook is the start of a Centennial trio that will deal with the past, present, and future of USL. This particular yearbook serves as a time capsule of sorts that looks back on the past of USL as well as the year's events.

The title of the book is Surfacing. The staff all felt that it is a fitting title.

When interviewing Kimberly about this year's book she said, "I want this book to capture events not only of this past year, but this past century as well." This quote not only captures the editor's overall outlook for the book, but for the entire staff. They all want this yearbook to be a step up from those in the past.

The team started out 7-0-1 only to finish a disappointing seventh place. In 1998 the team lives on. Led by founder Chris Kwong and two returning players, Nick Istre and Danny Smith, the team hopes to rebuild its strength with eleven new members. Even though the team consists of many new players to the game, our hopes and dreams still lead us to victory. The team finished 1-1-1 in its first tournament play, beating Sam Houston State University, tying defending champion Texas A&M, and losing in the final seconds of a hard fought game to Stephen F. Austin State University. The future looks bright for USL Hockey. Every game the team improves. We strive forward to our destiny, a place among the elite, to be number one.

Around 1980, six sorority houses were being built on land made available by the university. At this time, sororities were being housed temporarily at OK Allen hall. Before then, they had suite accommodations at College Inn.

Money is the main reason that other sororities haven't built houses, since it's hard to keep up with utilities, insurance, etc... The six sororities with houses are Tri Sigma, Phi Mu, Tri Delta, Kappa Delta, Alpha Omicron Pi, and Delta Sigma Theta. They are located off of Souvenir Gate across from the Cajundome.

The idea of building a fraternity row on USL's campus took many years of planning before the first house was built in 1985. The idea started with Dean Joe Savoie. He convinced the university that this was a worthwhile cause and laid the foundation for this project before leaving office in 1980. Dean Edward Pratt took over his position and along with the fraternity row committee, made Dean Savoie's idea a reality. Dean Pratt credits Clint Adcock and Dewitt David, both students and members of Kappa Alpha at that time for providing motivation and dedication needed for this project to succeed.

The land that the houses now sit on was part of the USL farm program. After the farm closed, the university designated this land for fraternity row. In addition, USL also gave $45,000 to develop the land and Dr. Authement co-signed the loans for all of the houses. The lots are leased for $20.00 a year for 99 years to any fraternity that has $25,000 in the bank designated for their housing cooperation.

Fraternities eligible for land in 1985 drew numbers form a hat to determine which fraternity would get the first choice at a lot. Theta Xi, Kappa Alpha, Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon all participated in the drawing. Kappa Alpha won the first pick and were the first to complete construction and move in on the row. All other houses now on the row, with the exception of Phi Kappa Theta, were built within the next three years.

Photography by Sarah Viguerie

Before the row, fraternities rented houses near campus, but it was sometimes difficult for them to function in a neighborhood. The row was also wanted because it would give them a sense of pride and unite the Greek community.

National Panhellenic Council

National Panhellenic Council is an organization of national Greek letter sororities whose purpose is to direct the goals of the sorority system and to serve as a forum for the exchange of ideas. This governing group at USL consists of two representatives from each of the five sororities who establish guidelines for all of the sororities and promote the benefits of being a Greek at USL.

1994

The National Pan-Hellenic Council is the governing body of all historically significant African American fraternities and sororities. We are fortunate to have seven of the eight national NPHC organizations. Although the NPHC is the official governing body, it serves more as a communication base for coordinating efforts and building unity among our groups. In keeping with the USL tradition, our NPHC is service oriented. Our council has also worked diligently to increase the quality of life for all students. The NPHC is making a difference at USL.

National Pan-Hellenic Council

National Interfraternity Council

The National Interfraternity Council (IFC) is made up of the ten nationally affiliated chapters on USL's campus and is compromised of representatives from each fraternity. As a governing body, IFC develops policies and programs regarding fraternity housing, rules, athletics, recruitment, scholarship, community service, and public relations.

Junior IFC & NPC is comprised of new members of the Greek system. The group's main objective is to familiarize new members with the Greek system and prepare them for positions in other councils such as Greek Council, IFC, and NPC.

Junior IFC and NPC

Greek Council

Greek Council was formed five years ago to bring IFC, NPC, and NPHC fraternities and sororities together. Our main purpose is to promote communication between the three councils in order to foster a positive inter-Greek relationship. Greek Council does this by planning all Greek philanthropy projects, retreats, and other events such as Greek Week in the Spring.

Goals for the 1998 council include setting up a Greek Night at the an Ice Gators' Game, publishing the Greek Guide and All Greek phone book, and revising the Greek Counicl Constitution.

The council hopes to provide a fun opportunity for all Greeks to work together by planning, organizing, and publicizing these events.

Delta Delta Delta was founded nationally on Thanksgiving Eve in 1888 at Boston University. In 1957 the Phi Nu Chapter established the silver, gold, and blue of Tri Delta at USL. Our mascot is the dolphin, our flower is the pansy, and our jewel is the pearl.

We believe in the principle that every woman is an individual, yet as a group we may better face the challenges and excitement of college life.

Our motto, "Let us steadfastly love one another" encourages us to help and support anyone in need. Our national philanthropies include Children's Cancer Research and Scholarships for University Women. We host an annual Easter egg hunt to benefit them. Locally, we are active in a learning program with the Boys and Girls Clubs of Acadiana.

In addition to philanthropy, academics is also a top priority. We provide resources and programs to help our sisters succeed.

Tri Deltas also enjoy social events such as Fall Fling, Crush, Spring Formal, and Deltas Only.

Famous alumni that have experienced the sisterhood and spirit of Delta Delta Delta include Mrs. Elizabeth Dole.

ΔΣΘ

Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. was founded in the year 1913 on the campus of Howard University. The Theta Xi chapter was installed at USL in 1971. The basic and continuing thread of our organization's public service program is our five point thrusts through which each chapter in 562 communities develop action programs in response to local needs. The five points include educational development, economic development, community and international development, housing and urban development, and mental health.

Delta women are active volunteers at both the national and local levels of YMCA, NAACP, Urban League, Girl Scouts, Red Cross, United Community Funds, Habitat for Humanity, Sickle Cell Anemia, and Read America.

At the local level, the chapter participates in the Martin Luther King Holiday Association, Lafayette Teen Court, Lafayette Youth Conference Committee, Adopt a Grandparent, PROLINK, and project W.A.K.E.U.P.

An inspiring quote which the Theta Xi chapter thrives on is "I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me."

Our members are also active in UPC, SGA, SOS, Americorps, Scholars of Acadiana, Ronald E. McNair program, and the order of Omega. We also sponsor the annual Greek Extravaganza, a step shop with participants from surrounding states.

Bid Day 1983

Kappa Delta was founded in 1897 in Richmond, Virginia. Our jewels are the diamond, emerald and pearl. Our mascots are the teddy bear and nautilus shell. Three things come to mind when thinking of a true Kappa Delta; scholarship, philanthropy, and sisterhood.

Since 1984, Kappa Deltas have raised money through their Shamrock Project to benefit their national philanthropy, The National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse, which was founded by a Kappa Delta.

Other philanthropic activities include the Bengal Tree, Running of the Ducks, Gift Wrapping for MDA, a po-boy sale for the Children's Shelter, and Daffodil Days to raise money for the local chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Of all these ideals, KDs bond of sisterhood is the most important. This bond that has led them to the top. Each member contributes her individuality to form one unique and united circle of friendship.

Kappa Delta's social calendar is always full, whether it be a fraternity social, members only retreat, or a KD date party, such as Grub, Cookout, Mystery Date, or the Emerald Ball.

So come join us to catch a glimpse of the laughter, joy, and sisterhood that we feel as members of Kappa Delta Sorority.

Phi Mu

Phi Mu began in 1852 and is the second oldest sorority in existence today. Phi Mu was founded in Macon, Georgia at Wesleyan College. Phi Mu serves on the precepts of philanthropy, sisterhood, and service. Members are encouraged to engage in academics, philanthropic, and social activities.

The main beneficiary of Phi Mu's philanthropy work is Children's Miracle Network. During Christmas, the Alpha Sigma Chapter of Phi Mu participates in the Toys for Tots campaign, and in the spring we hold our annual carwash. This year Phi Mu is also sponsoring a "Pie in the Face" contest.

Besides philanthropy, Phi Mu also contributes a large part of our time to other activities such as socials, mother-daughter luncheon, State Day, and Founder's Day. Every semester we have various socials with fraternities, such as Toga Party and Dixie Barnyard Bash. We also have our annual parties such as Fall Fiesta, Mystery Date, Crush, and the Spring Carnation Ball.

Many of our Phi Mu sisters are on fraternity courts and participate in cheerleading, dance team, and Order of Omega. However, the most important part of Phi Mu is to uphold the ideals of sisterhood. We take pride in our three ideals: love, honor, and truth, which were passed on to us by our founders.

Tri Sigma's colors are purple and white, our symbol is the sailboat, our flower is the African violet, and our jewel is the pearl. The open motto we live by is "Faithful until Death ."

Our national philanthropy is the Robbie Page Memorial that supports the development of of play therapy rooms for hospitalized children. Locally, the week of April 20 is designated as Tri Sigma Week because of our hard work and dedication to the community.

Zeta Phi Beta was founded on January 16,1920 at Howard University in Washington, D.C. by five coeds. These women sought to establish a new organization predicated on the ideals of scholarship, service, sisterhood, and finer womanhood. For seventy-five years, the trail blazed by the founders has been traversed by thousands of women dedicated to the emulation of the objectives and the ideals of our sorority.

Our sorority was the first organization to charter a chapter in Africa, to form adult and youth auxiliary groups, and to be constitutionally bound to Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc.

The Omega Eta Chapter at USL has been in existence for twenty-two years. The chapter's most notable accomplishment is the adoption of the pediatrics ward at the University Medical Center. The members work hard to exemplify the precepts of the sorority through its "Seven Point Plan of Action." This plan includes education, chapter management, community service, economic development, governmental affairs, drug and substance abuse prevention, and health and wellness awareness.

Gamma Alpha Chi

γαμμα χι αλφα

Gamma Alpha Chi fraternity was founded at Louisiana State University on November 10,1990. Founded by fourteen freshman, Gamma Alpha Chi was created to be a positive and innovative alternative to the negativity that the fraternal community possessed at that time at LSU.

the original members of Gamma Alpha Chi set out to forge a new path of service for the community and to form a true brotherhood between its own members as well as other members of the Greek community. Armed with only strong wills and driving ambition, our brothers fulfilled and surpassed all of their expectations for the new organization. Within the first six months of existence, Gamma Alpha Chi had already spread to Southern University and to the University of New Orleans.

Gamma Alpha Chi had also set the stage for its service based social fraternity roll by performing on the average of two hundred and fifty service hours per week in the surrounding community.

Socially, we excelled by hosting parties, picnics, and sporting events. The young fraternity served its fellow students clean, positive activities. The USL chapter was officially chartered in 1996. We have since become active participants in the Greek system.

Kappa Alpha Order was founded at Washington and Lee College in Lexington, Virginia by four Confederate veterans in 1865. The Gamma Phi Chapter was founded locally in 1960 under our national motto of "Dieu Eta Les Dames." Our colors are crimson and old gold, and our flowers are the magnolia and the red rose.

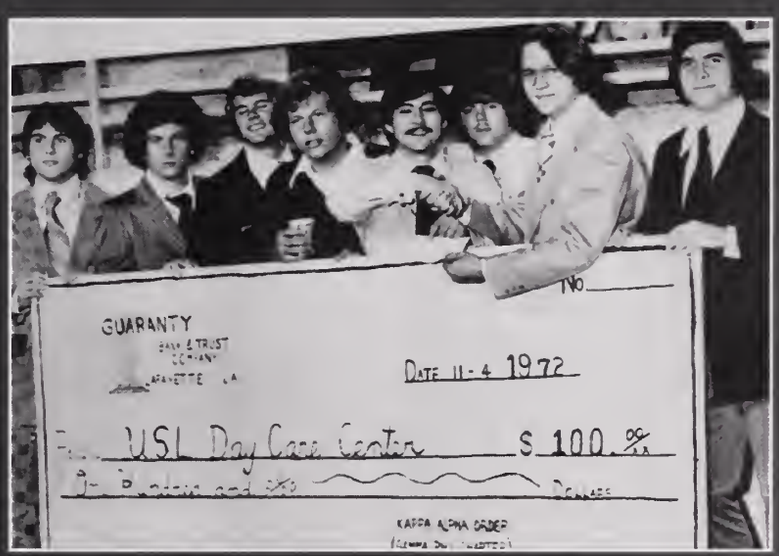

In our thirty-eight years on campus, we have pioneered and lead many traditions. For example, we built the first house on the present day fraternity row in 1983. We are also successful in intramural sports, academics, and leadership on various campus organizations.

Kappa Alpha is different in the fact that it is an Order, not a fraternity. The Order does not shape everyone according to a specific model. Instead, Kappa Alpha is composed of a variety of men.

We work hard to support our national philanthropy, MDA. We also enjoy sponsoring some for the most well known parties on campus. We celebrate Homecoming in the fall and the week long Old South and the all day End of the World Party in the spring.

Kappa Sigma is setting a new standard of excellence on campuses across the continent. We are one of the largest and strongest international fraternities.

Founded at the University of Virginia on December 10, 1869, Kappa Sigma is one of the oldest, most prestigious Orders of its kind, with over 227 undergraduate chapters and colonies throughout North America. Kappa Sigma also has a long history of tradition in Lafayette.We were originally founded at USL on March 17,1956, and currently being re-colonized.

Kappa Sigma Fraternity is a diverse association of men who have come together to make their collegiate experiences better. Kappa Sigmas commit themselves to our ideals, cultivate lifelong friendships, and learn the value of teamwork. Brothers also participate in campus and service activities, expand their career opportunities, and develop self-confidence and social responsibility.

Finally, Kappa Sigma expects its brothers to be a credit to their fraternity, campus, and community. We encourage and provide opportunities for brothers to pursue their interests and strengths both inside and outside the chapter. Through fraternity activities, brothers, and chapters, we learn the value of community service and the rewards of helping others.

Lambda Chi Alpha

"We the men of Iota Omega Zeta, are here to succeed through strong leadership, moral responsibility and a close brotherhood, in accordance with ritual; while in the progress of bettering ourselves through education and social interaction (and by having a good time doing it.)"

This is our chapter mission statement. We have been at USL since 1962, and since 1920, Lambda Chi Alpha International Fraternity has expanded to become one of the top three national fraternities in the world.

Here at USL, we continue the excellence by continually setting standards. Lambda Chi Alpha is consistently above the all men's GPA as well as the men's Greek average. Our athletic program is strong and diverse. Lambda Chi is active in all intramural sports. This past year, we went undefeated in both flag football and softball, winning all the way to state.

Although these areas are important, there is one area that you can't forget in college, the parties. There is Homecoming, the Halloween Social, Luau, Un-Social, T.G.I.F., and F.A.A., all of which culminate in the spring with the wildest parties on the row, Warrior Party and Voodoo.

Brotherhood is what you make of it and Lambda Chi Alpha takes it to the next level..

ΦΒΣ

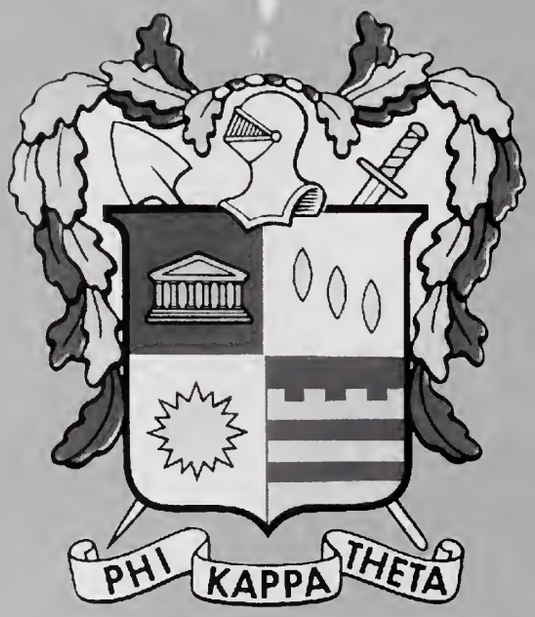

Phi Beta Sigma was formally chartered in 1914 at Howard University by A. Langston Taylor, Leonard F. Morse, and Charles I. Brown on the principles of brotherhood, service, and scholarship. The Iota Iota chapter of Phi Beta Sigma was founded on USL's campus in 1977.

Phi Beta Sigma's motto is "Culture for Service and Service for Humanity." Our past social activities included being instrumental in establishing National and state anti-lynching legislation in the 1930's and 1940's, in being active in the abolition of the elimination of racial discrimination and segregation in employment practices in the 1950's and 1960's, along with being active in the abolition of the Jim Crow Laws. Brother A. Phillip Randolph was a key factor in the 1960's civil rights march in Washington and Brother Huey P. Newton encouraged African-Americans to rise up against the plight of mental slavery.

Famous brothers to wear Phi Beta Sigma's blue and white included George Washington Carver, Emmit Smith, Scottie Pippen, Blair Underwood, and Quincy Jones.

Through Phi Beta Sigma's three national programs, Bigger and Better Business, Social Action and Education, and the Sigma Beta Club for mentoring, our fraternity has helped to shape and mold young men nationwide.

Phi Kappa Theta

Phi Kappa Theta was originally founded on April 29, 1889 at Lehigh University. The local chapter was founded in 1941. We are proud of our history as the oldest national fraternity on campus.

Phi Kappa Theta was founded on the ideals of honor to God and our fellow man, as well as scholastic excellence. Our colors are cardinal purple, white, and gold. Our flower is the red tea rose and our jewels are the ruby and the pearl. Our symbol is the golden sun.

Our national philanthropy is the Children's Miracle Network. Our dedication to this charity as well as our local charity, St. Joseph's Diner, is represented in our motto "Give expecting nothing thereof."

We also excel in scholastics and have been a leader in Greek Intramural Athletics for the past twelve decades.

Phi Kappa Theta also offers many opportunities for its members to socialize. The annual South Seas Party, TGIF, and the Columbine Formal are just some of the parties that Phi Kappa Theta hosts.

Phi Kappa Theta has been a winning tradition and vibrant part of college life at USL since 1941.

ΣAE

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded nationally on March 9, 1856. Our purple and gold have been an active force on campus since January of 1968. Our mission is to promote the highest standards of friendship, scholarship, and service for our members based upon the the ideals set forth by our founders specifically enunciated in the True Gentlemen. We are a brotherhood providing power in unity, honor in its word , and strength to achieve.

We look for men who desire competition, understand duty, and respond to their callings with honor and dignity. We look for the well-balanced man, the man who knows when to raise hell and when to be serious. We believe in Unity in Diversity and treat each other with dignity and respect.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon holds two of USL's biggest parties on campus, Paddy Murphy and Beachcombers. We also host pre-game parties, TGIF's, Sorority socials, our Founder's Day formal, holiday celebrations and homecoming events.

Sigma Nu began at the Virginia Military Institute on January 1, 1869. Our creed and mission is "To believe in the Life of Love, To Walk in the Way of Honor, To Serve in the Light of Truth."

On May 18, 1963, George William Morgan Wright established the Eta Nu chapter at USL. Since then, we have taken great pride in our leadership and commitment to be the best, especially in sports. Sigma Nu has repeatedly captured the Fraternity All-Sports Trophy.

Sigma Nu brothers, while always gentlemen, love to have a good time. We hold three casual socials a semester with various sororities, date socials, a Christmas Party, a Krewe of Nu Mardi Gras Party, and the End of the World Blowout. Sigma Nu is the only fraternity at USL to have an out-of-state White Rose Formal and as annual winter ski trip.

Our famous brothers include Bob Barker, Al Michaels, Harrison Ford, and Archie Manning.

We also encourage all extracurricular activities on campus, especially those that develop our members' best qualities. The diversity of our chapter coupled with the strength of our brotherhood and our reputation as gentlemen allow us to excel in many areas of achievement

Tau Kappa Epsilon was founded on January 10, 1899 at Illinois Wesleyan University and has since become one of the worlds largest international fraternities. The Omicron Kappa chapter was founded at USL in 1974 and was rechartered in 1993. Today Teke is one of the largest Greek organizations on campus, adding success to the fraternity as a whole.

Our colors are cherry and pure silver gray, our flower is the red carnation, and we uphold our motto of "Not for wealth, rank, or honor, but for personal worth and character."

Tau Kappa Epsilon is also an active force within the community. We participate in fundraiser for our national philanthropy, the Special Olympics. Tau Kappa Epsilon also donates time to Habitat for Humanity, St. Joseph's Diner, Big Brothers of Acadiana, the Salvation Army, and we adopted Dupree Library.

TKE also knows how to have fun. With Homecoming, Tiki Island, Red Carnation Ball, End of the World Party, and Hell Party, we know how to have a good time.

Tau Kappa Epsilon, the choice to belong, the challenge to become.

Sigma Pi

Kindred minds are men united in brotherhood. They are men committed to scholarship because an educated mind can impact the world. Kindred minds are conscious of civic, national, and international responsibilities. They are leaders and team players, respectful, and worthy of respect. Sigma Pi brothers are kindred minds and kindred spirits.

The men of the Alpha Tau chapter of Sigma Pi here at USL are a rare breed of men.All of our brothers stand behind Sigma Pi's proposition that all men arc created equal. We are ever ready to challenge ourselves physically, academically, spiritually, and socially. Our members and alumni form a wide spectrum, but we are all committed to making advancements in those areas of our lives. We are writers, psychologists, anthropologists, chemists, mathematicians, engineers, businessmen, chefs, and athletes.

In Alpha Tau, we are helping to lay down a new tradition. We hope to inspire academics, philanthropy, brotherhood, and openness. We look forward to being leaders of the 21st century.

ΘΞ

Theta Xi is a fraternal organization that emphasizes leadership, responsibility, and academics. Also, Theta Xi provides a spiritual understanding that sustains the brotherhood in the pursuit of these qualities. The goal of the active chapter and alumni association is to ensure that these ideals are passed on to new associates.

Nationally, Theta Xi was founded in 1864. Theta Xi was the twenty-second fraternity to be recognized as a national fraternity. Locally, Theta Xi is the oldest fraternity at USL through its union with a local brotherhood called Tau Sigma Delta. Since the merger of Tau Sigma Delta and Theta Xi at USL in 1946, over 1000 members have been initiated into the brotherhood.

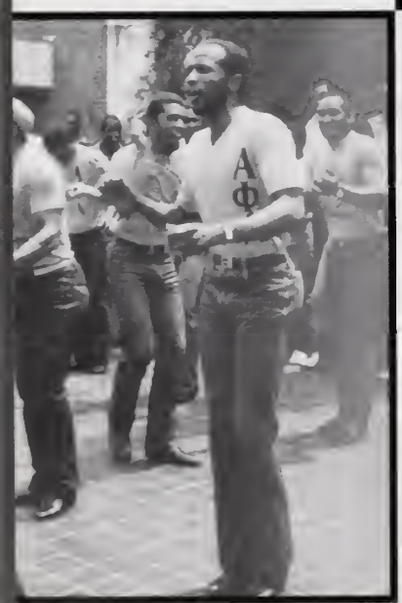

The Alpha Omicron Chapter of Theta Xi hosts many sorority socials,open parties, homecoming events and a spring formal. However, this chapter is not only concerned with social aspects of college life, but also supports philanthropy projects as well. The chapter hosts an annual Frisbee golf tournament to help support Habitats for Humanity. Theta Xi is a diverse brotherhood that is very active in supporting the community, but insures that the chapter also enjoys itself in the process.

Jamie Onellion

Jamie Onellion is a USL student with quite a story. Born in Marrero, transplanted to Colorado, and raised in Lafitte, Jamie claims that she "literally grew up in the swamp." Back at home, Jamie had a pet alligator.

Of her six semesters at USL, Jamie has been on the Dean's List four times. She is most proud of having attained a 4.0 GPA in the Spring 98 semester. Through all the hard work, Jamie is now a senior majoring in Criminal Justice. She will be graduating in the Summer of 1999.

Very few people could maintain the schedule that Jamie does. Throughout her years at USL, Jamie has belonged to the Criminal Justice Society, the Student Orientation Staff, and the Union Program Council. In addition to being the chair of the Homecoming Committee, she also chairs both the Spirit and Lagniappe Committees.Despite this active schedule, Jamie maintains a personal motto stating, "to be involved, you must devote yourself completely."

When Jamie has free time away from everything else in her life, she enjoys roller skating, running, the movies, and white water rafting. Finally, like every other college student, she sometimes likes to just relax and listen to music.

Irena Novotna

Do you remember your first semester of college? Was college life intimidating? Was being far away from home too overwhelming? Well, just try going to college in a different country where no one speaks your language. For Irena Novotna this amazing story is her life.

Born in Brno, Czech Republic, Irena followed her older sister, former Assistant Tennis Coach Eva, to the United States and eventually to USL. Unlike American universities, Czech colleges do not award any sports scholarships. On the college level, sports are treated more like club organizations, so coming to school here allows Irena to continue to compete competitively.

Irena originally began her sports career as a figure skater at the age of six and added tennis to her activities at age seven. She placed first at a national skating competition at the age of eight. However, she could not continue both sports and chose to only play tennis.

In 1996, Irena won the juniors division of the district tournament and was eventually ranked ninty-third in the eighteen and under division in the Czech Republic. In the summers of 1996 and 1997 she taught tennis on the Nike Tennis Camp Tour. She visited such places as Lawrenceville, New Jersey; Amherst, Massachusetts; and Dartmouth, New Hampshire and taught children of all ages.

Even though life here is very different from life in her hometown, she enjoys living here. She has enjoyed meeting new people, traveling, and learning English. She also enjoys the Louisiana culture, the friendly people, and the good food.

After graduating in economics in 2001, she plans to get her master's degree and eventually find an enjoyable job, and travel throughout Europe.

Alanna Arceneaux

Most college students plan to spend their summers working, hanging out with friends, and maybe even traveling. Not only did USL senior Alanna Arceneaux get to do all of these things, she got to do them halfway around the world. Through the Baptist Student Union's Summer Missions Program, Alanna traveled to the southeastern coast of China to do missionary work.

Alanna spent two weeks in one of China's largest cities, Shang-Hi, and two weeks in the smaller city of Nanging. While there Alanna stayed in the foreign student dormitories, which were basically like hotels, and worked closely with the local chapter of the YMCA.

Not only was Alanna an ambassador of Christianity by building friendships with others through God, she was also an ambassador of America showing others that Americans are friendly people interested in building relationships with people of different cultures and beliefs.

Throughout the year Alanna keeps busy as a full time student majoring in elementary education, doing secretarial work at Acadien Ambulance, and working with her sister as a live-in nanny for three children. She also stays active as a member of the Baptist Student Union Council and the Women's Group.

Ryan Chatelain

If you want to know the news on campus, just ask Ryan Chatelain. As Editor-In-Chief of the weekly campus newspaper, the Vermilion, he stays extremely busy. Ryan joined the newspaper staff in 1996 as a writer and worked his way up to News Editor in 1997. " I didn't realize how tough the editor position would be, but I don't regret taking it."

After graduating in May with a Bachelor's Degree in Mass Communications and a double minor in English and Business, Ryan wants a job in sports journalism. " I'll go anywhere and do anything from print journalism to public relations, as long as it involves sports."

In addition to writing about sports, Ryan also enjoys just sitting back and watching sports, especially the Saints. Growing up in Metairie, Louisiana, he has been a life long fan of the Saints. In fact, the Superdome is where he first became familiar with USL. For many years he watched USL battle Tulane on the turf. He also witnessed first hand the fierce rivalry between the Ragin Cajuns and the UNO Privateers on the basketball court.

After hearing his brother's stories about attending college here, Ryan was convinced he wanted to become a Ragin Cajun.

Isaiah Webster III

Isaiah Webster III should be a role model for all of us here at USL. He is very involved and tries his hand at everything. However, he feels that if he can't support an organization 110%, he won't attempt it.

Isaiah served 3 years as a student government representative, resulting from a strong interest in politics. During the election of 1996, Isaiah joined the College Democrats. It's not a very active group on this campus, but when it is around, Isaiah won't be too far away.

In addition to this, Isaiah is also president of GaLA, the Gay and Lesbian Alliance. This organization is very important to him because it addresses issues concerning gays and lesbians, and it offers support to them. This club also puts forth an effort to educate others about the gays and lesbians in their community.

As Editor-in-Chief of TheVermilion, President of the Society of Professional Journalists and a member of the National Association of Black Journalists, Isaiah is involved on campus..

Away from school, Isaiah has an even busier schedule. He is a local and state representative for High Risk Youth on the CDC's Louisiana HIV Prevention Planning Group. The planning groups develop strategies to prevent the spread of HIV.

"I feel like I have something to contribute and I hope that after I graduate, people will remember me for wanting the right thing done. If you can't stand up for something, you have nothing."

Alison Carlino

"Keep reaching for the top because the bottom is too crowded." This statement summarizes Alison Carlino's thoughts on succeeding in life.

A constant tone of happiness resides in the voice of this bright twenty-one year old. After graduating from high school in Pineville, Alison was eager to leave that small community. "One of the most exciting things I have experienced was being accepted to USL!" To people here in Lafayette that may sound a bit strange, but to Alison, that acceptence letter was a ticket out of Pineville.

In her four years at USL, Alison has been a very active member of the student body. Numerous obligations, including the Newman Club, Tri Sigma sorority, AP and EL, SGA Education senator and president, and SGA Finance committee, accompanied other honorable activities such as volunteering for VITA, Dean's List, a Who's Who nomination, an SGA scholarship, and a Homecoming Court nomination in 1996.

It sounds like Alison doesn't have time to breathe, but there's more! Band has played a large part in her college career. A four year band scholarship gave her the incentive she needed to excel in one of her more artistic activities, the flute. After playing with the USL Marching Band for two years she became the flute section leader. Last year Alison was awarded the title of Drum Major. "I was so honored to be chosen drum major! I really enjoyed doing it, and I consider it the highlight of the time I have spent in college." Alison met her husband in the band, whom she married in 1996.

"Lafayette is very different from Pineville, which is very small. I enjoy Lafayette very much and I have made many wonderful friends here." Her husband and friends have recently provided much needed support to Allison, who lost her mother in early 1998.

Ravis Martinez

Ravis Martinez is the 1998-1999 Student Government President. Like many SGA presidents of the past, Ravis found himself swamped with duties upon assuming his position. Unlike many past SGA presidents, Ravis didn't seem to feel that he had enough responsibilities, so he took it upon himself to stay further involved with his fellow students.

Originally from Texas, Ravis chose USL because of "the food, easy!". Well, that, and he had a friend here. Once, here, he became active, joining various organizations on campus. He filled a vacancy in the College of Business in SGA, then became president of that college. After only a few weeks, Ravis was appointed vice president of SGA by then-president Chris Gradney. After serving an impressive term, Ravis went on to win a controversy-filled election and assume the position of SGA President, a position which has led to many other campus and community committments, most notable being elected as the Student Representative on the Board of Trustees for the University of Louisiana System. He is a Founder/Incorporate of the First Family Community Center located in St. Martin Parish and an officer of the College Democrats.

Ravis is the Director of Education in the Alpha Phi Alpha Chapter on campus. His involvement in Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity led to his becoming president of NPHC, which oversees a group of fraternities and sororities on campus, as well as his being given the Jewel Award, an award presented to the member who most represents the ideals of the of the founders.

With another year ahead of him Ravis has plans to run for re-election as SGA president. Long term goals may find him up north - looking for a law degree.

Tri Evans

Tri Evans is a Freshman at USL. He graduated from The Louisiana School for Math, Science and the Arts in 1997. He is a is a history/philosophy major. One day he hopes to become a preacher. He is very involved in the Baptist Student Union and enjoys martial arts and self defense.

Tri chose History and Philosophy as his majors because he is becoming a preacher and plans to use these subjects in his sermon. He points out, "History is redundant. What happened to people 2000 years ago still happens to people today. That is why Jesus' life is applicable to ours. And I love to argue."

Tri was about ten when God first called him to be a preacher. "I was listening to my grandfather preach and it was at that point that I realized that was what I was supposed to do. "

In addition to being a preacher, Tri would also like to teach martial arts. Some would say that there is somewhat of a conflict between the two. Tri disagrees: " The first thing you should learn in martial arts is not how to fight, but how not to." When asked what level he was on he simply replied, " I'm not a master, but not a beginner. I know enough to teach, but not so much that I cannot learn."

Kim Cribb

Kim Cribb is one of the sweetest people you'd ever meet. An Accounting major from Lafayette, Kim came to USL in Fall of 1994. She immediately became involved on campus, and eventually became absorbed in on-campus life, though an off-campus resident.

After serving as a senator in the College of Business for a year, she was elected Student Government Treasurer in the spring of 1998. When asked how she felt when elected she said, "It was overwhelming to know that so many students on campus took out the time to vote for me to represent our University." Her new position in SGA opened up a wealth of opportunity for Kim, as well as introduced her to many new responsibilities. She chairs the SGA/USL Lyceum committee, is an ex-officio member of the SGA Finance Committee, and is a member of the Spirit Committee at UPC, a member of the Accounting Society, a member of the Association of Future Alumni, the Secretary of Pan-Hellenic Council, involved in Big Brothers/Big Sisters, and Phi Mu Sorority. She says, "I serve on two committees as treasurer, and I sit on two other university committees by choice. I just can't say no."

In Fall of 1998, Kim became USL's Homecoming Queen. As Homecoming Queen, Kim not only represented SGA, but Phi Mu and UPC as well. To Kim, being homecoming queen meant, "I'm a student that everyone looks up to. When I was a freshman, I looked up to the queen and said, 'I want to be THAT one day.'"

Marie des Ormeaux

How does one define leadership? Just ask Marie Des Ormeaux. As a junior majoring in Mass Communications, she is one of many students leading USL into the next century.

Some may remember her as "Marie the Girl" from her disc jockey job on Planet Radio. Marie was also active with the campus station, KRVS, where she produced, anchored, and reported for "Louisiana Focus" this fall. She hopes to use this experience to do environmental and political reporting or lobbying in the future. Perhaps one day she will fulfill her dream and become a host for MTV News.

Marie is also very active in USL's Greek System. She represented her sorority, Kappa Delta, on the 1998 Homecoming Court. She also serves as KD Vice President and Officer of Public Relations. Marie has held various offices in Greek Council. In Fall of 1997 she served as Public Relations Chair, in Spring 1998 she was elected Vice President, and has been serving as President since Fall of 1998.

Marie is also an active participant in area beauty festivals. She was chosen as "Miss Abbeville" in 1995, Louisiana Fur and Wildlife Festival's "Queen Fur XL" in 1996, and "Miss Cajun Music 1997."

As an active honors student, Marie is a member of several honor societies including, Gamma Beta Phi, Rho Lambda, and Sigma Gamma Nu.

In the few minutes of spare time that she has, Marie enjoys watching old movies, painting, playing the piano, and caring for her pet cactus.

Jason Laurin

Jason Laurin is not your typical student campus leader. He describes himself as "different." If you see him at school, he is a "tee-shirt and cut-offs guy." Picture him "sitting in an inner-tube wearing a bathing suit, drinking a beer in the middle of the swamp." He is serving his second term as president of UPC. A junior in advertising, Jason is also a member of Lambda Chi Alpha and the Alcohol Safety Task Force, a program through the University Police that teaches the dangers of excessive drinking. Jason is on the Who's Who Nomination Committee, and the drummer in the band Mary Ellis. He will always make time to help someone out.

He says being UPC president is mostly time consuming, especially during Homecoming. Not only must Jason oversee the nine committees that make up UPC, but he must fill in wherever and whenever needed, be the public relations person who speaks to incoming freshmen, and make sure ads are in the Vermilion each week.

After graduation, Jason wants to work for a talent agency. When asked who his role model is, he cites no particular one. He admires "the underdogs, like Bill Gates," and he admires other companies, such as "William Morris, a talent agency." Jason wants to continue helping people throughout his life, especially the underdogs.

Travis Mose

Do you know Travis Mose? Because I do, and he's a great guy, if a little busy.

So what's Travis always doing? He could be going to meet his Little Brother through Big Brothers/Big Sisters, or he could have a fraternity meeting with his brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. If Travis isn't doing anything "brotherly" he could be rushing off to give a tour of campus to prospective students, a job which he found through volunteering for the Student Orientation Staff, or he could be going to a meeting of the NAACP, or UPC's African American Culture Committee.

That's only part of what keeps Travis moving. He is in Brain Busters (he's a smart guy!) and he gives TONS of time to Americorps, though I'm not sure where he gets all that time!

In addition to all of this, Travis is also a member of the Baptist choir. " I love to sing, which is something most people don't know." I love entertaining audiences or small groups of people, and being in the spotlight. One of my biggest dreams is to become a singer, or maybe even an actor, " Travis says, even though he describes himself as "shy".

Travis somehow makes time for all of his friends despite his packed schedule, and "whenever I do have free time, which isn't often, I enjoy spending it with my family, friends, fraternity brothers, and, most importantly, myself." With his friends, Travis makes time for basketball, stepping, watching movies, or just hanging out. Alone, Travis likes to listen to music, sing, read, "or just kick back and relax and reflect."

It would be easy to envy someone as lovable and popular as Travis, but I prefer to call him my friend. After all, a guy who would say this...

"Thanks to my family and friends for supporting me and helping me develop into the man I am today." .... is a guy worth knowing.

Dana Smith

"I'm just a t.v. kid. That's what I was raised on."

Who would have thought that all of that time watching television would eventually pay off? Well, for Dana Smith the television was not only beneficial, but inspirational as well.

As a senior majoring in advertising design, Dana focuses on commercial art such as illustrations, sign work, murals, and logos. Comic books, skateboard art, and hot rod art are also major influences on his pop-surrealistic creations.

His musical preferences starkly contrast his style of art. A fan of jazz, blues, and reggae, he explained "the older (the music), the better. It has more soul."

In addition to painting, Dana also enjoys bass fishing and watching USL basketball. He proudly proclaimed that he did not miss a home game this season.

Currently, Dana is working with local muralist Robert Dafford. After he graduates in May 1999, he plans to move to Austin to find a job and achieve every student's goal of paying off his student loans.

He hopes to eventually return to school and earn a master's degree in painting so he can teach someday.

Raymond Duplechan

Raymond Duplechan (A.K.A. Raynae Paige) is a Freshman at USL. He is a major in Performing Arts with a concentration in Dance. Raymond is a member of the USL flag team and is on the Student Organization Staff (S.O.S.). He is a dance instructor at Jo's School of Dance in Jennings Louisiana. Raymond competes in dance competitions throughout Louisiana and Texas. These competitions include those put on by Show Stopper International, Star Search Talent Comp., Showtime and other. For these competitions Raymond performs Solos and duets.

In addition to his school work and dance competitions, Raymond is also a Female Impersonator. He only does drag at clubs for Sunday night performances. His stage name is Raynae Paige. Raymond has performed as Raynae for about six months. While performing he likes to do songs by artists such as Janet Jackson and Monica. Raymond says, "I have no desire to be a woman, I love myself as a man, and plan to stay that way." As Raynae Paige, he wants to one day hold the title of Ms. Gay Lafayette, then move on to Ms. Gay Louisiana, and hopefully one day be crowned as Ms. Gay America.

Raymond's future plans are to pursue a dancing career and to hopefully work on Broadway. After he has completed his dance career he wants to work for a public relations department on Broadway.

The University of Southwestern Louisiana has seen many faces come and go through it's nearly 100 years of existance. Most of those faces are forgotten with time, as are the fashions and hair styles that adorned the students of the past. Join past and future USL students in looking at these alumni. And as you find yourself laughing at some of these styles of the past, just remember, in another 100 years, you might find yourself on one of these pages, with students of the 21st century looking at you.

The College of

ENGINEERING

The College of Engineering is home to six Bachelor's programs in engineering and one associate program in Industrial Technology. The six bachelor's programs include Chemical, Civil, Electrical, Industrial, Mechanical, and Petroleum Engineering. Electrical Engineering offers a Computer Engineering Option and a Telecommunications Options. The Mechanical Engineering Program offers a Computer Aided Design / Manufacturing Option. Chemical Engineering prepares students for industries such as oil and gas, refining, petrochemicals, pulp and paper, textiles, materials, environmental, energy conservation, corrosion, medical, and biochemical jobs. Civil Engineering deals more with designing, constructing, and operating highways, streets, airports for jet planes, pipelines to transport oil and gas, bridges, dams and levees. Students who choose to major in Electrical Engineering are prepared at graduation to work at electrical utility companies, architectural engineering firms, general plant engineering, and electrical engineering positions involving instrumentation and control in the oil and petrochemical industries. Industrial Technology majors could end up working with Computer Integrated Manufacturing, Mechanical and Fluid Power, Electronics and Computers, Information Technology, and Construction.

As a Mechanical Engineer, a graduate could be a designer, builder, and tester of equipment used in nearly ever facet of industry. Graduates could also be involved in building robotic devices, rockets, nuclear engines, or steam and nuclear power plants. They might also be involved in the development or repair of simpler things like air conditioning systems, cars and trucks, and farm equipment. The final option in the College of Engineering is the Petroleum Engineering major. Upon graduation, the Petroleum Engineer may find work in drilling, completing, and recovering oil and gas from the subsurface using wells. Study includes education as to which fluids occur and move through porous rocks, how produced, and used as a source of energy.

The College of Engineering has an organization for every division of engineering. These organizations include: The American Institute of Chemical Engineers, the American Society for Civil Engineers, and the American Society of Safety Engineers. Also, the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers is in the college, the IEEE Computer Society, the Louisiana Engineering Society, and the National Association of Industrial Engineers. Lastly, the College of Engineering has in it the Society of Automotive Engineers, Society of Petroleum Engineers, the Society of Women Engineers, and an honor fraternity - Sigma Gamma Epsilon.

The College of EDUCATION

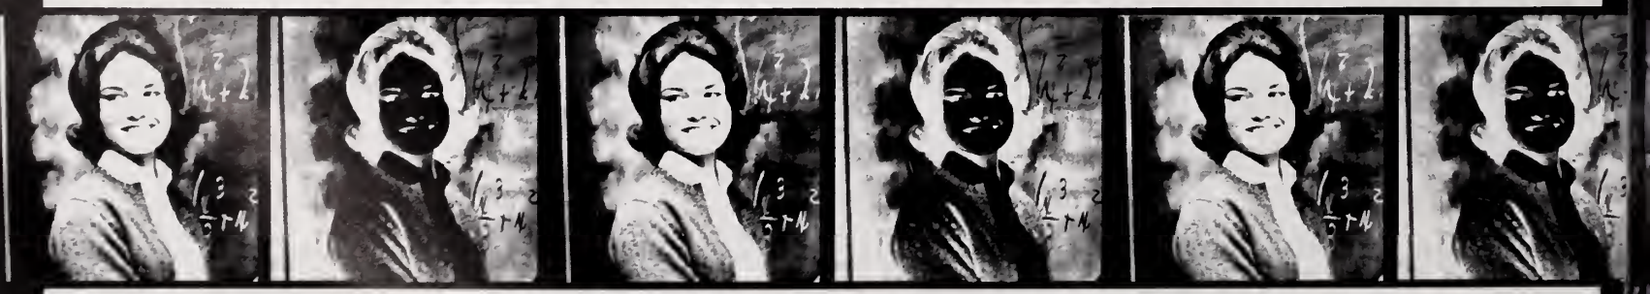

Education is a field which touches everyone's lives. That being the case, the College of Education has a tremendous impact on more than just those who follow an Education curriculum; it impacts the entire community - as well as the 50 parishes and 45 states its graduates have moved on to.

The College of Education was one of the first colleges to appear on campus. Students taught at the SLI training school for experience, then went on to teach throughout the state.

Presently the College houses Elementary, Secondary, Health and Physical, and Special Education, as well as Sports-related fields such as Sports Medicine, Kinisiology, Excercise Science, and the like. Speech Pathology is also found in this area.

Its diverse collection of majors allows the College of Education to reach across the campus and the community so that it remains a stronger a force on this campus than it ever has been.

LIBERAL ARTS

The College of Liberal Arts was created in 1921 as the first step in the reorganization of the academic structure of the Southwestern Louisiana Institute. The newly formed college encompassed all areas of instruction that did not have specific reference to teacher-training. As the college grew and as the need developed, the various departments were formed.

From units with the College of Liberal Arts there were established the College of Agriculture (1938), the College of Engineering (1940), the College of Nursing (1952), and the College of Commerce (1952). Until July, 1974, the College of Liberal Arts embraced the departments of aerospace, studies,, biology, chemistry, English, foreign languages, history and philosophy, mathematics, microbiology, physics, social studies and speech, and the schools of arts and architecture and music.

In July, 1974, the College of Liberal Arts was divided into the College of Arts, Humanities and Behavior Sciences, and the College of Biological, Mathematical and Physical Sciences. The Schools of Art and Architecture left the college in 1983. The college was once again given the name College of Liberal Arts in 1993. At that time the School of Music also left the college. The college currently consists of 15 programs in the areas of communication, communicative disorders, criminal justice, English, history and geography, modern languages, philosophy, political science, psychology, sociology and anthropology.

In addition to bachelor's degrees offered in these areas, the criminal justice department offers an Associate of Science and English, history, modern languages, communicative disorders and psychology offer Master's degrees. The English department awards doctoral degrees and the college bestows one of only three doctorates in Francophone Studies in the world.

GENERAL STUDIES

The college of General Studies is designed for students with a high degree of flexibility. It allows students to design their own degree program by choosing several classes from different fields of interest. This field of study may be appealing for students who wish to change their majors very late in their career, former students who are returning to school, and students attending night school. An Associate degree in this college may also be of interest to students who wish to enter the fields of physical or occupational therapy because the prerequisite courses for some of the training programs for these fields are the same as found in the Associate Degree.

The dean of this college is Doris Cheretien, Ph D. The Director of special services is Robert Carmouche, M Ed.

An Associate of General Studies and a Bachelor of General Studies Degree are available from this college. An Associate degree takes two years to complete and an overall of 64 hours. To acquire a Bachelor degree takes four years to complete with an overall of 132 hours.

SCIENCES

The College of Sciences covers many fields of study. Major degree programs include Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Geology, Health Information Management, Mathematics, and Physics. For those students who know they would like to major in science but are not sure which field they are most interested in, the college offers a one year Undeclared Science and a two year Comprehensive Science Preparation program to prepare the student for whichever field he/she decides upon.

In addition, The College of Sciences also offers preparation to students seeking to continue on into a professional school. These programs include preparation for schools of Dentistry, Medical Technology, Pharmacy, Medicine, Optometry, Physical Therapy, as well as other allied health professions. Departments within the College of Sciences that do not offer degrees include the Center for Advanced Computer Studies, Military Science, and Statistics.

APPLIED LIFE SCIENCES

There are not many College's on USL campus who claim nearly 100 years to fame. Home Economics and Agriculture, the essences of the College of Applied Life Sciences, have played an important role in the evolution of USL from the beginning. In 1907, President Stephens developed a 30 acre farm in what is now the Cypress Lake area and Student Union.

In the 1920's, workshops in Agriculture were offered for men, and Home Economics was offered for women. In 1926, eight graduates from Home Economics received BS degrees from SLI.

In 1938, the College of Agriculture changed its name to the College of Agriculture and Home Economics. The School of Home Economics, in 1990, became the School of Human Resources and began offering courses in Dietetics, Restaurant and Hospitality Management, Child and Family Studies, and Fashion Merchandising. The College's new Dean, Lynn Desselle, recognized the deterioration of the ecosystem, and recognized that the impact of humanity on the ecosystem can be devastating if nothing is done to renew what we have left. He renamed the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Renewable Resources, in 1992. Renewable Resources has become a unifying factor for USL because all humans and other animals are a part of this earth. The College was only recently renamed the College of Applied Life Sciences.

To celebrate the College's long-time run here at USL, "An Ole' Time County Fair" was held Friday, September 25, 1998, on the grounds near Hamilton Hall. The festivity included an old world grape stomp, a pie eating contest, a petting zoo, livestock judging, "cow bingo," games, prizes, and food! On Sunday, September 27, the USL nursery school held a reunion for those who attended the school.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

University College is an administrative division serving non-degree seeking students. These students include public school teachers who are required to take courses to ensure that they are prepared to teach the subjects they are assigned to teach; Post Baccalaureate students who are enrolled for credit, but not for Graduate School; summer visitors interested in taking courses for the summer only; professionals interested in taking classes relating to their job; and older and returning students interested in taking classes.

University College is in charge of the DOORS Program. This program is the admission status that most non-degree seeking students register under. Through the DOORS Program, all academic credentials are waived, including transcripts and ACT scores. Students can take the USL DOORS Placement Tests for placement in English and Math courses.

Students are able to earn credits and grades like all degree seeking students, and faculty teaching the courses have the same criteria as all university faculty. Non-degree seeking students cannot receive financial aid, however.

University College offers many services to its students. For example, students can receive counseling to define an educational goal, help with registration, and they can also pay their fees in the University College Office.

In addition to running the DOORS Program, this college also works closely with other degree-granting colleges to offer off-campus courses. Classes are offered in Crowley, Marksville, Ville Platte, New Iberia, Opelousas, Breaux Bridge, Cade, Franklin, Abbeville, and Kaplan. Most of these courses are taught at night. Course offerings include several English, Math, History, and Computer Science courses, as well as an Art course, and a Music course.

Dr. Gary Arnold, M.D.

Dr. Gary Arnold, MD, is a man to admire. Born in New Orleans, he has known since high school what he wanted to do in life. Entering into college, he was driven to finish his undergraduate degree in only three years. Dr. Arnold then spent four years in medical school followed by another four years of surgical training as a General Surgeon.

At that point, Dr. Arnold was ready to begin practice. He practiced medicine from 1975 until his retirement in 1993 spending all but a year or so in Lafayette. After retiring, Dr. Arnold reflected about some of his most valuable assets: the nurses providing care to his patients. This reflection led to his decision to call the Dean of Nursing and ask if he could be of any assistance to the college. The following semester, Dr. Arnold taught his first Nursing Pharmacology class at USL.

Today, Dr. Arnold teaches at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. He incorporates his own experiences, jokes, and humorous stories to make important points. Dr. Arnold even had his work published for creating a simple method of solving dimensional analysis problems. This "Arnold Method" is one way to solve the problems which are critical in nursing practice for administering the proper drug amounts.

Dr. Arnold believes that nursing roles are rapidly expanding with no signs of slowing down. He enjoys his part in the education of future nurses stating that he "couldn't think of anything else he'd rather do." He states that even if he were to win to the lottery on a Saturday night, he would still show up to work on Monday morning ready to teach!

Mildred Sylvester

Each day, students entering the union cafeteria during breakfast or lunch hours are greeted with a smile and a "hello, Darling" from Ms. Mildred Sylvester. Known to many of the regulars as Ms. Millie and to others as the lady who swipes your ID, Mildred has been working in USL's cafeterias since 1969. When asked about her age, her response is "old enough to have knowledge."

A Lafayette resident for all of her years, except for five or six when she lived in New Orleans. Ms. Millie is proud of the fact that her 21st birthday is the same day black citizens were granted the right to vote.

Upon her hiring in 1969, Millie was assigned to Martin dining hall.She remembers the kitchen with its steel pots and iceboxes being the most beautiful she had ever seen, a type of beauty which she has never seen since.

When Martin dining hall closed its doors, she was reassigned to the student union cafeteria, where she remains working today.

Up before the sun at 4am each morning, to be ready for work at 6am, Ms. Mildred works until 2:30 every day, delivering a cheerful smile to all who cross her path.

When not working or catching up on her sleep, she likes to play with her puppy, Peanut,, or read, usually the bible or the newspaper. Whenever the opportunity comes about, she spends time with her two grandchildren, whom she raised after their mother, Millie's only child, died an untimely death.

Feeling that all students make the choice to come to school, Mildred devotes herself to making sure she smiles at everyone and tries to keep them smiling, as well. Her job, she says, "keeps her feeling young," and as long as she feels young, students will continue to be graced by her wonderful attitude and smiling face.

Sarah Clavelle

For students in the Education Department, Sarah Clavelle and Joanie Schendel are life-savers. These two ladies are the secretaries in the Education Department that manage to keep a very busy office running smoothly. Sarah Clavelle has been a secretary on campus for over ten years. Before working on campus, Sarah worked as a secretary at KSMB and KVOL radio stations, and at an oil company, but she much prefers working at USL. Her favorite part of the job is working with the students, and she also enjoys working with the faculty members in her department. Through the years, she has seen the education department go through many changes. Faculty changes are the most common, but she says that getting computers has been the biggest change.Away from the office, Sarah Clavelle enjoys working in her yard, camping, and spending time with her four grandchildren.

Joanie Schendel

Joanie Schendel has been on campus for eight years, working as the Executive Secretary for the Vice President of Research for one year and as the Administrative Secretary in the Education Department for seven years. The two positions are very different, and she prefers working in the Education Department because she is able to work with the students. Of all of her responsibilities, she, too, also enjoys working with the students the most. She says the joy she gets from helping the students succeed and the thanks that they show her make her job very rewarding. Joanie enjoys dancing, especially cajun and country, cooking, and entertaining. She also enjoys spending time with her two sons and three grandchildren, and she still finds time to be active in the American Legion Auxiliary, the Lutheran Women's Mission League, and Professional Secretaries International.

Edward Pratt

Dean of Students Edward Pratt keeps very busy helping students and improving campus life for them. He serves as faculty advisor for SGA and works closely with all departments of Student Affairs, including Housing, University Police, and Parking and Transit. Dean Pratt enjoys the unique set up of the Student Affairs Department, and considers it more of a "Student Affairs Family" than an office.

His main goal is helping students and making sure that students feel comfortable coming to him for help. In fact, Dean Pratt encourages any student that needs help to talk to him. His favorite part of the job is when he "can help a student, and that student is completely satisfied and content."

Dean Pratt began life at USL not as a faculty member, but as a student. He was a proud member of the Ragin Cajun Football Team from 1965 to 1967. He returned to USL in 1969 after serving as Head Basketball coach and Assistant Football Coach at Northside High School for one year to take Dean Glenn Able's position as Assistant Dean of Men. He served this position until 1975, when he became Director of Financial Aid. In 1980, Dean Pratt became Dean of Student Services, and ultimately in 1990 he took his present position of Dean of Students.

Dean Pratt has thoroughly enjoyed his twenty-nine years at USL, and the students have enjoyed working with him. "It has been a wonderful ride. The school is good, and the students are great."

Suzanne Arsement

Susie Arsement has worked for the Vice President of Student Affairs for about 20 years. She went to high school at Our Lady of Fatima, and then attended USL with a secretarial major.

As a secretary for Dean Blanco, Arsement handles a wide variety of things, including keeping Dean Blanco's schedule straight. She also handles questions from parents and non-academic problems. "No two days are the same," says Arsement.

Arsement's husband, Chris, is also a USL graduate who has his own CPA firm here in Lafayette. They have three sons. Jesse, 21, who is at Lafayette Regional in a CAD program. Jared, 17, is a junior at St. Thomas Moore. Jacob, 12, is in 7th grade at Our Lady of Fatima.

Aside from being a secretary, wife and mother, Arsement is also the advisor for the USL hockey team. All three of her sons have played hockey, the younger two on traveling teams. She has been the team mom for her oldest son's team for four years. Smiling, Arsement said that being advisor for USL's team is like being a "glorified team mom."

When her duties at USL are over she spends her time running the roads with her kids. She tries to be as involved with her kid's lives as she can. When asked how she likes her job here she replied, "I wouldn't work anywhere else." She said, "Working with the students is what it's all about." She also said that while in the office she has had a lot of good times, and some bad times as well. Arsement says that it is the tough times that make you stronger.

George Wooddell

George Wooddell has taught Sociology at USL for five years. He obtained his undergraduate degree here in 1983 when he graduated Cum Laude. He also received the Ben Kaplan Award. While teaching a variety of classes at USL; including Minority groups, Social Problems, Criminology, and General Sociology; Wooddell is working on his Phd.

Originally from Washington D.C., Wooddell worked in Willow, Alaska in a home for delinquent boys. After two years of working with the boys he quit his job and continued to live in Willow as a traditional hunter and gatherer. Wooddell and his wife, Christine, barely survived the winter of 1978. The two of them were starving to death when a kind old man nursed them back to a healthy state. Wooddell and his wife then hitchhiked from Fairbanks, Alaska to Lafayette. It was here that the couple ran out of money.

It was Mardi Gras when they arrived here and got permission to pitch their tent in someone's backyard. They earned money by collecting returnable bottles and turning them in. In the Summer of 1978 Wooddell decided to enter USL.

Since that time Wooddell has experienced many things in his life. He and his wife were divorced in 1986 while he was attending graduate school at The University of California at Santa Barbara. He also had the wonderful experiences of the birth of his two daughters, one of whom he delivered himself.

Wooddell loves it here. He loves all the students as well. He says, "It is the best job I ever had. The best job I know of. I think that unlike most workplaces people are happy about what they are doing. It's almost like a dream environment."

Pamela Stroup

Pamela S. Stroup started out working as a instructor in the Psychology department. She taught Psychology for seven years. In 1983 she became the assistant to the Dean of Liberal Arts. In 1991 she became the Director of Junior Division. In 1997 she was awarded her current position, the Acting Dean of Enrollment Management.

When asked what she likes most about her job, she replies, "It's open ended and that it's a big challenge. I see my job as to attract a significant number of the very best students, to enroll them successfully and to put in place whatever is needed for them to graduate."

She has been married for 33 years. She has two children and two grandchildren. She is the faculty advisor for Tri Delta, and is a Tri Delta Alumni. She is the moderator for Cajun Quiz Bowl, a member of a book club, and a former member of the Junior League. Stroup also loves to read and garden. She says that she loves the challenge of taking a cutting and making it take root, or growing something from a seed.

She tells you a lot about the way she thinks, and how much she really does care, when she says, "I think that the thread of the many things that I am interested in is growth. I think that's why I love teaching. It's really very positive to me to meet someone at a certain point on their life, and work with them in a classroom setting and then to see them at another time in their life. Working at USL you see people starting and finishing and moving on. That's my interest in plants and propagation. Somehow I think that they are all related in some way by the positive potential for growth and change."

David Jackson

As the department head of Visual Arts, David Jackson has contributed to accomplishing one of the biggest enrollments ever. Enrollment has increased since he took office in the beginning of August of 1997. More students are changing their majors to get into the Visual Arts Department, as Mr. Jackson plans on bringing high technology art to U.S.L. The N.A.S.A.D (National Association of School Art and Design) brings high-tech animation into the classroom, enabling students to work on computers with their art work. Louisiana funds such programs, giving students the chance to work with new technology equipment....That's why David Jackson enjoys teaching in the South.

Born and raised in Frankfurt, Kentucky, this Department Head has traveled to more than five states, including a trip to New Zealand that he says was the trip of a lifetime. When David Jackson isn't traveling the world, you might see him in his Thunderbird coupe riding around campus, but his true love isn't traveling, or his car, it is the love of his art work. Whenever David Jackson takes a picture, he involves layers that are both visual and logical.

So, we salute David Jackson for a job well done, in his first year managing the Visual Arts Department at U.S.L.

All Around the Town

Since it's beginning, USL has been rapidly expanding. It's no wonder, then, that after 100 years we might find ourselves running out of room. Perhaps in preparation, then, the University research park was begun.

Currently, the research Park is home to the National Wetlands ResearchCenter, National Marine Fisheries Services, and the new Apparel Computer Integrated manufacturing Center. The new center, according to Al Steward, the center's director, is "the only U.S. Department of Energy-sponsored university research center for textiles and apparel." Being in such a unique position certainly adds to the prestige of the university.

More plans are underway to build a hotel near the research park, to benefit the school and the community at large. The hotel would allow for students to get on-the-job training in hotel/restraunt management while providng much needed convenience to visitors to Lafayette and the Cajundome.

The Lafayette Primary Care Facility is intended to broaden USL's nursing program. Funds will be obtained for the facility in conjunction with Our Lady of Lourdes Regional Medical Center, and Louisiana Health Systems. The Facility will be open to the public.

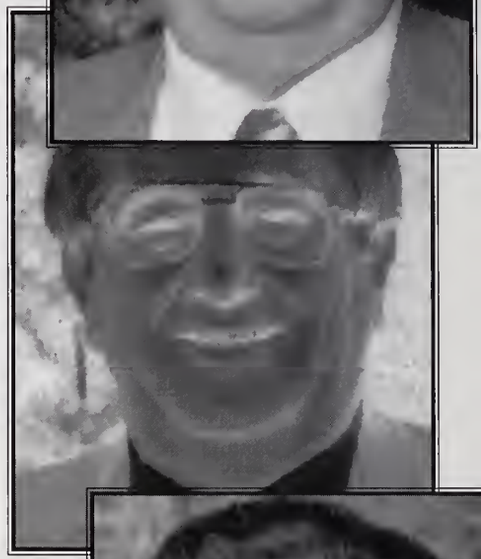

While it is housed on campus, USL currently hosts a NASA satellite - making USL one of only four universities to be a Regional validation Center.

There are a few student-based off campus facilities - most notably Bourgeois Hall - the recreation/health/physical education building located near research Park. It is awaiting some additions of it's own - namely, a swimming pool. Plans have been approved since 1993 - with the intention of construction being paid for by student self-assessed fees. While not much progress had been made, plans call for completion by Fall of 1999.

In Pursuit of Excellence

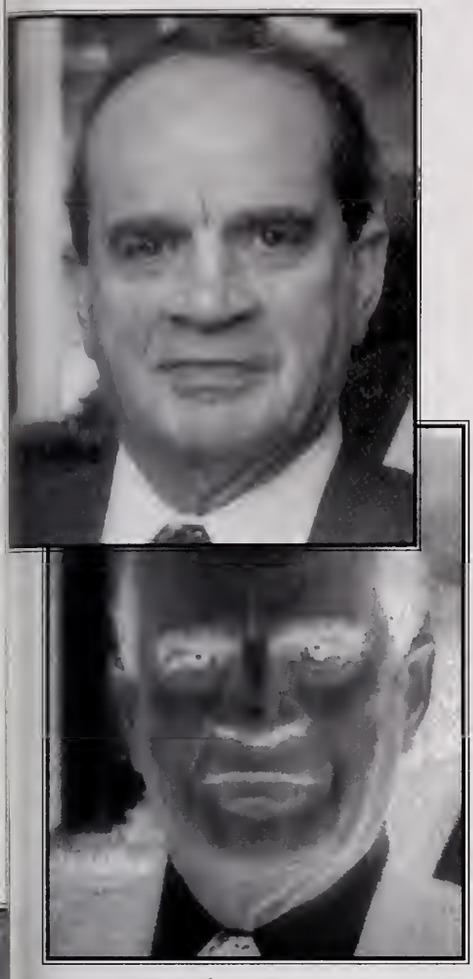

USL President Dr. Ray Authement has seen this university develop into the second largest university in the state, a leading center for research and development, and a national institute for research and scholastic achievement. While he is the man who gets most of the kudos, without those hand-picked vice-presidents, the university would fail to shine as brightly as it does.

Dr. Authement has assembled an extremely diverse and incredibly intense support staff for himself. His Vice Presidents have brought USL through one crisis after another, whether it relate to budget cuts or student activism. This eclectic group of leaders is made up of Raymond Blanco, Dr. Gary Marotta, Dr. Steve Landry, and Della Bonnette.

As Vice President for Student Affairs, Raymond Blanco has made a place for himself in the hearts of hundreds of students. His obvious and genuine affection for the students of USL has made him an integral part of the university. His job requires supervision of most of the student organizations on campus, including the sometimes controversial Student Government, Vermilion, and L'Acadien. No matter how stressful the situations that arise, he responds with a clear-headed, fair answer, a clap on the shoulder, and a twinkle in his eye.

Another of Dr. Authement's crew that remains visible to students is Dr. Gary Marotta, Vice President of Academic Affairs, a man with street smarts and wit that captures students from their first visit to campus. Probably best known for his introductory talks at orientation sessions, Dr. Marotta manages to get across to students that he's here to help, meaning he's here to help each and every student eventually earn a degree. His presentation as a no-nonsense type of man has earned him the respect of an entire campus.

Dr. Steve Landry's position as USL's Director of Research led to his current role as Vice President of Research. He is responsible for one of the fastest growing and ever-more visible areas of USL. Perhaps not exactly obvious to the students on campus, Dr. Landry is one of the key people in bringing notoriety to USL - making our university stand out among others in the state, nationally, and globally.

The newest addition to the Vice Presidential "Cabinet" is Della Bonnette, Vice President of Information Technology. Once proclaimed as "a real role model for academic administrators" she still maintains a reputation as a modest though highly capable individual. Information technology is ever-changing and increasing, a fact that no doubt keeps her on her toes. With degrees in psychology and mathematics, as well as a master's in computer science to back her, Della Bonnette heads what could be one of the most important university areas in the future.

Quite a mix of individuals Dr. Authement has assembled for us, eh? And it's these very people that will see USL into the next millennium and beyond.

Krewe of Roux

a USL tradition

Krew of Roux first started in 1978 under the name Krew of Pete, named after Pete's bar. The name changed the second year it ran when Louisiana Leroux was the grand Marshall. Since then USL has had its very own Mardi Gras Tradition.

Student Organizations such as fraternities, sororities, and any other groups on campus that wish to, can participate. Some local business, such as radio stations can also ride in the parade.

The participating organizations nominate a maid and a duke. UPC then purchases two King Cakes and all the maids and dukes get a slice of the cake. Whoever gets the baby in their slice of cake is the King and Queen. The court is announced the next day on the front porch of the Student Union.

Krew of Roux is always the first parade held in Lafayette. This year the parade was held Saturday, February sixth. This is a change from the normal Thursday parade. Michael Cline, Special Events Chairman for UPC, said that the change worked out well for a couple of reasons: there was no 5:00 traffic, and working parents were able to bring their children out to enjoy the parade.

The day the parade was held was not the only change the Krew of Roux under went this year. It is no longer a solely on-campus parade. The new route starts on Lewis street, proceeds to Johnston Street, and finally makes it's way to Cajun Dome Blvd., where it ends with a pep rally at the Cajun Dome.

The turnout for the parade this year was great. Michael Kline said, "For those who missed it, they missed a good time and should come out next year." He was very pleased with the changes and hopes that they will become permanent.

Three Graduation Stories

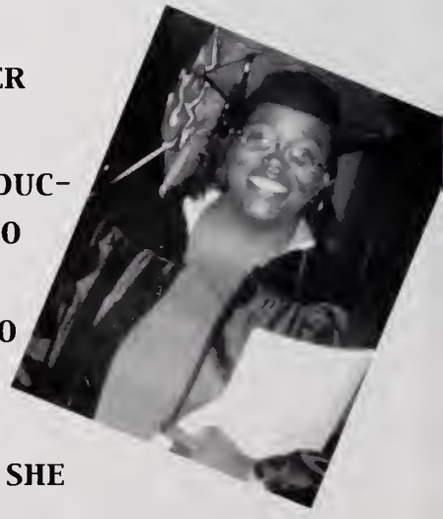

Graduation! A goal hoped to be achieved by all who enter the world known as college. Every spring, fall, and summer, students leave the confounds of the classroom and enter into their new position as GRADUATE. With a degree, they are sent out to make the best of themselves. While some further their schooling with Graduate school, others decide that entering the work force would better suit them. This year, L'Acadien would like to bring you into the life of a graduate. Here are the feelings, hopes and dreams of three of USL's Spring Graduates.

Carol Gantt

Hometown: DeRidder, LA Major: Mass Communications

Born in Anderlasia, Alabama, Carol's family moved to DeRidder in 1991. She graduated from DeRidder High in 1991. In the Fall of '94, she entered USL, which she considers ironic. "I was going to a college in Houston, but they wanted $10,000 out-of-state tuition. I came to late Orientation, and decided two weeks before class started to come here. I'm glad I did." When asked about an overall feeling about gradua tion, Carol says she's "excited." After Graduation, she plans to continue her work at channel 10 as an office manager and video producer for the 5, 6, and 10 news. Eventually, she would like to attend Grad school.

Carol attributes her success to all of the people who have helped her get where she is. She is confidant about entering the workforce, and feels her experience, education, and involvement will allow her to achieve anything she puts her mind to.

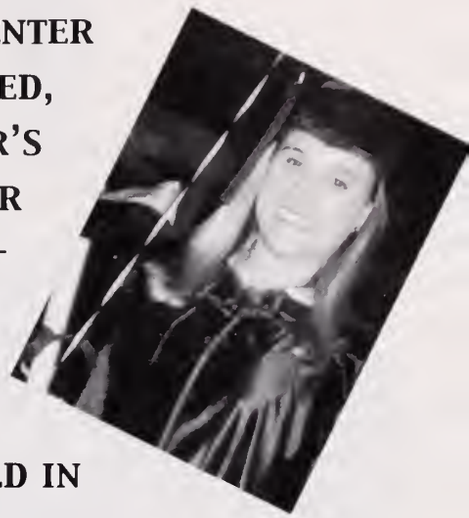

Katheryn "Katy" Melebeck

Hometown: Lafayette Major: Child and Family Studies

Katy came to USL in the Fall of 1995. Since then, she has been involved in many organizations on campus. "Every organization on campus has had an influence on me; the biggest influences being that of Tri-Sigma sorori ty and Student Orientation Staff," she says.

She works in the Enrollment Information Center and says that along with being excited, she's also scared, because ehe's unsure of what will happen once summer's over. "Right now, I'm leaving my options open." Former Dean Jimmy Clarke made the biggest impact on her college career. "He taught MA a lot about peopIe in general, peaople skills, and he taught me about life, to learn from experiences."

Katy feels that USL has prepared her for the world in which she is about to enter.

Sherman "Sherm" Bernard

Hometown: Lafayette Major: English

Sherm first entered USL's classrooms in the Spring of 1994. When he first started, he was majoring in Pre-Law, but soon found that wasn't what he was looking for. He found his calling when he changed his major to English.

Sherm feels both relieved and excited about graduation. Hie relief stems from the fact that he's put five years into college, and feels like it's become a career. "After putting five years into college, as well as my present job, I am ready for the next step," says Sherm.

After graduation, he plans on staying in Lafayette a while to assist with the Orientation Staff. If all goes well, the end of summer will find Sherm attending Southern University Law Center, for law school.

"The School Without Walls"

In 1999, USL may very well have experienced the most instrumental change in its history - the implementation of a closed admissions policy for incoming students. Previously, USL was classified as an "open admissions" university, allowing any high school graduate who had completed core requirements and scored an acceptable grade on the ACT to enroll.

The change to selective admissions will require high school graduates to meet a requirement of a 2.0 on the 171/2 core units needed to graduate or have an ACT score of 15 with a 2.6 gpa / 16 with a 2.4 gpa / 17 with a 2.2 gpa / or 18 with a 2.0 gpa - all on a regular 4.0 scale. GED recipients will need to meet a requirement of 18 or better on the ACT. Those prospective students who meet only one of the requirements may need to enroll concurrently in the community college and USL while taking developmentals. Admissions exceptions can be made for up to 15% of the freshman class. Applications for addmission by exception will be reviewed using criteria such as GPA, class rank, talents, school reccommendations, extracurricular activities, leadership abilities, significant life/career experiences, and membership in an under-represented group.

Dean of Enrollment Management Pam Stroup says that "the new policy will give high school students the message that what you do in high school does matter."

The community college has been referred to as the "school without walls." The college itself has no building that is strictly for classroom activity. Classes have been offered since the summer of 1998 in Iberia, Vermillion, and Lafayette parishes. Dean Stroup says classes are held in already existing buildings, such as churches, high schools, public buildings, and USL's main campus. Most of the courses offeredby the community college are held in the evenings and at night, with a few being offered during the day as space permits.

The community college is open to anyone with a high school or GED diploma. Students interested in transferring from the community college to USL must be eligible for Math 105 and English 101. All credits that can be transfered will be done so by a conversion scale to convert their credits to the USL equivalent. Tuition at the college is roughly half of that of USL's.

Queations have arisen as to whether or not the college will affect enrollment at USL. Dean Stroup states, "It will not greatly affect USL enrollment until the community college can offer financial aid, which won't come into effect (for over a year). At that time, 500 or so freshmen may choose to attend the community college instead of USL." She also says that while enrollment may drop at first, in a few years it should return to normal.

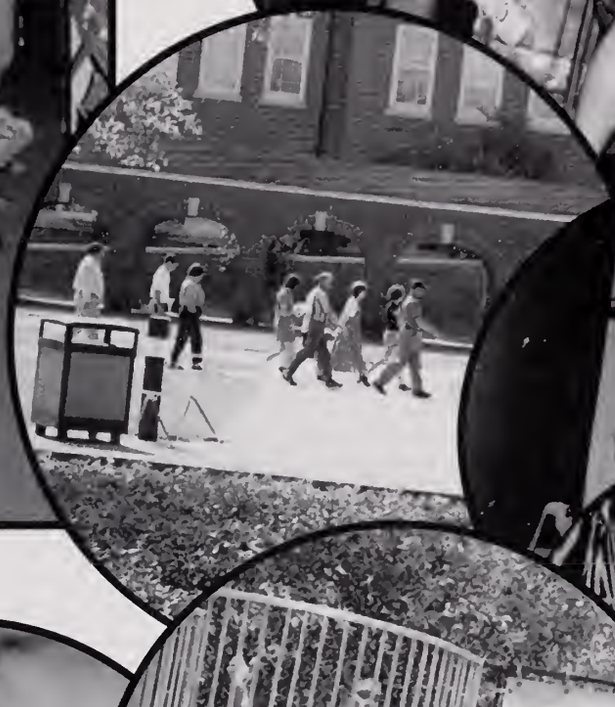

With the change in admissions, some administrators hope to see a change in thought, as well. For years, USL has been referred to as a party school. With this new policy, many hope this image will be replaced with prestige and a greater focus on academics. Students, as well as faculty, are in overwhelming support of the new admissions policy. In the Fall of 1999, the Acadiana Community College will open its doors for admissions.

... a new look

L'Acadien Yearbook has made a much anticipated (by the staff anyway) switch from a calendar year format to an academic year format. The new format will make it easier to cover campus events, and will help students to find the yearbook they're looking for.

However, with every change, there are some drawbacks. You hold in your hands an interesting collection of stories, spanning January 1998 through May 1999 - quite an extensive time frame for a "year" book. While future books will be simple and self explanatory, this book, being the cross-over, is a little complicated.

In the past, L'Acadien has covered each calendar year - January through December. While it was easy enough to figure out if a student was in the book or not, it made athletics and events a little time delayed. In the future, you won't need to wait a full year before seeing how the teams performed.

The greatest benefit, however, will be a timely and easy delivery of books during registration for fall semesters. This is how our books were formated years ago, and it's a tradition the entire staff felt should be ressurected.

Extra, Extra!

Read all about it!

Vermilion changes look and mind.

Have you ever wondered what goes into that newspaper that you pick up each Friday? That's right, the University's student newspaper, the Vermilion. Led this year by Isaiah Webster III, a total of thirty-two students are involved in the weekly paper that we read as the final product.

Aptly named after one of the school's colors, the Vermilion circulates 10,000 copies with each issue. Ninety percent of these papers go out to areas on campus. The remaining ten percent are distributed to local businesses that are frequented by University students. This massive project is funded two ways: first, through student assessed fees of $2 per student during the Spring and Fall semesters. This accounts for forty percent of the total operating budget. The remainder of the costs are covered through advertisements.

One tradition at the Vermilion is the annual April Fools Day addition of the "The Vermin." This is an issue filled with satire and false but funny stories. The tradition, however, will not be carried on this year. When asked about "The Vermin," Editor in Chief Isaiah Webster responded, "not this year - I've decided to discontinue it while I'm here. I want the paper to be informative and filled with discussion of serious issues."

You may have noticed the new look for 99' in the Vermilion. Recently, the paper made changes in two areas - more color and more photos. The new addition more than doubles the amount of color on the front page. In addition, as many photos as can be fit have been added to help the students associate a face with the people they read about. Also, it may be of interest to note that the Vermilion has also begun using the color Vermilion, rather than the red which has been use for so long. The tri fleur-de-lis has also come into use in the Vermilion, which is used by no other University in America.

So, whether your interest lies in school politics, world news, sports, fashion, comics, or predictions, the Vermilion has a section for you. The important thing is to pick it up each Friday and read about your University.

UPC
Union Program Council

The 1998-1999 academic year at USL has been one of many changes. Buildings were brought down, and a community college went up. Changes were also happening in the structure of the Union Program Council. Following a tumultuous Fall 98 semester, UPC found itself without a president, following former president Jason Laurin's sudden resignation. The focus was on a new UPC president, and all eyes turned to Carol Gantt.

Before being elected new president of UPC, Carol had been involved in all sorts of committees during her years in service to the council. She served as chairperson for the Lagniappe Committee in the 1997-98 school year. Her first thing to do for the council as president was to improve communication between UPC president and the various chairpersons. Times were set aside for them to meet individually and speak about upcoming events. The next change on the list was perhaps the biggest ever made to the internal structure of the council itself. With a little help from UPC advisors, a referendum was put together to be voted on by the student body. It asked that the UPC, which presently operates with only a president, five committee chairpersons, seven SGA appointees, and two faculty reps, be allowed to create a new position for that of a vice president. The referendum also called for a new measure to allow the incoming president and vice-president (if approved) to be elected b the outgoing council. The by-laws presently state that the new president will be elected by the incoming council. Thanks to fellow students, both referendums were passed. Carol stated that "the changes in by-laws of the council were needed to help the council run more efficiently." With the ability to elect a vice-president, and both the president and vice-president being elected by the outgoing council instead of the incoming one, UPC definitely has the efficiency to last well into the new millennium.

INTERNATIONAL
Student Council

One of the largest and most active organizations on the campus of USL is the International Student Council. Together, this group makes up about 700 students. Their goal is simple: to help foreign students adapt to the American Educational Environment.

President Wael Badawy states that this is an enormous task. There are many different activities that the ISC sponsors or takes part in to help achieve their goal. Many times, the Office of International Affairs will either co-sponsor or just help out with an event.

From the day that international students set foot on campus, they are surrounded by activities and people to help them feel at home. One of the first experiences that in international student can expect is international orientation. All freshmen go through orientation, and this is a similar experience but oriented towards the needs of the international student. This particular program is run by the International Office.

Through a student assessed fee of ten cents, the ISC is able to fund many events throughout the year. Sometimes a group is organized to take a trip to Houston or New Orleans. This allows the students to see other cities besides just Lafayette. Every Friday, International affairs sponsors their "International Coffee Hour." This allows the students time to relax and associate with others.

Even though the ISC encompasses every nationality, many individual ethnic and cultural groups form their own organizations under the ISC. Each of these groups periodically have events to share their culture with everyone else. There is the Arabian Night, the Asian Night, and Continental Night to name a few. On each of these "theme nights" that particular group's culture is put in the spotlight.

Some groups in the ISC sponsor particular events dealing with their culture. Each year, the Chinese student group puts on a Chinese New Year. The Indian student group organizes an Indian pot luck supper. A Malaysian Celebration is held by the Malaysian students, and the Kuwaiti students hold their yearly memorial, "Kuwaiti Prisoners Remain in Mind."

Each year, the ISC sponsors sports tournaments for soccer, volleyball, and ping pong. ISC encourages its members to join other university groups also. To help in networking their groups with others on campus they invite everyone to ISC events.

The biggest series of events that ISC sponsors each year is International Week. During this week, there are different activities held each day which celebrate various cultures and traditions. The International Week celebrations begin on Monday. That day officially starts International Week with a parade around the Student Union and students carrying flags from every nation represented at USL. Tuesday is a day for fun because it is when everyone is invited to participate in international goofy games on the green near Guillory Hall. Also, Monday and Tuesday are designated for showing off various cultures in the Student Union. The halls are lined with displays of international crafts, posters, videos, and clothing.

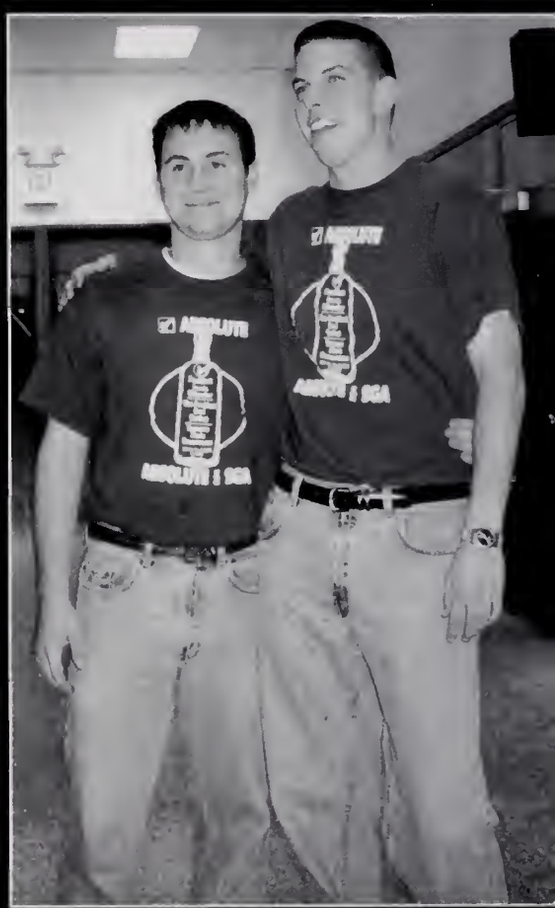

The third day of International Week, Wednesday, is the night when students are invited to sample different desserts from around the world. This is followed by the International Quiz Show which tests contestants' knowledge of the world. Thursday is foreign movie night. Every year a different movie is chosen to be shown in the Griffin Hall Auditorium. Though Friday is nearing the end of the week, there is still plenty of entertainment left. The Union Ballroom is the sight of Entertainment Night - a time when the various cultures show off their dance, music, and fashion. Finally, International Week concludes with the International Food Fair on Saturday. For a small price, students are able to sample exotic foods from around the world.

The ISC is set up like many organizations on campus. They have a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. They also have committee chairs for events, trips, and public relations. The ISC also allows for any organization, cultural or otherwise, to have one representative on the council. The term of office for any position is for one year. All students are invited to be a part of the ISC.

SGA election

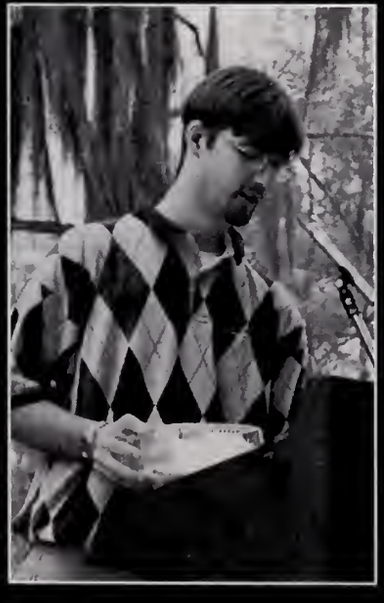

student government association

The Student Government elections this year were definitely not as cutthroat as last year's race, with votes spread among three tickets : the mostly incumbent Insight, the varied-in-experience Absolute, and the fresh faces of the Frontier ticket.

While the Frontier party did get some publicity, the race focused more on the Big Three candidates for Insight and Absolute. Students were left wondering if the very business-like Ravis Martinez would be keeping his office, or if former College of Business senator Ferris Wheeler would be moving in with his more informal running mates.

Winning by an impressive margin, Wheeler, along with VP Brad Bertinot, and Treasurer Marie Desormeaux, took the votes.

Some question whether or not "Phone Gate" had much to do with the election's outcome, as a strategiacally timed article blasting candidate Martinez appeared in the Vermilion the week before the election.

Though no longer SGA president, Martinez says he will continue to work for the students.

Meanwhile, Wheeler's Big Three will find themselves equipt with a good mix of Absolutely insightful senators. It looks like it will prove to be another successful year in the trenches.

Spiritual Assistance

U.S.L. Religions

College is a time for change. many times, the graduating student is nothing like the freshman who entered USL 4 (5,6,7...) years ago. However, for many, there is one constant: the guidance of a church and its followers. USL is home to many religious denominations and welcomes all with open arms. In fact, almost every function provided by these groups more than welcomes members of other faiths. These different organizations offer all sorts of advantages. While there is the obvious benefit of some type of reliious service, these groups offer friendship and social functions. Some offer free meals (with a message), pre-finals masses, and book blessings, as well as services in a variety of languages. There are those who prefer not having a religious affiliation, but for the many that want one, there are plenty to enjoy.

In the Year 2000

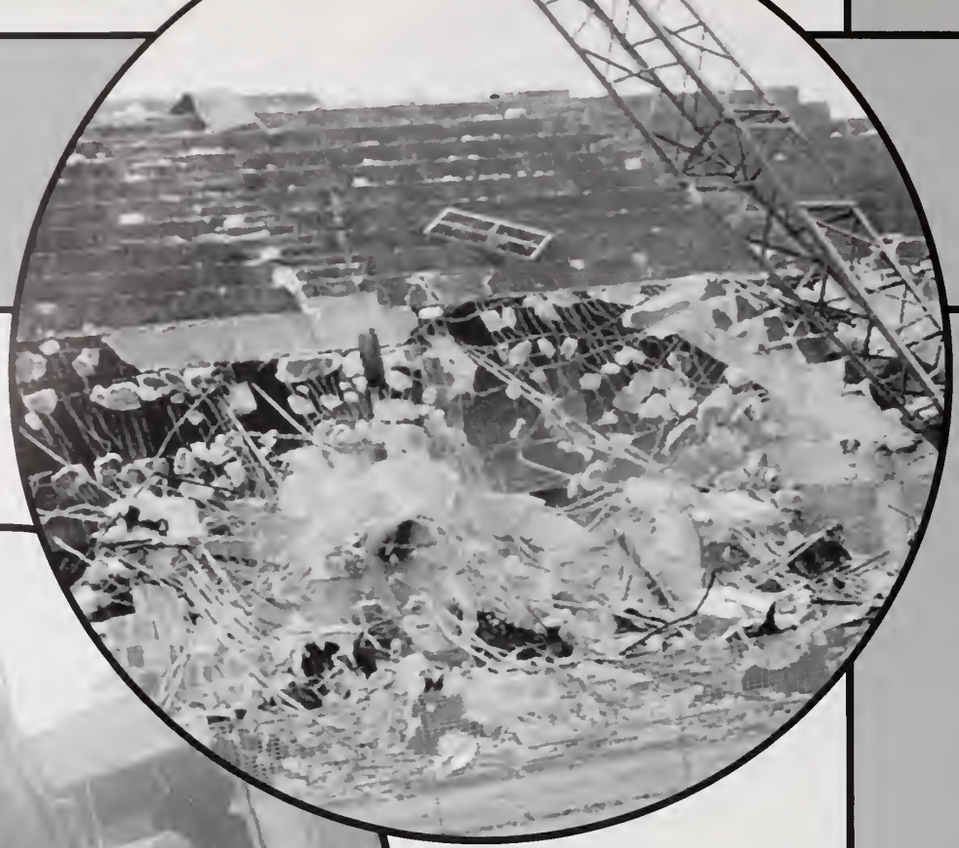

Y2K

With the year 2000 just a few months away, many students are wondering whether or not a crisis is looming. What if USL's computers just up and lost all of our grades? Or what if the registration system shuts down - or worse? Well, not to worry. USL has been dealing with this issue for a while now. Vice President of Information Tehnology, Della Bonnette, has seen to it. In fact, USL has hosted some discussion of the topic, has already addressed it, and even done test runs on the computer systems on campus. So, rather than spend your New Year's worrying (!), you can relax....

Progress and History

As times change, so do needs and traditions. As our University prepares for a new century, both in existence and in time, our centennial will pass without the presence of three buildings on our campus.

Roy and Caffery Halls mean little to many people. To others, these buildings evoke memories of times past. Last used in the Spring of 1987, Roy and Caffery Halls were used as dormitories for males at the University. At the time of destruction, these buildings were gutted out buildings that surrounded McCullough Hall. But in 1987 and years prior to that, they stood out as some of the most sought after male dorms on campus.

Dean Edward Pratt described Roy and Caffery Halls as "modern" and "upscale" when they were constructed. He says that these dorms had private entrances but no air condition. Instead of gutted out walls there were large glass windows that stretched almost the entire length of a room's wall. These large windows allowed for abundant light to fill the room. The rooms were bigger than those in other dormitories.

Situated in the back of campus, Roy Hall had a special community feeling. It was a quiet dormitory where students were very close knit. They formed relationships and bonded like family. Where Fletcher Hall now stands, there was once a baseball field. The third floor of Caffery Hall was often used as an "eye in the sky" vantage point to watch the baseball games. Large numbers of students would gather on the balcony to watch their team play.

Times change though, and those two dormitories which were once popular outgrew their usefulness. After being gutted, the dorms lay as an eyesore on campus. Right in the center of the ruins were 250 students housed in McCullough Hall. Set right across the street from Girard Park, the two skeleton buildings presented a stark contrast to the beauty of the park only a few feet away.

Soon enough, the future of these two buildings was put in the hands of architects. Estimations were done to explore the possibility of retrofitting the buildings to meet the needs of today's students. After adding air conditioning, walls, and bringing the building up to today's building codes, it was decided that the cheapest way to fix the problem was to knock the buildings down and start again.

What can we look for in the future? Residents, especially male residents, should keep their eyes open for even more change. Dean Pratt is excited about the future plans for the corner of Lewis Street and Girard Park Circle. He says that new Residence Halls will be built. His goal is to re-create the sense of community that once existed there.

The other building recently leveled was McNaspy Stadium. Built in 1940, McNaspy served as an Athletic Complex at our University for 30 years. It housed student athletes and football games through the 1970 season. In 1971, the move was made to Cajun Field.

During McNaspy's football years, bleachers lined the end zones and the student section. Football games drew record crowds to the stadium. McNaspy Stadium was a center of school spirit for many. Dean Pratt also recalls the memories of McNaspy. Having played there from the 1964 season through the 1967 season, he had "feelings of loss" in seeing his old football stadium meet its demise.

At it turns out, the move towards demolishing the stadium is rooted in the early 1990s. Five years ago, student sentiment was that the stadium was an eyesore and a hazard. Plans were put into the works, and Dr. Authement announced for the first time four years ago that the stadium would be torn down. Between then and now, however, the student sentiment changed. The decision to demolish McNaspy proved to be one of the biggest challenges that the administration would face from the students in quite a while.

As talk of D-day increased, the impending destruction caught a snag. Architecture students started a petition to "save our stadium." They claimed that the stadium was still used and should not be destroyed. The USL band joined the cause soon after. Using the stadium in some of their practices, they too united in the attempt to save McNaspy. In the end, a petition signed by over one thousand students was presented in the attempt to stop demolition. The Student Government Association passed more than one resolution asking for an end to the destruction. This lasted throughout the Spring and Fall semesters of 1998.

Attempts to save the stadium, though, did little good. When students returned for the Spring semester of 1999, heavy machinery had already begun to overtake the building. Student Government Vice-President Brad Bertinot states: "A lot of people expressed sadness over the destruction of McNaspy Stadium - especially from memories like 'Yell like Hell.' However, I do understand that we cannot just leave a building there. I trust the administration in the decisions that they make despite how difficult those may be." When asked about the three building destruction, Architecture student Aaron Hinkston said, "Roy and Caffery had no significance; McNaspy had a history. When you tear down Roy and Caffery, you lose nothing; when you tear down McNaspy, you lose history."

No matter what your opinion was, progress is the driving force into the 21st century. The demolition has occurred, and rather than dwell on the past, it is now time to look to the future. Though our University has lost these treasured places, progress must continue. It is not the first time that a demolition like this has occurred, nor will it be the last. All that we can do is keep the memories of these cherished places alive in our hearts and minds, and remember forever the good times spent there.

GREEK WEEK

Greek Week is a time when all the Greek organizations on campus take part in something together. This spring Greek Week took place on March 8-12.

Tuesday, March 8 was jersey day. The most participants to sign up while wearing their letters was the winner. For the sororities, Delta Delta Delta won first, Alpha Kappa Alpha placed second and Kappa Delta took third. For the Fraternities Kappa Sigma won first, Tau Kappa Epsilon came in second and Sigma Nu placed third. There was also a canned food drive benefiting faith house on this day. The winner for the drive was determined by the amount of cans brought in. Delta Delta Delta took first, Sigma Sigma Sigma came in second and Phi Mu won third in the sorority race. For Fraternities Tau Kappa Epsilon won first, Kappa Sigma was awarded second and Phi Kappa Theta took third.

A guessing game took place on the Wednesday of Greek Week. For this game participants in Greek Week were given the opportunity to guess the number of items in three jars. There was a sorority and fraternity winner for each jar. The overall results for the guessing game were Delta Delta Delta, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Kappa Alpha as the winners. On Wednesday evening Andrea Cooper spoke about date rape and depression.

The Greek Games took place on Thursday, March 11. The games that were played were the egg toss, the dizzy bat, the pie plate gum find, and the cool whip M&M search. Delta Delta Delta, Phi Mu, and Kappa Sigma all won first place.

The final day of Greek Week consisted of a basketball tournament and an awards ceremony. The winner of this tournament out of the fraternities was Tau Kappa Epsilon. Delta Delta Delta won the tournament out of the sororities. Money raised from the tournament was donated to Faith House. Scholarships and awards were handed out and Mr. and Miss Greek were announced. Mr. Greek is Ferris Wheeler and Miss Greek is Heather Dimaya.

Over all, Delta Delta Delta came out first, Phi Mu placed second and Sigma Sigma Sigma took third for the sororities. The first place winner for the fraternities was Tau Kappa Epsilon, second place was Kappa Sigma and third place was Kappa Alpha. Congratulations to all the winners.

Jesse's 2nd SEASON

Following a very successful inaugural season for Head Coach Jesse Evans, the Cajuns had a less than stellar 98-99 season, ending with 13 wins to their 16 losses.

Saying goodbye to last season's top scorers was hard on the team. With more than five new players on the roster, the Cajuns looked to the 18 returning faces and eagerly awaited the return of Reggie Poole.

As the only senior on the team, Evans was counting on him. "It always seems like the teams I've been around that have been the most successful have been senior-led."

Poole's return was expected to take pressure off of Brett Smith and Kendall Regis, a couple of last year's leaders.

The only player to start all 31 games last year, at the beginning of the year, Smith ranked as the leading returning scorer, with a 6.5 average. Smith was ranked #10 in the Sun Belt for rebounding. Meanwhile, Regis brings two years of experience to this year's squad.

Following there most successful season in ten years, the Lady Cajuns, under the guidance of Head Coach Gay Nix, hoped to continue improving. However, the Ladies finished the season with only one win against McNesse State University. As usual, senior forwad Tiffany Green led the team in scoring 21 points and 10 rebounds.

During the season, Green led the team with an outstanding field goal percentage of .468 and 5.4 rebounds per game. Tiffany also became the all time leader in block shots in USL history with 33 blocks this season.

Freshmen Kim Chance, another spark for the Ladies, was not far behind Green with .457 field goal percentage and 4.9rpg.

Inspite of the efforts of the star players, The Lady Cajuns finished with 1 win and 26 losses. With the inspiring young players, the Ladies are destined to improve in the near future.

HOME STRETCH

Hey batter, batter, batter, ...SWING!

USL's Ragin' Cajun baseball team is known for it's lineup of players...and trophies. Not only has USL won six regular season conference titles, but they've also walked away with four conference tournament titles and two conference divisional titles before advancing to five NCAA Regionals.

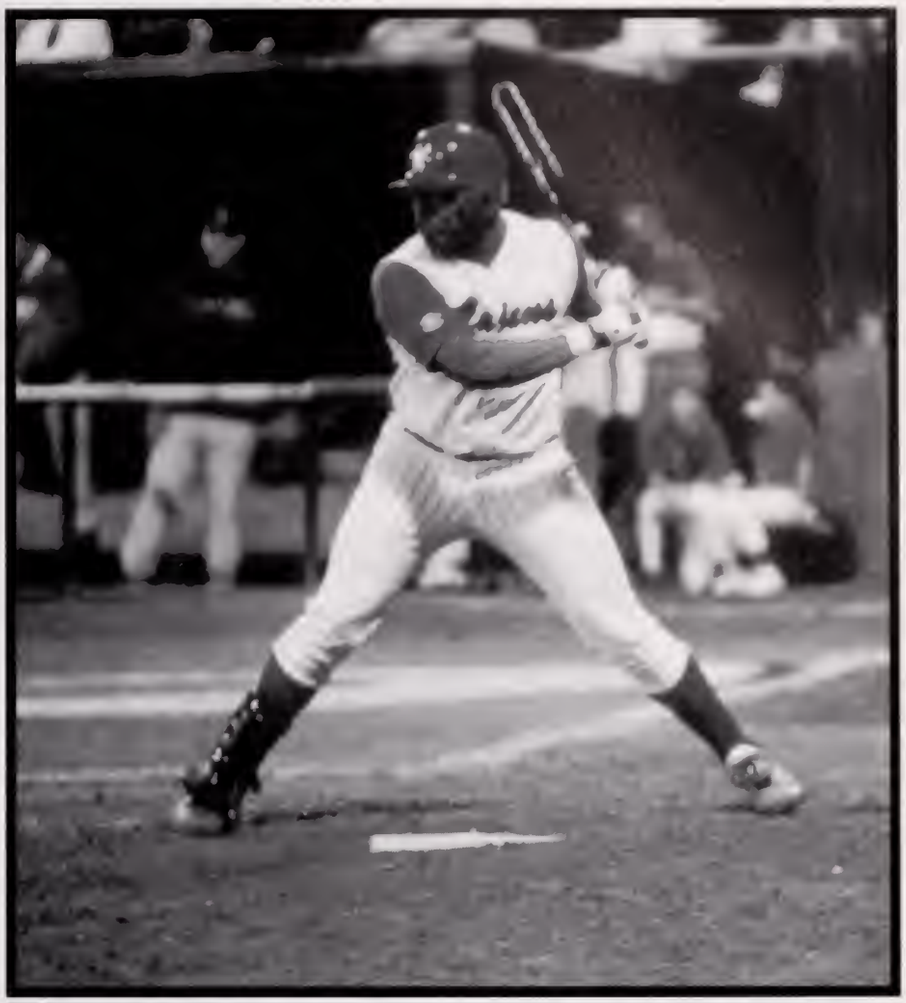

The Cajun success didn't start with the move to Division I. From 1948 through 1971, the Cajuns were part of the Gulf States Conference. They had an impressive run, garnering six conference titles, five of them consecutive, from 1949 through 1953.

Even with past successes, the Cajuns continue to strive for more. With the mentality that they must fight for the conference championship, they plan on returning to the NCAA finals on a regular basis. "To be able to win these championships, the team has to get there consistently," says Head Coach Tony Robichaux.

This season's plan is to work with the pitching and defense. Eight of the returning lettermen are a part of the pitching staff. Allowing the pitchers and defense to handle things on the field will take pressure off of the offense. With the confidence and dedication the team has, who knows what the Cajuns will come through with next?

In twenty-seven years, USL has put together a good record, and looks forward to adding more trophies to the case. Coaches and fans know the best is yet to come.

Ancient Rivalry

In the 1990's, LSU's baseball program has become the standard against which all other collegiate baseball programs are measured. So when the Fighting Tigers go on the road, especially in Louisiana, mammoth crowds seem to follow. A case in point was when LSU made its first trip to USL since the 1995 season on March 9.

An overflow crowd of 5,215, the fourth largest in the 23-year history of M.L. "Tigue" Moore field, turned the grandstand into a sea of vermilion and white, the enthusiasm of which is normally reserved for when championships, not bragging rights, depend on the outcome.

"I'm sure we sold some nachos," deadpanned USL Head Coach Tony Robichaux. "This was a game for the fans." Indeed it was.

The teams combined for 20 runs, as LSU out-slugged the host Cajuns, 12-8, in the 10-inning affair. Still, USL gave the crowd, which was 1,715 more than the listed capacity of Moore field, ample reason to remain vociferous and boisterous throughout the night. The Cajuns battled back from an early 4-0 deficit to take a 5-4 lead over the Tigers in the fourth inning on George O'Dwyer's two-run single through the left side of the infield.

The lead see-sawed back and forth between the teams, with LSU holding a tenuous 8-7 advantage heading into the bottom of the ninth. With Brandon Bowe on the mound, LSU seemed to be in control of the gane abd moments away from heading 50 miles east on Interstate 10 with another victory over its western rival.

However, in a turn of events that could have been scripted by a Hollywood studio, the Cajuns responded with a single run to even the game and force an extra frame.

O'Dwyer led off the ninth with a walk and Nathan Nelson followed with a sacrifice bunt to move O'Dwyer to second base. Mo Douglas' ground out advanced O'Dwyer to third before Neil Simoneaux enetered the game to pinch-run for the Cajun's second baseman.

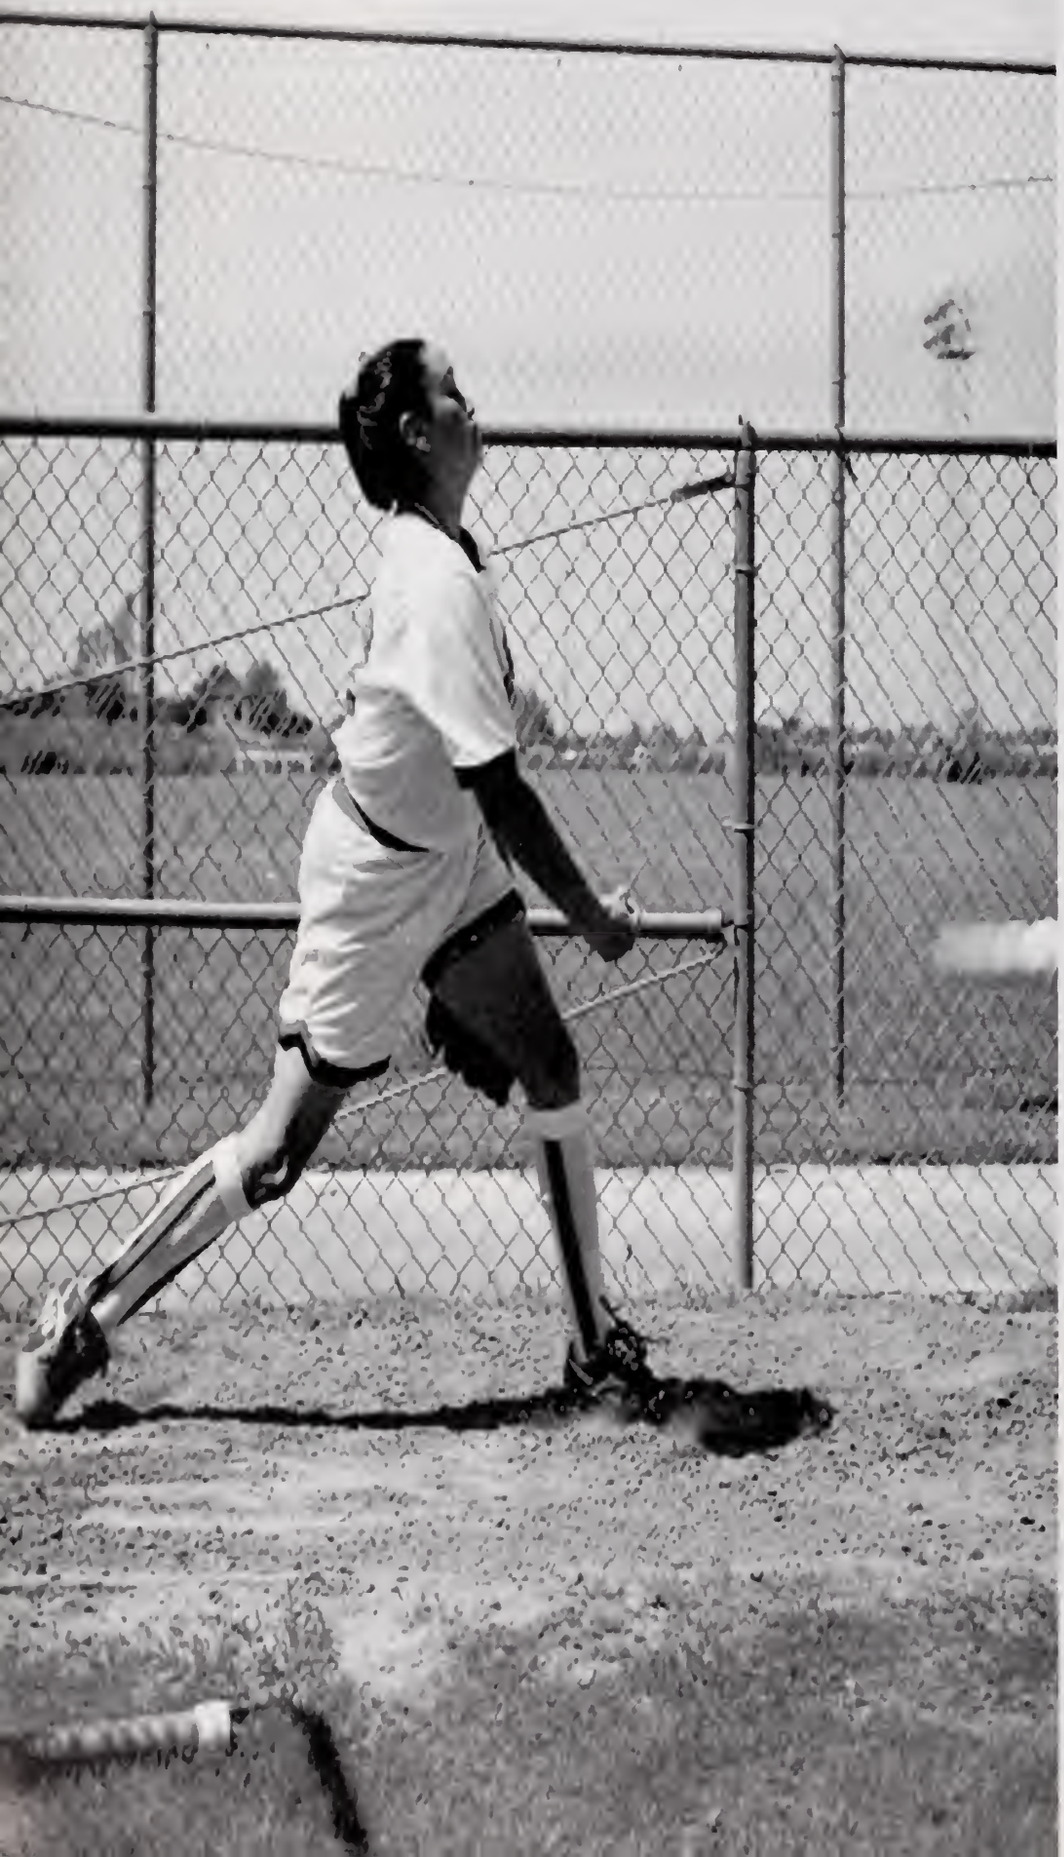

With a man on third, Jeff Robinson, who has proven to have a knack for delivering clutch hits, laced a 2-2 pitch past LSU shortstop Josh Dalton to tie the score and elicit pandemonium from the USL supporters.

However, the LSU bats, which had been forced to scratch out most of their runs, finally awakened in the 10th. Four consecutive doubles translated to three runs, and an RBI single by Tray McClure spelled defeat for the Cajuns.

"It was a good game for both teams, for the fans and for everybody," Robichaux said. "We put ourselves in a position to win and just let the game get away from us in the 10th."

Record-breaking...

Photography by Tamara Smith

The Lady Cajuns Softball Team enjoyed another successful season in 1998. Although they did not reach the NCAA Regional Tournament as they had hoped for, many players set individual and team records. The team finished with 36 wins and 15 losses, and was ranked 19 in the country.

USL had a record-breaking year at bat. The Lady Cajuns tied the school record for doubles in a season with 89. Catcher Kelli Bruce set a USL record with 24 doubles, which was also the second highest in the nation. Outfielder Joni Podhorez was also unstoppable at bat, leading the team with 65 hits and 17 stolen bases.

Freshman first baseman Jana Mower also had an exceptional season. She led USL with a batting average of .395, with a slugging percentage of .651, with 99 total bases, and with four sacrificed flies. Mower was named to the 1998 All-South College Softball Team, the 1998 All-Louisiana Softball Team, and she was named the Louisiana Freshman of the Year.

The team had a total of seven members chosen for the All-Louisiana Softball Team. In addition to Mower, they are outfielder Tiffany Clark, outfielder Joni Podhorez, catcher Kelli Bruce, pitcher Kim Dunlap, infielder Lori Osterberg and pitcher Sara Pacheco.

The Lady Cajuns continued their record-setting ways in 1999. They finished the season ranked fourth in the nation and head coach Yvette Girouard reached her 700 career win.

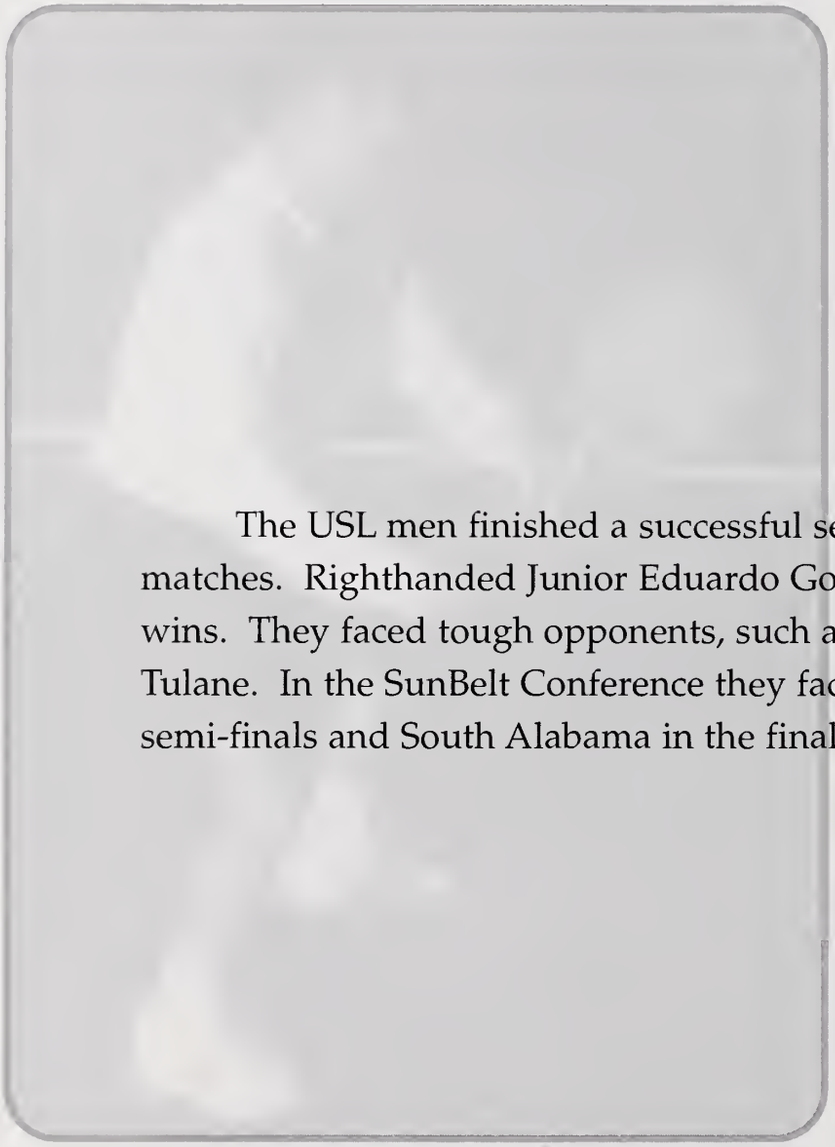

The team finished the regular season, in which they played 36 home games, with a 51-9 record. They hosted three tournaments, the Louisiana Classics, Cajun Invitational and Cajun Invitational II.

The 1999 Lady Cajuns include Alana Addison, shortstop; Jerie Alexander, outfielder; Michele Bailon, second baseman; Micah Barbato, pitcher; Heather Bertrand, third baseman; Kelli Bruce, catcher; Tiffany Clark, outfielder; Melissa Coronado, pitcher; Jaél Dugas, outfielder; Kim Dunlap, pitcher; Megan Fields, catcher; Michelle Hummel, third baseman; Jana Mower, first baseman and Sara Pacheco, pitcher.

Thank You's

The staff of the 1998 L'Acadien would like to extend thanks to a number of people who have lent us energy and support. This year's book contains much history, and therefore required a lot of research.

Liz Landry provided us with tons of valuable information, as did Kathleen Thames and Julie Dronet of the Public Relations department.

Dr. Triche, director of Dupre' Library, was of great assistance in obtaining archival photos; and Dr. Bruce Turner and Jane of the Archives and Louisiana Room were essential in discovering the wealth of information and photos available.

Deans Bergeron and Cottonham were extremely helpful in obtaining Greek information.

Mrs. Susy Arsement was a wonderful friend, confidant , and sounding board for a very frustrated editor.

We can't thank The Student Government Association enough, not just for the copies and faxes, or the number of staff members we got from them, but for the support, help, and friendship provided to us.

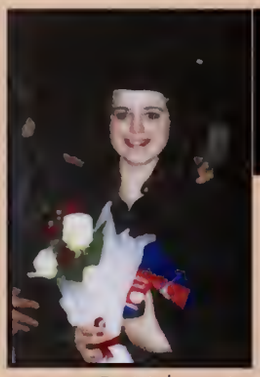

Thanks to Mike Guidry for attempting to recall a program that's been untouched for a while.

Christopher Nodd, our computer god, became a life support for the staff. Thank you SOOOOOOO much!

Trey, in Parking and Transit deserves thanks for putting up with our MacIntosh office, and especially the headshots from hell. Everyone else in Parking and Transit should be recognized for relaying endless messages back and forth between us and our esteemed Mr. Gastineau.

And finally, our biggest thank you is extended to Mr. Lucien Gastineau, head of Parking and Transit, and our advisor. He is the man who knows everything and everybody. He put in hours and hours of night time help and plenty of understanding.

To those we may not have mentioned because of lack of room, thank you as well. It took much more than our small staff to produce this book, and we appreciate each and every one who helped. Thank you!

Editor's Note

Kimberly C Boudreaux

Senior Education Belle Chasse, LA

Not being sure exactly what an editor's note entails, I'd like to use this space to acknowledge all the people who directly or indirectly affected the creation and outcome of this book.

Putting together a yearbook is not easy, and this yearbook had more problems than most. Not only did we get off to a rocky start, but the headshots wouldn't work, and the added difficulty of attempting to make this book the transition from a calendar yearbook to an academic one only served to add to the pressure and confusion. Lucky for me, I had the best support staff in the world, and we managed to make it through.

First, Sarah Viguerie has been a wonderful help. I think she would make a terrific editor herself one day, and hope she gets the opportunity. She was much more than a section editor - basically an assistant editor, and a really good friend.

Charles Claudet, aside from being one of my best friends, proved to be a hell of a layout artist and editor. Together with Wade and Sandy, he put in literally hundreds of hours in order to turn in this awesome book you have in your hands.

Rachelle Roy, all the way from Washington, has put in hour after hour of time, managing to be the most organized Groups Editor this office has ever had.

Tamara Smith deserves a big thank you for stepping in and becoming my Athletics Editor on such short notice. New to the entire yearbook way of life, she did a SUPERB job.

Lucien Gastineau has been a wonderful advisor. He's been extremely understanding, supportive, and helpful, in addition to running one of the most complicated departments on campus and managing to have a personal life. I know we made it hard on him, but he was there for us throughout, and it has been an honor to work for him.

There have been many who have lent support to all of us on staff-who have listened to us vent, helped us gather information, and made everything a little easier on us. Since I get this nice, big page to do so, I just want to say thanks to Christina,Lisa,Jeanne, everybody at Learning Express,and, of course, John-John - for all the drinks, all the pictures, all the e-mail jokes, and hugs.

Lastly, my parents - all of them - but especially my mom, have been so wonderful and encouraging.I love you!

This book was for the student body, who has made my years at USL so wonderful that I hesitate to let them go. I wish everyone could have as wonderful of a college experience as I have.
